LEADERS DIFFER OVER MEANS TO BOOST REVENUE

General Sales Tax Talk Increases on Both Sides of Capitol.

RAINEY BACKS DELAY IN BEER LEGISLATION

O'Connor, Meanwhile, Plans to Push His Measure This Session.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

With the Democrats and Republicans alike acknowledging the necessity for new Federal revenues in the short session of Congress, House and Senate leaders yesterday revealed sharp differences of opinion as to where the additional $500,000,000 shall be raised to balance the 1934 budget.

On both sides of Capitol Hill there is increasing discussion of the general manufacturers' sales tax, as contemplated in the original revenue bill last spring. This source, plus a moderate tax on beer following modification of the Volstead act, is regarded by some members of both parties as offering the only immediate solution to the existing budget problem.

Despite further drastic cuts in the departmental appropriations for 1934, say Democratic leaders in the House ways and means committee, the short session will be compelled to provide for at least $500,000,000 in new revenues, and perhaps as much as $750,000,000 if the prospective European debt negotiations leave next year's receipts from that source in doubt.

Favors Beer Delay.

"I have always been against the sales tax," said Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, the Democratic leader, yesterday, on his return to the Capital, "but I do not see any other possible source of revenue at this time. I think we may have to turn to it as an emergency measure."

Questioned concerning the probabilities of a tax on beer, Mr. Rainey said he favored allowing this question to go over to the new Congress in December, 1933.

"I don't think there is a chance for a tax on beer at this session," he said.

O'Connor to Press Move.

In this, however, the Democratic leader was in direct conflict with Representative John J. O'Connor, of New York, who announced upon his return to Washington yesterday that he would press for immediate action on his beer bill. To expedite consideration of the measure on the floor, Mr. O'Connor said he would seek authority to begin committee hearings before the session begins on December 5.

After repeating three times that he saw no prospect of beer legislation in the December session Mr. Rainey said he favored appointment of a joint committee to determine whether 4 per cent beer would come within the nonintoxicating limit set forth in the eighteenth amendment. But with so many other problems facing the short session, Mr. Rainey believed such an investigation would be about all that could be achieved on prohibition reform. He added he believed beer had not been an issue in the national campaign.

Views in Conflict.

Obviously there is a considerable body of Democratic opinion in the House which views the whole question in quite another light.

On the Republican side, Representative Fred A. Britten, of Illinois, who successfully weathered the Democratic landslide in Chicago on election day, announced his support of both the sales tax and a beer bill in the short session.

"The most important legislation confronting the coming session," he

Trotzky en Route To Danish School

Son Is Required to Stay in Turkey as "Hostage" for Father's Return.

Istanbul, Turkey, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Leon Trotzky, driven from Russia four years ago because he opposed Joseph Stalin, is on the way to Copenhagen with his wife and daughter to deliver a lecture on the Russian revolution at the university there.

His youngest son, going to school on the island of Prinkipo in the Sea of Marmora, was required to remain behind as a sort of hostage to insure his father's return. The family has lived on the island since his exile.

Trotzky is bound for Marseilles on an Italian steamer. From there he will cross France to Dunkirk and go on to Denmark. He hopes he will be permitted to visit Norway and Sweden and Berlin, where his mother is ill in a sanitarium. Possibly he will visit Vienna, for he already has permission to cross Italy from Trieste.

Soviet Facing Acute Food Shortage

Hunger Problem Looms Large as 5-Year Plan Nears End.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Moscow, Nov. 15.—On the eve of the conclusion of the five-year plan—which is being ended in four years—Soviet Russia is struggling with the old and difficult problem of food for its people.

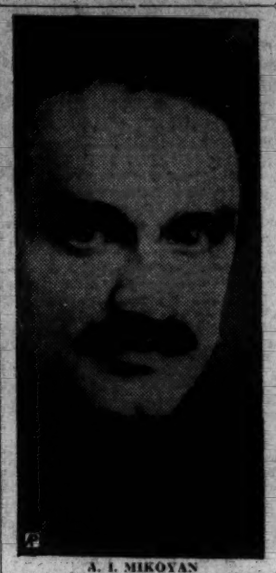
The food situation is bound to be one of the chief problems of the second five-year plan, now in the process of drafting. Russians are subsisting on most stringent rations. There is a serious shortage of such commodities as meat, sugar and butter. In the second plan, by all indications, greater emphasis than ever will be placed on the improvement of general living standards.

Although the state of the country's food supply is admittedly bad—some Russians say it is worse than in 1928, when the five-year plan started—no facts are available here to bear out dire predictions heard abroad of widespread suffering this winter. On the contrary, the 1932 harvest is expected to ease present harsh conditions to some extent.

It is too early at this time to compare the actual accomplishments of the first five-year plan with its ambitions. But officials contend that, in general, the goal of laying a base for an industrialized country and of establishing the foundation for means of production has been attained.

The country failed last year to achieve planned increases in industrial production, and official figures for the first eight months of 1932 indicate it will fail again this year. But 1932 will record appreciable increases over the previous year.

The total of industrial production already has exceeded 1931 by 14 per cent—although this is less than half the 36 per cent contemplated.



A. I. MIKOYAN
who, at the age of 37 years, has recently been given the stupendous task of feeding the Russian masses.

Drive Cut to Four Years; Results Are Short of Goal Set.

The government's policy of temporarily subordinating the needs of the people to its industrialization drive recently caused another flareup of the opposition within the Communist party on the part of a handful of minor members who felt the pace was too swift and wanted to return to individual farming and to open industries to foreign capital. They were quickly squelched by expulsion from the party. The once powerful Zinoviev and Kamenev have followed Leon Trotsky into political oblivion, if not into exile.

The main difficulty has been a maladjustment between agriculture and industry. In the agricultural field the government has had amazing success in its collectivization program, reaching 80 per cent of the land this year. But this was partially offset by the inability to supply the peasant with sufficient quantities of manufactured goods, causing a lack of incentive among the peasantry to work with the efficiency and speed the leaders demand.

The damaging drought of 1931, which caused an enormous crop loss, particularly in grain and sugar beets, sharpened this situation.

The government issued a series of decrees this spring reducing the amount of its collections of grain, meat and other products, in order that the peasant might have more for

LIBBY HOLMAN CASE DROPPED BY STATE

Charges Against Widow of Reynolds and Ab Walker Are Nolle Prossed.

Winston-Salem, N. C., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The State of North Carolina today wiped out the murder charge it had placed against Libby Holman Reynolds and young Albert (Ab) Walker shortly after the fatal shooting last July of Smith Reynolds, millionaire husband of the former and chum of Walker.

Solicitor Carlisle Higgins nolle prossed the case, with a brief announcement that a thorough study of the evidence against the erstwhile idol of Broadway and the 19-year-old Winston Salem youth convinced him the State would not be justified in pressing the charges. The announcement came as a brief and unspectacular interlude during a petty larceny trial.

"In my opinion," he said, "a trial upon the evidence we have would produce one result only—a verdict of acquittal."

The case was officially ended at 12:20 p. m., when Judge A. M. Stack, presiding in superior court, directed

President Arrives At 8:30 A. M. Today

Large Crowd Is Expected to Welcome Party Back to Capital.

Indications last night were that a rousing reception would be tendered President and Mrs. Hoover when their special train arrives at Union Station at 8:30 a. m. today.

A number of Cabinet members, undersecretaries and other officials, many accompanied by wives, are expected to be on hand to welcome the presidential party. The citizenry of the Capital is also expected to be largely represented.

Edward F. Colladay, Republican national committeeman, has asked all Republicans to be on hand. Special police plans have been made to handle the crowd. Large stacks of friendly messages await the President at the White House.

$12,200 Is Paid Canada To Ease 2 Consciences

Ottawa, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The department of national revenue today received a check for $12,200, the largest single amount of conscience money ever paid over here.

A man and woman appeared at the department office, said they were residents of Montreal and explained that the $12,200 represented duty with compound interest on articles brought into Canada over a period of years.

MARCHES ATTACKED BY VETERAN GROUPS

Legion and D. A. V. Pleas Issued to Discourage Capital Invasion.

Former service men throughout the country were asked not to join any of the numerous marches now en route to the Capital in pleas issued last night through the District Department of the Disabled American Veterans, and the Vincent B. Costello Post, of the American Legion.

In a statement last night, Richard C. Molton, departmental commander of the Disabled Veterans of the District, declared the movements toward the Capital were being fostered by Communist agitators. The American Legion post adopted a resolution calling on all service men to avoid the marches, and to cooperate with the District Commissioners.

"The movements now under way from various sections of the country to bring about a high concentration of disgruntled persons openly are being organized by Communistic agitators," Molton said. "It was this same ilk, through its disloyalty, that was trying to stab the American Army in the back in the supreme test of the World War. Of all groups which should refrain from any participation in the present 'marches' are honorably discharged soldiers.

"As a matter of common sense, this drive on to Washington will fail to coerce or influence Congress just as the other ones did. That destitution and suffering is inevitable is shown by the fact that the relief agencies in this city now are strained to the breaking point in caring for the problems at hand."

B. E. F. LEADER CITED IN EXTORTION WRIT

Mrs. Edgell, Who Sheltered Veterans After Rout, Is Complainant.

Baltimore, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Simon E. Sobeloff, United States district attorney, tonight said Wayland R. Kerns, former judge advocate general of the Bonus Expeditionary Force in Washington, was arrested by Federal authorities in Richmond today on a warrant charging attempt to extort $10 from Mrs. Maude Edgell, of Catonsville, Md., and sending a threatening and obscene letter through the mails.

Mrs. Edgell, who had offered a haven near Woodbury, Md., to the veterans after their eviction from Washington last summer, gave District Attorney Sobeloff a letter yesterday which she said she had received from Kerns who, with several other veterans, had stayed at her nursing home after they had left Washington.

Sobeloff said Thomas L. Starr, postoffice inspector, and a deputy United States marshal, holding the warrant, were waiting at the Richmond postoffice when Kerns, at noon today, called at the general delivery window for a letter from Baltimore.

Kerns, according to the Federal prosecutor, was held in Richmond in default of $1,000 bail pending a removal hearing on the charges of extortion and sending a threatening and obscene letter through the mails.

Before the news of Kerns' arrest arrived here, Mrs. Edgell turned over to Sobeloff a second letter, which instructed her to go to Richmond to see Kerns by tomorrow, or to meet him in Washington the latter part of the week.

The first letter was signed "Wayland" and had the return address on the envelope of "W. R. Kerns, General Delivery, Richmond, Va." The second letter was not signed.

The first letter was written on a boat plying between Baltimore and Richmond, and sent special delivery. It stated that unless Mrs. Edgell sent the writer $10 to pay his fare back to Baltimore he would come back anyhow. The letter also insinuated that Kerns would kill her.

Kerns and a group of men came to

Ruth Elder Camp Wins Reno Decree

Weeps on Departing From Courtroom; 'Just Had To,' She Declares.

Reno, Nev., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Ruth Elder Camp, noted aviatrix, obtained dissolution of her third marriage, that to Walter Camp, motion picture producer, here today. She testified she and Camp had been unable to live happily together.

Tears were running down her cheeks as Miss Elder, who was given the right to resume her maiden name, came from the courtroom.

"A great big lump, this big," she said, holding up her two fists, "came up in my throat and I just had to cry. It was awful. Yesterday a letter came from Walter in which he asked me to come home for Thanksgiving dinner, and I hardly knew what to do." Court attaches said Miss Elder had cried throughout the hearing, which was held behind closed doors before Judge Thomas F. Moran.

Inspector Says Lindbergh Got Kidnapers' 14 Notes

Walsh Says He Believes Baby Was Killed in Descent Down Ladder and That United States Hired Rosner to Help in Probe.

Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The Jersey Journal, in the first of a copyrighted series of interviews with Inspector Harry W. Walsh, of the Jersey City police department, said today that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh received fourteen notes from the kidnapers and slayers of his infant son.

Reviewing all the early developments of the still unsolved crime, the paper also quotes Inspector Walsh, one of the key figures in the long investigation, as saying he believed the baby was killed in the descent down the ladder from the Lindbergh nursery at Hopewell and that the United States Department of Justice secured the services of Morris Rosner to deal with the underworld.

The interview told of the discovery of the empty crib by Betty Gow at about 10 o'clock the night of March 1.

"Col. Lindbergh immediately ran upstairs, saw the empty crib, and on the sill of the southeast window of the room found the first of fourteen notes from the kidnapers," the interview said.

"This, incidentally, is the first revelation that there were that many notes. I am not at liberty to make public the contents of the notes, save the two that were photostated, and

More than $100,000 behind schedule, if the Community Chest goal of $2,419,787 is to be attained by November 23, an army of approximately 5,000 Community Chest workers pressed forward yesterday afternoon to increase their efforts, after reporting $194,232.93 as the day's total contributions. A note of cheer was injected into the report meeting held yesterday at the Willard Hotel, when Lloyd B. Wilson, chairman of the group solicitation unit, announced that persons solicited by his group, in spite of wage reductions, were in many cases giving from 15 to 20 per cent more than they gave last year.

Another report which showed to what extent the Chest campaign has taken hold of Washington was made by Louis B. Arnold, captain in the metropolitan unit, who declared that in many places where his workers call the people are unable to give anything, but insist on contributing nickels, dimes and even postage stamps, in order that they may have some part in the Chest work. Everything from pennies given by orphans to thousands of dollars donated by wealthier Washingtonians was included in the reports made yesterday.

The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, was the principal speaker on yesterday's program, which, like all other report meeting programs, was broadcast through the courtesy of Station WJSV. Introduced by Campaign Chairman Newbold Noyes, Bishop Freeman declared in part:

"I welcome and respond to every opportunity afforded me to say a word concerning the gravity of the situation here and over the country and to emphasize this week of unity of action as one of the most important contributions to be made to our community.

"One of the epochal things in our history was a speech made by Presi-

Disorders Precede Wales' Irish Visit

Two Women Are Arrested in Protest Against Prince's Coming.

Belfast, Northern Ireland, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Disturbances broke out tonight on the eve of the arrival of the Prince of Wales to dedicate the new Parliament buildings here tomorrow. A British Union Jack was torn down on Falls road. Republican posters protesting against the visit of the prince were removed by police. Two women were arrested.

The officials charged with his safety stoutly maintain, however, that with the extensive military and police preparations they have provided nothing alarming can happen. It was only a short time ago that there was rioting in the streets here. That was not connected with the visit of the prince, but some of the Northern Ireland groups have announced their opposition to his visit.

In the "loyal" areas there was an air of happy expectancy tonight.

De Valera Wins Battle As Dail Denies Censure

Dublin, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The Dail Eireann refused, 78 to 70, tonight to adopt a vote of censure against the government. The motion was made by former President William T. Cosgrave, and it was based on the De Valera policy of withholding Irish land annuities from the British government. The Labor members of the Dail voted with President Eamon De Valera's Republican supporters.

Since the refusal of the Dublin government to pay the annuities a tariff war with Britain has resulted and the Free State has lost all imperial prefefences in the British market.

Big Family Dividend Denied by Insull, Jr.

Cites His Own Losses in Trying to Save Huge Utility Firms.

Chicago, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—In Federal Court today, as a witness, Samuel Insull, jr., son of the deposed utility magnate, denied that any of the Insull family received a $40,000 "dividend" from Insull companies at a time when the companies were "technically insolvent."

Young Insull appeared as attorneys for petitioning creditors of the bankrupt Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and the Corporation Securities Co. continued their search for assets.

He differed sharply with attorneys and said that in his opinion none of the companies was insolvent in December, 1931.

The younger Insull was president at a $70,000 a year salary of Insull Utilities Investments, Inc., and Corporation Securities Co., of Chicago. He returned a week ago from Paris, where he saw his father off for Greece, whence the elder Insull was fighting extradition to Chicago for embezzlement and larceny in connection with the failure of his $2,000,000,000 public utilities empire.

Testifying with apparent anxiety for accuracy, young Insull recalled in carefully chosen words that in December, 1931, "the point was reached where, because of the declining securities markets, the two companies were unable to continue posting additional collateral" for loans of millions of dollars from New York and Chicago banks.

The loans were obtained with stock of the underlying Insull operating companies as security, Insull explained, and the companies did not wish the stock to be "dumped" on the market by the banks.

Therefore, he said, he was in-

WRIGHT, ARCHITECT, GETS KIDNAP LETTER

Bodyguard Is Ordered After He Reveals Threats of Abduction.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—When Frank Lloyd Wright, famous architect, returns from New York this week-end, to Taliesin, his beautiful home near Spring Green, Wis., he will be accompanied by a bodyguard to protect him against a threatening kidnaping, friends here said today.

The news that Wright had received a letter from an extortionist November 5, demanding money under the threat of abduction for ransom, leaked out today.

Madison police sought the author of the letter, postmarked from this city November 4.

Considerable secrecy surrounded this latest episode in the colorful career of the noted architect. Inquiry at Taliesin, near where Wright recently founded a unique school embracing all the arts, revealed that he had been in New York for several days.

A group of students at the Wright School, it was reported, have maintained an armed guard at Taliesin daily.

The exact contents of the threatening letter were not made public. It was signed "Committee of Vigilantes."

Whoever wrote the letter, friends of the architect said, was familiar with Wright's life, for it contained slurring references to episodes in his career.

The incident focused public attention on Wright for the second time in two weeks. He recently was engaged in a fist fight on a street in Madison with C. R. Secrest. In the melee the architect's nose was broken.

The following day five students of the Wright school gave Secrest a horsewhipping. Later the students were arrested and fined. Secrest is now at liberty pending hearing on a charge of assault.

The Wright School, a small institution with a selected enrollment, is the architect's latest creation. It was founded on the theory that architecture is the basis of true culture. The students, called apprentices, till the soil and work in shops on the grounds while studying the arts and sciences.

ROOSEVELT STUDIES DEBT PARLEY PLANS

Expects to Leave Sick Bed Today and Resume Dual Role in Government.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 15 (U.P.).—Propped up by pillows in an old-fashioned high-backed mahogany bed, President-elect Roosevelt tonight mapped plans for his war debt conference with Herbert Hoover next week.

The governor, recovering from what he described as "a slight touch of the flu," chatted amiably with a group of newspapermen. He told them he hoped to leave for Washington the first of next week.

Roosevelt looked the picture of health in spite of his five-day stay in his room. Garbed in a silk dressing gown, of conservative blue, the next President sat smoking and looking over a stack of telegrams that were piled on the blankets, as the correspondents entered.

"What is new on the debt situation?" was the first question asked.

"I have received numerous messages," he remarked, "but none has been opened as yet."

"When do you plan on seeing the President?"

"I have hopes of starting for the White House the first part of the week," he answered.

"Do you anticipate the meeting will be more than one day?"

The governor left that interrogation unanswered and merely smiled.

Friends pointed out, however, the conference will be necessarily short, as Roosevelt has arrangements that

4 Bandits Free Cashier After $5,000 Robbery

Panhandle, Tex., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—G. W. Newson, cashier of the First State Bank of Stinnett, Tex., was released unharmed on the highway near Panhandle tonight by four men who kidnaped the banker today after obtaining approximately $5,000 in a raid on the depository.

Newson said he was forced to enter an automobile in which the quartet of robbers fled the scene. Officers continued a search for the robbers tonight.

Jobless and Illinois House Compete in Booing Contest

Hunger March on Capital Figures in Hectic Demonstration.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 15 (U.P.).—Jobless citizens booed Illinois' State Legislature and the lawmakers booed the citizens during a wild half hour of threatened fist fights today on the floor of the House.

Police broke in, were booed, and struggled half an hour before they could quiet the combatants. One hundred unemployed demonstrators from Chicago were admitted to the gallery. Seven of their leaders were appointed to make speeches demanding relief.

The solons granted them only two minutes of oratory each. That so angered their comrades that they began to shout epithets.

"How Dry I Am" Helps Advance Repeal Action

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 15 (U.P.).—While Representative Raymond O'Keefe, of Chicago, sang "How Dry I am" in a loud tenor voice, the Illinois Statehouse representatives adopted a resolution calling upon the governor to summon a special legislative session to repeal the State dry law.

When O'Keefe had finished his song the clerk had tabulated the vote, 68 to 21.

As the seven talked, the lawmakers heckled them. ... ample:

RISING DEFICIT DIMS HOPE OF DEBTS RELIEF

Hostile Congress Seems Assured as Belgium Joins Move.

HOOVER BACK TODAY TO TAKE UP STUDY

Pleas From Other European Powers Expected; Italy Likely to Pay.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Prospects of a deepening deficit in the national budget yesterday tended to overcast the possibility of reconsideration of the intergovernmental debts due this country on December 15 and practically eclipsed the hopes of congressional approval of extending the Hoover moratorium.

Some other sources of revenue will have to be tapped to make up the default of $125,000,000 if the European debtor nations of the United States fail to make good this payment.

The Belgian government yesterday added its plea to the voice of Great Britain and France in requesting the delay of the December payments until the general question of debts could be discussed. The Belgian note was similar in content and in tone to those already received here from London and Paris.

Italy Expected to Pay.

Italy stood revealed last night as the only one of the great powers that has not yet asked for debt clemency. It was believed possible that Premier Mussolini might choose this opportunity to make a dramatic gesture of friendliness for the United States and pay the installment that was defaulted by other European nations. Mussolini was the first executive to subscribe unequivocally to the Hoover moratorium when it first came out and his generous settlement of the Italian debt—25 cents on the dollar—may inspire him to pay now when other countries—France especially—fail.

It is believed that following the precedent established with the other messages from European debtors, the Belgian note was forwarded to Albany to the President-elect for his information.

The Belgian note was almost an echo of the French and British requests in its plea for postponement of the $2,125,000 due in interest payment from the government of King Albert.

30 Watching Fire Hurt in Explosion

Boston Crowd Is Spattered With Gasoline; Neighborhood Jarred.

Boston, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—More than 30 persons received burns tonight in a shower of blazing gasoline from a drum which exploded in the East Boston district, near the entrance to the East Boston tunnel.

None of the victims, who included many children, was burned seriously.

A crowd was attracted as firemen were called to extinguish a fire in a gasoline drum in a vacant lot. As the crowd pressed close, the drum exploded, sending flames high in the air and setting afire the clothing of many of the victims.

The neighborhood was jarred by the detonation.

PRESIDENT IS SILENT ON HIS DEBT POLICY

Nearing Washington After 8,383-Mile Journey of Two Weeks.

On Board Presidential Special en route to Washington, Nov. 15 (A.P.). On the eve of his return to the White House—he is set to arrive there before 9 a. m. tomorrow—President Hoover today formulated but kept silent on the pressing war debt policies. He will discuss these policies shortly with Franklin D. Roosevelt, President-elect.

As his train rolled swiftly across Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio and headed on tonight through West Virginia, aids of the President reported that barring unexpected developments he would continue to keep his own counsel until reaching the Executive Mansion.

Although the President spent part of his time today at the table desk in his private car, one of his secretaries said he would not plunge completely into the debt problem until he was more closely in touch with affairs in Washington.

Delegation Is Received.

During his travels today the President recrossed for the first time since turning to the Far West one of the old trails of his campaign. At St. Louis, where he delivered one of his campaign speeches, a delegation of about twoscore personal and political friends were received by the President in the parlor car of the train.

In the huge, dimly lighted train shed of the St. Louis station another group waited and accorded him an ovation, passing up to him various gifts and bouquets of flowers.

Despite a steady rain, the first encountered by the presidential party since leaving St. Louis on the Westward trip, other crowds welcomed Mr. Hoover along the route. More bouquets and other gifts were handed up to him during the morning at Flora and Olney, Ill.

Pauses in Cincinnati.

When the Chief Executive reaches the National Capital tomorrow morning he will have traveled 8,383 miles by rail through 22 States since his departure nearly two weeks ago on the final stage of his unsuccessful political campaign. In all during his drive for reelection he traversed about 16,000 miles.

Cincinnati, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Returning to Washington, President Hoover passed through Cincinnati tonight on his way from California. His special train made an operating stop at Storrs Station, on the edge of the downtown district and proceeded at 6:28 p. m. (E. S. T.).

Appearing on the rear platform of his train with Mrs. Hoover, the President told a crowd of railway officials estimated at about 150 he appreciated its good will in waiting in chill rain and darkness to greet him. Mrs. Hoover chatted with those nearest the platform.

Souvenir Is Presented.

Several bouquets were handed to the President and Mrs. Hoover. A messenger handed up a souvenir from the suburban town of Mariemont—a photograph of the Youth Monument there, having in a pocket at its back a copy of the community's little newspaper showing the President was given a majority there in the election a week ago.

St. Louis, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—President Herbert Hoover is apparently willing to shift some of the responsibility to "the other fellow."

Grasping the hand of Dr. E. B. Clements, Republican national committeeman from Missouri, who led a band of Republicans to the President's special train as it stopped here today, the President asked:

"How are you, Doc?"

"I'm contented but not satisfied," Dr. Clements replied.

"We'll let the other fellow take some of the responsibility now," the President said, smiling cheerfully.

Big Liquor Supply Is on Hand in U. S.

Most of 10,000,000 Gallons Produced for Medicinal Purposes.

(Associated Press.)

On hand in the United States at present are 5,695,000 gallons of aged whisky plus nearly 5,000,000 gallons of newly produced whisky which will be available for bottling between the fall of 1933 and the spring of 1936.

Much of this represents whisky being produced for medicinal purposes. Brandy in bond in September of this year amounted to slightly more than 1,000,000 gallons and wines in bonded wineries and storerooms last June 30 totaled 18,659,000 gallons.

Government officials said yesterday that beer, produced for the cereal beverage trade but not as yet dealcoholized, amounts to 25,000,000 barrels.

LEGISLATORS BOOED BY 100 UNEMPLOYED

Comrade Henri Lebau, of Chicago, "Don't drop the match."

"You're silly," shouted an unidentified House member.

"I am not," replied Lebau. "Boo, boo," cried the gallery.

"How did you men get down here?" asked Representative Thomas O'Grady, of Chicago.

"We drove down in automobiles," replied Lebau.

"Whose automobiles?"

"The automobiles of our unemployed comrades," said Lebau.

"Boo," said the legislators, en masse. "Boo, yourselves," returned the 100 comrades.

Comrade Joe Weber booed the loudest. Sergeant at Arms Frank Leonard pushed him into the hall, put a guard over him and told him to stay out.

Lebau used his final minute to say that the Communists, who are organizing a hunger march upon Washington, did not want charity.

"We only want $100,000,000 for unemployment relief," he added, as the solons booed again. Police arrived then, but couldn't eject the demonstrators. The latter said they wouldn't leave unless Comrade Weber was released. The police said they didn't want him, so Comrades Lebau, Weber and the 98 others went their way and the legislators continued their deliberations.

Honduran Federals Report Gains and 300 Casualties

Tegucigalpa Claims Rebels Are Looting Several Small Towns in Important Banana Section; Insurgents Strengthen Lines in Western Area.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Claims of victory in several encounters with revolutionary forces were set forth today in a government communique which asserted that 300 men had been killed or wounded in a twelve-hour battle for the possession of San Pedro on the north coast.

The government announced that it had broken up an assault on the important City of Trujillo. A group of 200 rebels, under the command of Vidal Casco, looted the small towns of Saya and Tocoa in the Trujillo banana district, it was officially reported, and then set forth for Trujillo.

The port commander, Gen. Filadelfo Mahoudeau, and a group of Nationalists under Gen. Federico Ordonez attacked the rebels near Tocoa Monday evening. The rebels were badly defeated, the announcement said, and were forced to retreat toward the interior town of Ilanchito.

Gen. Francisco Martinez Funes, in command at San Pedro after an all-day battle yesterday, reported that the civilian population, both foreign and native, was safe and that order had been restored.

The rebels were reported still to be in control of La Esperanza and other western towns.

EUROPE'S DEBT RELIEF HOPES DIMMED BY MOUNTING DEFICIT

ject of war debts and disarmament can only be gauged by the planks of the Democratic platform which cover these two subjects.

President Hoover, who arrives here this morning from his transcontinental dash, may take up with Gov. Roosevelt the other problems, such as taxation, the St. Lawrence Treaty and governmental reorganization, which are expected to lap over to the Roosevelt administration.

Ambassador Paul May called at the State Department yesterday morning to present the appeal from his government for a delay in the December 15 payment of the Belgian debt to the United States. Something more than the prosaic transaction involved was felt in the Belgian appeal. President Hoover in the days of the war had saved the Belgian people from starvation and had won internaticnal attention and the undying affection of the Belgian people by his administration of the Belgian relief.

Note From Brussels.

The note from Brussels was in the form of a memorandum, similar in this respect to the French diplomatic demarche. It was much shorter than the appeal that had been received from London and Paris, but its object was essentially the same. After repeating the terms of the other two notes with regard to postponement of the December 15 payments, the note states:

"The Belgian government has the honor to make the same request in respect to payments due from Belgium." The text of the note follows almost word for word the French note. The Belgian sacrifice involved in the original Hoover moratorium, the still greater sacrifice entailed in the Lausanne agreements were also eloquently recalled.

"It consented to make sacrifices which were particularly heavy and which have profoundly affected the financial situation of Belgium. The Belgian government remains convinced that the difficulties with which the world is faced today can not be overcome unless the nations pursue a resolute policy of cooperation and mutual assistance. With this idea in mind and in a spirit of friendship, the Belgian government requests the Government of the United States to examine the proposals which it has the honor to submit."

Other proposals are reported to be in preparation in other European capitals.

Fletcher for Full Payment.

Congressional opposition to any trafficking on the debts stiffened yesterday with some little indication that the attitude of hostility can only be modified by an unconditional payment of the December 15 amounts. Senator Fletcher (Democrat), of Florida, declared yesterday that the United States should insist upon the payment of the debts regardless of any contingency. He said:

"This country ought to remember the attitude of Andrew Jackson when he was President. He went right out and collected what was owed the United States."

A more conciliatory attitude was expressed by Representative Hartsill Ragon (Democrat), of Arkansas, author of the rider to the joint resolution approving the Hoover moratorium. He declared that his amendment had been adopted unanimously in the way and means committee and that several of his colleagues had intended to veto the resolution of approval, except for the presence of the contingency clause sponsored by him. He said yesterday:

"I am, however, of the opinion that the European debtors of the United States might have chosen a more propitious approach for their debt clemency plea. I think they should have sent along their December 15 check, and then asked for reconsideration of the entire debt problem. Under these conditions, I think that a favorable sentiment might have been created in Congress for dealing with the debt problem in a generous spirit of friendliness."

Leaders May Convene.

There was some talk last night of a possible convocation at the White House by President Hoover of the various political leaders of Congress in anticipation of the visit of the President-elect next week. It was recalled that President-elect Roosevelt had requested that President Hoover confer with some of the Democratic leaders "at the earliest opportunity."

The reservation which was made to his acceptance by the New York Governor indicates that he may restrict his conversations to the role of observer only.

The pointed reference which he made in his reply to the President, clearly shows that the Congress and the President were "in the last analysis" the responsible elements in the discussions and that he will decline to take any responsibility for the action that may be determined upon by the President and his advisors.

Defeat Seen by Rainey.

The statement that any move to revise the debts would be defeated "in this or any other Congress" was made yesterday by Representative Rainey, of Illinois, Democratic House leader.

"I see no reason why the United States Government should give the foreign debtors any more money," Rainey said. "I am against the moratorium and opposed the first one last year. I think it is one of the silliest things ever presented to Congress.

"Personally, I would favor a scaling down of the debts if we could get down the foreign countries' tariff walls but it is useless to talk about reduction in armaments because the next war will not be fought with the armaments now in use."

In Jackson, Miss., Senator Harrison, Democrat, according to Associated Press dispatches, asserted that "Congress will not be bound by any commitments of the President, nor, in my opinion, will it modify its position in regard to these debt payments."

New Yorker Raps Hoover.

Saying that Congress alone must settle the debt question, Representative Black (Democrat), New York, in a statement issued here charged that "the presidential activity has been disastrous and impertinent." He added:

"The executive duty is to keep Congress informed of proposed negotiations. In this, Hoover has been at least neglectful."

Both Harrison and Black opposed modification or cancellation. Harrison suggested a special session of Congress if "President Hoover feels that this Government should take some affirmative action in view of the foreign debtors' request."

Senator Swanson, of Virginia, ranking Democrat on the foreign relations committee, interpreted the Democratic platform as being in opposition to reduction, as well as cancellation, even though the word "reduction" was not mentioned in it, and said "that pledge must be kept."

Hurley Preparing Memorial Speech

Although Ill, He Hopes to Attend Dedication at Kitty Hawk.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary of War Hurley went from his office to his home yesterday morning suffering from a slight cold, which he is eager to shake off in the next few days so as to be able to participate Saturday at the unveiling of the Kitty Hawk Wright memorial, erected in commemoration of the first flight of a power-driven airplane 29 years ago. During his stay at home the Secretary will work on his speech to be delivered Saturday noon when he formally accepts the $250,000 monument from the contractors on behalf of the Government.

Orville Wright, the pioneer flier, and thousands of other persons from all sections of the country are planning to journey to the small sand spit off the North Carolina coast where the two hopeful, aspiring bicycle repair men for the first time conquered the air.

Wilbur Wright, brother of Orville, died some years ago. The unveiling will be in the hands of Miss Ruth Nichols, one of the world's outstanding fliers.

Youngquist Off to Bar Capone's Freedom Try

(Associated Press.)

Assistant Attorney General C. Aaron Youngquist left Washington yesterday for Atlanta to direct the Government's case against Al Capone's latest attempt to win freedom from his ten-year penitentiary sentence.

Capone, Chicago gang leader, is seeking through habeas corpus proceedings, to escape his lengthy sentence. Youngquist, who is in charge of prohibition prosecution, will direct the Federal attorneys at Atlanta.

Text of Belgium's Vote Asking Relief on Debts

(Associated Press.)

The following is the full text of the memorandum received yesterday from Belgium, asking a reexamination of the war debt situation, and an extension of the debt holiday:

The British and French governments, moved by a desire to alleviate the serious difficulties resulting from the economic depression, have, in their notes dated the tenth and the eleventh, respectively, of the present month, proposed to the Government of the United States that it cooperate in a reexamination of the problems arising from the intergovernmental debts.

Basing their action upon the principles adopted during the recent conference of Lausanne, they suggested that the period of suspension on payments due to the United States be extended for the duration of this reexamination. The Belgian government has the honor to make the same request in respect to payments due from Belgium. Although the rights of Belgium to obtain complete material restoration have been unanimously recognized from the beginning, the Belgian government did not hesitate in July, 1931, to accept the proposal for a moratorium which was made by the President of the United States.

A year later, in the interests of peace and economic recovery, it adhered to the Lausanne agreements. In so doing, it consented to make sacrifices which were particularly heavy and which have profoundly affected the financial situation of Belgium. The Belgian government remains convinced that the difficulties with which the world is faced today can not be overcome unless the nations pursue a resolute policy of cooperation and mutual assistance. With this idea in mind and in a spirit of friendship, the Belgian government requests the Government of the United States to examine the proposals which it has the honor to submit.

BUREAU OF CENSUS TO DROP 630 SOON

Unit Will Be Left With 730 After Temporary Workers Are Released.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The Bureau of the Census will drop approximately 630 temporary employes at the end of this month, Census Director William M. Steuart announced yesterday.

Secretary E. Claude Babcock, of the Civil Service Commission, disclosed at the same time that most of those in this group have no civil service status and can not be listed on re-employment rolls.

Director Steuart said the dismissals will precede completion of the three-year task of assembling 1930 census data, for which they were hired. The bureau will be left with a normal working force of about 730 employes.

The discharges, so far as could be determined, were influenced in no way by the economy act, but normally were scheduled to occur as the gigantic census project reached the end of its tether.

Releases During Year.

Over a period of more than a year, the Census Bureau has been releasing temporary employes as work has decreased, scaling down positions from the high total of 6,022, reached November 1, 1930.

The prevailing tightness of jobs in other Government departments at this time, however, makes it particularly unpropitious for workers released to obtain new Federal connections.

A number of those scheduled to be let out between now and the end of the month yesterday called at the Civil Service Commission. In no case, Secretary Babcock said, was their status such that they could be listed with other discharged and furloughed workers in the commission's reemployment pool.

"Most of the census workers to be released took a special Civil Service examination, held to meet the 1930 census situation, and were employed with the specific understanding that the work would not be permanent," Secretary Babcock said.

"The commission would do anything it could to help them, but is limited by law."

Simultaneous with the Census Bureau announcement, Director Steuart made public his annual report, as of June 30, 1932.

Number Cut to 2,040.

The report revealed that by June 30, the bureau had cut down the number of employes on its pay roll to 2,040, compared with 5,814 the year previous.

"During the twelve months just completed the bureau reduced its monthly pay roll by $467,334, or from $788,707 on July 1, 1931, to $321,373 on July 1, 1932," the report stated. "Before the close of the present calendar year the number of employes must be reduced to a permanent force of about 730."

After December 31 the regular force of the bureau will be actively employed on current and periodical statistical compilations which the bureau is required by law to make, including current statistics of production, and annual compilations of births, deaths, marriages and divorces.

34 Volumes in Report.

Director Steuart said this will be the first time a decennial census has been completed within the prescribed three-year period allotted. Thirty-four volumes, aggregating 40,000 pages, will comprise the final reports. The reports, containing a wealth of statistical data, are now at the Government Printing Office.

A sharp increase in the number of veterans and their wives seeking to enter the Government service was reported yesterday at the Civil Service Commission. This class of applicants has preference under the law. Veterans with service-connected disability, wives of totally disabled veterans, and widows of veterans are privileged to ask an examination for any class of work for which there is an employment register. They are given a ten-point allowance. Passing, their names are placed at the top of the register.

There were 1,065 such applications in the fiscal year 1931, 6,185 in 1932, and the total reached 2,141 for the first quarter of the present fiscal year. More than half of those taking last year's examination received appointments.

call for his presence in Warm Springs, Ga., Thanksgiving Eve, when he will meet with the board of trustees of Warm Springs Foundation for their annual meeting.

"Have you anything to say concerning the hearing on the St. Lawrence waterway treaty?" he was asked.

"I am now in a dual role so far as the St. Lawrence is concerned," Roosevelt said, "and I do not want to discuss the situation at this time."

"How long are you going to stay in bed?"

"Oh," Roosevelt remarked, stretching, "I think I'll get up tomorrow and resume my normal daily schedule of conferences."

"Did you have any callers today?" he was asked.

"Only State officials," was the reply. "As a matter of fact," he added, "there are going to be very few callers between now and Saturday, when I leave to go down to Hyde Park for a day or two."

From Hyde Park the President-elect will go to New York City, where a party in his honor will be held Monday night by members of the Democratic campaign headquarters staff. At New York he will board his special car for Washington and Warm Springs.

Bond Refinancing Planned by B. & O.

Proposal Will Be Given in Detail to Holders at Early Date.

Baltimore, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—A plan for the refinancing at or before maturity of $63,250,000 of its convertible bonds due March 1, 1933, will be tendered the bondholders of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, a statement issued by the company today said.

The proposal will be made in detail to the bondholders in the near future, the statement said, and it is understood the railroad company will offer 50 per cent in cash and 50 per cent in the company's refunding and general mortgage bonds.

The plan would become effective if and when substantially all of the bondholders have assented to it.

Embargo Denied On Cuban Sugar

Recent Order on Imports Step in Investigation of Dumping Charge.

(Associated Press.)

The recent order to customs officials to suspend appraisals of Cuban refined sugar imports pending an investigation of dumping charges was said at the Bureau of Customs yesterday to involve no posting of a special dumping bond by importers.

The order, issued by the appraisers at New York, following complaints from domestic producers that Cuban sugar was being sold in the United States for less than in Cuba, was described as the first step in an investigation of the charges and not to be considered an embargo against the Cuban product.

Referring to recent orders such as that issued in the case of Cuban sugar, the memorandum said that no special dumping bonds had been required.

WATER TREATY HELD HARMING RAILROADS

Opponents Fight Ratification Before Subcommittee of Senate.

(Associated Press.)

Fighting to prevent ratification of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty, opponents of the project described it before a Senate foreign relations subcommittee yesterday as a move that would endanger railroad securities and force the carriers into Government ownership.

Spokesmen for the roads, railroad security holders and Eastern seaboard cities were heard in the second day of argument against the treaty which was signed by Canada and the United States last July.

The committee announced that opponents would testify for the remainder of this week and that friends of the project would have a hearing later.

Fred N. Oliver, general counsel of the Security Owners Association, said, "The creation of this additional transportation facility will further endanger investments in American railroads already threatened by adverse conditions and thus would directly affect millions of depositors in savings banks and policyholders of insurance companies."

Declared Unnecessary.

He added:

"This damage to the railroads and to railroad security owners would be without any compensating benefit to the general public. The added facilities proposed are wholly unnecessary and even wasteful from a public point of view."

Oliver testified that the condition of the railroads has "grown no better" since the emergency legislation last winter and that carriers representing only 20 per cent of the Nation's mileage would earn enough this year to cover their interest and other charges.

He called the waterway proposal a "waste of resources of appalling proportions."

Before Oliver went on the stand, Alfred P. Thom, general counsel of the Association of Railway Executives, completed the argument he began Monday that the waterway would constitute a subsidized transportation service in competition with the rail carriers.

Executives Back Views.

Questioned by members of the committee, he said his views were indorsed by all class 1 railroad executives, including the heads of the Middle Western roads.

Boston, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Frederic S. Snyder, president of the chamber of commerce, announced tonight the board of directors had voted to oppose at this time the development of the St. Lawrence waterway.

The project with a cost estimated at $800,000,000, the chamber held, must be justified by the return and to this sum they said they felt it will apparently be necessary to add large expenditures to deepen harbors and channels in the lakes.

The chamber held that with foreign countries producing grain in increased quantities and our own population growing and consuming more grain a decline in export appears more probable than does an increase.

Alexandrian Loses Case on Insurance

Writ of Error Issued by State Supreme Court in $1,000 Claim.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The Supreme Court today granted a writ of error to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., which complained of a judgment of the Corporation Court of Alexandria against it and in favor of Georgia Hart for $1,000.

The insurance was taken out for appellee's benefit by her son, William Hart. The policy was issued July 22, 1931. William Hart died November 2 1931. Appellant says that the insured man died of pulmonary tuberculosis. It further declared that in making application for insurance he stated he never had any lung disease, although he had been admitted to Piedmont Sanatorium for treatment for tuberculosis.

Argument has been completed in the court in the case of the Commonwealth against J. E. Rose, Richmond commissioner of the revenue. The case involves about $11,000 in fees which the State contends should have been paid into the treasury of the Commonwealth. Rose contends his office operated under a city charter provision which made no such requirement. His position was upheld by the city Circuit Court.

Harold F. McCormick In Baltimore Hospital

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 15 (U.P.).—Harold Fowler McCormick, Chicago multimillionaire and former husband of Ganna Walska, opera singer, has entered Johns Hopkins Hospital here for a rest and a general examination.

The 60-year-old head of the International Harvester Co. was cheerful as he told reporters he expected to remain in the hospital only a few days. His physician, Dr. Hugh H. Young, said today he had not completed the diagnosis of Mr. McCormick's case and was unable to explain the nature of his patient's illness.

SMITH WILL SPEAK IN RED CROSS DRIVE

Takes Roosevelt's Place on Nation-Wide Broadcast of Appeal Tonight.

With President-elect Roosevelt unable to appear on the Nation-wide radio broadcast of the American Red Cross tonight, it has been announced that Alfred E. Smith will be the featured speaker on the roll call program from 11 to 11:30 p. m.

Gov. Roosevelt canceled his intentions of joining in the annual Red Cross appeal for funds, on the advice of his physician. It was previously announced that he would be the principal speaker over a contry-wide hook-up.

In announcing that he would be unable to appear on the radio program, the governor, in a message to Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, declared:

"It is with very genuine regret that I find it impossible to lend my voice tonight in the Nation-wide radio appeal, due to the cold from which I am just recuperating.

"Faced with obligations far in excess of those at any former period of its existence, the Red Cross deserves the support of every loyal American. I wish it were possible for me to make a personal appeal to every one in our land, who is not himself or herself destitute, to enroll in this great cause."

After Gov. Roosevelt's regrets reached the Red Cross headquarters, Chairman Payne asked Smith to join the program.

As the program now stands it will include a brief address by Judge Payne, followed by the presentation of Smith. Three beneficiaries of the Red Cross will be heard—a Northwestern farmer from Minneapolis over Station WCCO, an unemployed veteran from Station WBBM, Chicago, and a New England woman from Station WAAM, Boston.

U. S. Probes Story Of Robins' Killing

Agent at Boston Studying Tale That Rum Runners Drowned Him.

(Associated Press.)

Prohibition Bureau officials said yesterday that Robert J. Coyne, one of its investigators stationed at Boston, is studying the story told by a man arrested in the Massachusetts city that the missing Col. Raymond Robins, friend of President Hoover, was drowned in the Atlantic by rum-runners.

The prohibition officials said the investigation was to insure against overlooking any angle that might lead to a solution of the Robins mystery.

Under Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock's direction, the bureau's agents conducted a widespread search for the dry leader, who was last seen in New York, presumably on his way to keep an appointment at the White House. The investigation established no clews.

Borah and Wife Return to Capital

Thanks Doctors for Help in Winning Parrot Fever Battle.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Borah, back again in Washington from Boise, where his wife had that unusual malady, parrot fever, sought out and thanked Dr. Charles Armstrong, the psittacosis expert who saved her life by giving his blood as serum. Dr. Armstrong had the disease a year or two ago.

To Surg. Gen. Hugh S. Cumming, of the Public Health Service, Borah also expressed his appreciation for the efficacious long-distance scientific aid rendered his wife. Serum treatment for Mrs. Borah was recommended by telegraph by the scientists who studied the disease, and the convalescent serum was sent to her by airplane.

"There is not the slightest doubt in my mind that the serum saved her life," said Senator Borah. "I had given up hope. In another twelve hours she would have died." Mrs. Borah returned with the senator to Washington. She is still slowly recuperating from her serious illness.

SHORTAGE OF FOOD IS FACED BY SOVIET

himself. This accomplished one aim by increasing the supplies of food in the cities for sale in private markets, but it was accompanied by a wave of speculation, or middleman trading, which resulted in thousands of arrests.

Collections of grain now are much behind those of 1931, amounting to a 27 per cent decrease in the first three months of the season. This decrease indicates the possibility of some hoarding on the part of peasants anxious not to be caught short again.

Collections of sugar beets also are badly in arrears, amounting at present to only 60 per cent of the plan for the year, and meat supplies recently became so scarce the government found it necessary to assess collections in the form of a rural tax.

The consequent lack of sufficient raw materials and the poor labor productivity were reflected in the poor showing of the food industry, embracing packing, canning, milling, distillation and kindred processes, which in the first eight months of 1932 showed a gain of only a fraction more than 1 per cent over 1931.

(The second of this series of two articles on Soviet Russia's plans will appear in The Post tomorrow.)

Wisconsin Legionnaire Is Assistant Adjutant

Indianapolis, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Harold L. Plummer, of Madison, Wis., was elected assistant national adjutant of the American Legion late today at the close of a two-day meeting here of the national executive committee.

Mr. Plummer was a national vice commander during the year between the Detroit and Portland, Oreg., national conventions and was a member of the national executive committee in 1926, 1927 and 1928. He was commander of the Wisconsin department one year also. The executive committee this morning chose October 2-5 as the time of the 1933 national convention at Chicago. It took no action on an invitation that the legion assemble in Paris in 1937.

RUPP WILL CONTEST J. J. DAVIS' ELECTION

Presidential Vote Inquiry Is Looming in Delaware and Pennsylvania.

(Associated Press.)

Just before leaving for Philadelphia last night, S. Davis Wilson, Philadelphia attorney, said he had been authorized by Lawrence Rupp, of Allentown, to say Rupp would contest the reelection of Senator James J. Davis (Republican), in Pennsylvania.

Wilson said he had been in telephone communication with Rupp last night. Rupp was Davis' Democratic opponent.

Earlier in the day Wilson, here for a meeting of the House campaign committee, had asserted the contest would be brought, but was not certain whether Rupp would institute it.

Wilson also said a contest of the State's presidential vote would be brought in Dauphin County court. Pennsylvania's 36 electoral votes, by unofficial count, went to President Hoover.

At an executive session of the campaign committee, Wilson and Stewart Lynch, of Wilmington, Del., told why they thought the committee should investigate the Pennsylvania and Delaware elections, saying they had evidence of illegal practices. Lynch said investigators told the committee votes were bought for $1 or $2 in Wilmington.

The committee, headed by Representative Heartsill Ragon (Democrat), of Arkansas, adjourned until today without making a decision.

Wilson said, however, he had prepared at the committee's request a list of subpenas he wanted issued for the first hearing. The list included the names of Gen. Edward Martin, Pennsylvania State treasurer and chairman of the Republican State committee, and several other party leaders.

LINDBERGH GOT 14 NOTES, WALSH SAYS broadcast on police posters to show the handwriting."

Then the inspector told of the first note's demanding $50,000 in ransom in $5, $10, and $20 bills and of its peculiar symbol—two blue intersecting skeleton circles with a third circle of solid red in the center, with three holes punctured in the symbol. He said all the fourteen notes held the same symbol.

Speaking of the death of the child, the paper quotes Inspector Walsh as follows:

"In brief, I believe that the ladder placed against the window by the kidnapers buckled and broke, and that as the criminal carrying the babe from the nursery lost his footing and was in imminent danger of being thrown he threw the babe to the ground to save his own worthless life at the expense of the innocent child's."

In supporting his theory, he said both Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh heard a noise between 9:15 and 9:30, and spoke of it at the time. A shaft of one section of the ladder was broken.

The inspector said in the interview that Col. Henry Breckenridge, close friend of Col. Lindbergh, telephoned Edgar Hoover, chief agent of the Department of Justice, a few hours after the kidnaping and was told the "best informer at his command" would be sent to the Lindbergh home.

"The following morning one Morris Rosner, a known character in police circles * * * arrived."

Walsh told the Journal Rosner was given $2,500 for expenses and that he operated between the Lindbergh home and New York for a period of three weeks. He said the only persons he contacted were Salvatore Spitale and Irving Bitz, who "heralded their every movement through the public press and produced nothing of importance. * * * by working confidentially they might have got somewhere."

SHANNON BODY TOLD OF VICE ON U. S. LAND

Federal Owned Property in Panama Declared Site of Liquor Resorts.

Chicago, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Widespread charges of "unfair Government competition" with private business were placed today before a congressional investigating committee already pondering over testimony concerning use of Federal-owned land in Panama.

Roy C. Jones, of Kansas City, radio station manager, who spent three years in Panama, testified the United States Government is landlord to numerous liquor and vice resorts in the zone.

"The Panama Railroad Co., owned and operated by the United States, owns 90 per cent of the land in the City of Colon," Jones said. "The railroad company rents this land to individuals and concerns, refusing to sell or turn over its rights to Panama.

Countless Vice Resorts.

"In renting the land the railroad and Government have no jurisdiction over the use to which it may be put. Consequently, there are countless bars, vice resorts and cheap hotels of the lowest class operated on United States Government land."

Jones was called as a witness before the committee after a friend, Harry Christian, Kansas City druggist, wired the committee of Jones' knowledge of Panama.

The United States Chamber of Commerce listed dozens of "detrimental" Federal operations in manufacturing, merchandising, transportation, communication, financing and construction in a special report to the committee.

Transportation Protests.

The objections ranged from road trips of Army and Navy bands to hospitalization of war veterans for disabilities suffered in private life. Three members of the chamber's committee then explained and amplified their charges.

Henry D. Sharpe, chairman, from Providence, R. I., suggested passage of laws to limit the Government's business operations. He condemned grants of public money, either as loans or gifts, to business enterprises.

George C. Miller, of Mishawaka, Ind., another member, blamed businessmen "who run to Washington with their troubles" for having nurtured the growth and expansion of bureaus.

CORD AND FOE SEE AIR FIRM VICTORY

Proxies Are Due to Decide Fight for Control of Aviation Corp.

New York, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Confident claims of victory in the proxy contest for control of the Aviation Corporation of Delaware were made today by the two contending factions.

"Proxies have been pouring in since this morning," said Lamotte T. Cohu, president of Aviation Corporation, in a statement issued following a meeting of the board, "and it is now apparent that the management will have a surplus of 250,000 stockholders' votes when the meeting is held."

Appearing today on the side of E. L. Cord, who is seeking to wrest control of the company from the present management headed by Cohu, Frank A. Vanderlip, former president of the National City Bank of New York, said the Cord forces are going to win their battle for control of the company.

The only other development today in the contest for control was a decision of the aviation corporation board to solicit proxies for the stockholders' meeting scheduled for December 21 in an attempt to block Cord from carrying out his proposed plan for increasing the board from 35 to 68 members. Both sides will discontinue until November 22 their quest for proxies for the stockholders' meeting which is to decide the question of aviation corporation's acquisition of North American Aviation, Inc.

COLD WAVE SWEEPS SOUTH FROM DAKOTA

17 Degrees Below Recorded in Minnesota; Snow Is Likely in Arkansas.

Kansas City, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Freezing temperatures were thrust southward toward the Gulf of Mexico tonight by a winter storm which swept in from the Canadian Rockies, bringing subzero temperatures in north central States, and scattering snow in Missouri and the Southwest.

Snows and freezing weather, general over Missouri and eastern and central Kansas today, had extended into parts of Oklahoma by nightfall.

Temperatures plunged 40 and 50 degrees in the course of 24 hours in Oklahoma, and freezing weather was forecast for the north portion of Louisiana and Arkansas with snow probable in northern Arkansas. The Weather Bureau expected the snow to extend into Tennessee and parts of Kentucky.

Centers in North Dakota.

The extreme cold centered in North Dakota, eastern Montana and northwestern Minnesota, where temperatures ranged from 2 to 17 degrees below zero.

Thief River, Minn., reported 17 below, and Duluth had its coldest November day in 61 years with 4 below. Havre, Mont., reported 10 below, and it was 12 below at Minot, N. Dak.

The southward advance of the storm was exceedingly rapid. Mild autumn weather in Missouri, eastern Kansas and Oklahoma was suddenly transformed into bitter winter.

Kansas City Shivers.

Kansas City experienced a 45-degree tumble in temperature in a little more than eighteen hours, the 17 degrees above zero recorded today being the coldest November 15 of record.

The storm caused a 24-hour cancellation of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., passenger and mail planes from Indianapolis to Wichita, Kans.

The snow, falling rapidly and thickly over a veneer of ice here today, resulted in innumerable traffic jams, scores of collisions and minor personal injuries. The dry, fine, wind-driven snow began at 5 a. m. and continued until late afternoon.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The Weather Bureau here today reported the coldest weather of the season crossed the Canadian border during the day and headed for Baltimore. It was expected to arrive here tomorrow night, accompanied by west and northwest winds that will drive the thermometer down below the freezing mark.

Scottsboro Court Again Gets Case

Alabama Justices Follow U. S. Authority and Reverse Decision.

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Upon authority of the United States Supreme Court, the Alabama Supreme Court today reversed its decision affirming the death sentences of seven young Negroes for attacking two white girls near Scottsboro in 1931, and sent the cases back to Jackson Circuit Court for new trials.

The order followed a mandate from the United States Supreme Court, which reversed the death sentences on the ground that the Negroes had not been given their full rights in obtaining counsel.

Thomas E. Knight, jr., Attorney General of Alabama, recently announced he would not oppose a motion for a change of venue if defense counsel sought to have the new trials elsewhere than in Jackson County.

ASSAULT ON FARM SLUMP IS PLANNED

Cooperative Move Backed at Session of Land Grant Association.

Methods for restoring agricultural prosperity were advanced last night at a general session of the Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities by a special committee appointed to study the agricultural situation.

Restoration of agricultural prosperity is as vital, the committee report pointed out, as the solution of the problem of industrial unemployment.

"The outstanding problem," the report stated, "is to close the gap between the prices of farm products now at only 55 per cent of prewar averages and farm costs at 140 per cent. Further development of Federal land banks is to be recommended. The time has come when there should be national action on a policy and program of land uses.

"Unless we have a revival in demand for agricultural products and a sharp rise in agricultural prices, individual improvements and adjustments even in the aggregate can not lift agriculture out of the depression," the committee asserted.

Cooperative Move Backed.

The committee recommended that the cooperative movement, now growing by rapid strides, embraces a much larger proportion of farmers and a wider range of their activities. The committee also recommended that the Farm Board in cooperation with the farmers' organizations indicate amendments necessary to the agricultural marketing act to achieve these ends.

Continued research and education on a wide range of agricultural problems was recommended so that agriculture may keep pace with progress in other industries and occupations.

The committee presenting the report was made up of the following: Thomas Cooper, dean of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, chairman; H. R. Talley, Columbia University; H. W. Mumford, dean of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois; M. L. Wilson, head of the department of agricultural economics, State College of Montana; George L. Warren, head of the department of economics at Cornell University, and L. N. Duncan, director of extension of Alabama Polytchnic Institute.

Dr. Bromberger's Views.

Dr. F. B. Bromberger, chief of the division of cooperative marketing of the Federal Farm Board, told the association that in his opinion all agencies and individuals interested in the rehabilitation of agriculture have a profound stake in the promotion of the national policy of cooperative organization.

Dr. Bromberger declared that in spite of hostile trade interests the national policy of cooperative organization must be realized. Realization of such a policy is a challenge to land grant colleges and universities, he said.

The convention will close today at the Willard Hotel.

Puerto Rico May Ask Authority to Go Wet

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—A resolution asking that the United States Congress grant authority to the Island government to deal with the question of prohibition is under consideration at the special session of the Legislature called to pass on hurricane relief measures.

Advocates of the resolution assert revenue from the sale of beer and wines is urgently needed. Puerto Rico voted dry in 1917 and later the national prohibition act was applied.

her nursing home shortly after their eviction from Washington and she deeded some property near Waterbury to W. W. Waters, commander of the B. E. F., for a bonus army haven. Gov. Ritchie frowned on the idea of establishing a camp in Maryland, and after a conference Waters abandoned the plan.

When she brought the second letter to the Federal officials today, Mrs. Edgell said after the State police had evicted the bonus marchers from the property, a group of the men, led by Kerns, came back to her nursing home.

Refuses to Comment.

Mrs. Edgell told Sobeloff she felt sorry for them and said they could go back to the place and cut timber there to sell. She bought them a truck, she told the Federal authorities, which they damaged and stripped after they made enough money to buy a truck themselves.

Later all the marchers but Kerns were evicted by her, she said, because they were not behaving themselves. Kerns himself, she made a cook in her nursing home, where he was employed until several days ago, when he became so disagreeable, she said, she was forced to make him leave.

Mrs. Edgell tonight refused to comment on the matter. She said, "It is a very sad affair. I was forced to report it. I have nothing to say now, it will all come out later."

CONGRESS LEADERS AT ODDS OVER TAX

said, "will be steps toward relief of the taxpayer, and this can be done most quickly by immediate passage of the manufacturers' sales tax, which would bring not less than $400,000,000 into the Federal Treasury through a uniform but modest sales tax on everything but foodstuffs and the cheapest kind of wearing apparel.

"The tremendous wet vote throughout the country would justify the modification of the Volstead law and a revenue tax on beer before Christmas which would immediately place in circulation $200,000,000 for the rehabilitation of the breweries of the country, stimulate employment generally, and would undoubtedly promote one of the happiest holiday seasons in the history of the country."

Representative Britten estimated the proposed beer tax would yield approximately $50,000,000 a month to the Federal Government from the outset.

"Sales tax and beer legislation should be accompanied by every possible reduction in governmental expenditures and the immediate consolidation of such bureaus and departments as will be recommended by the President in his message to the next session," Representative Britten added.

PARTIES' DOOM SEEN IF SLUMP REMAINS

David Lawrence Addresses Two Paint and Varnish Associations.

David Lawrence, publisher of the United States Daily, said last night that unless both major political parties successfully cooperate in bringing the return of prosperity neither will be political factors in the election of 1936.

Mr. Lawrence made this statement at the joint convention of the American Paint and Varnish Manufacturers Association and the National Paint Oil and Varnish Association at the Mayflower Hotel.

He declared, however, that definite progress had been made toward recovery. Although this progress was interrupted by the political campaign, he said he believed it would continue.

Merle Thorpe, editor of Nation's Business, told the 400 delegates of the evils of Government competition with private business. Government subsidized products, sold at cheaper rates, he said, gave the public a false idea of manufacturers' profits.

James F. Kurfees, of Louisville, Ky., was elected president of the American group. Other officers named were Horace S. Felton, of Philadelphia, Pa., first vice president; William C. Dabney, of Louisville, second vice president; Charles J. Roh, of Newark, N. J., treasurer; George V. Horgan, of Washington, general manager and secretary, and George B. Heckel, of Philadelphia, secretary emeritus.

150 Japanese Dead In Typhoon's Wake

22 Aboard Vessel Feared Lost; Three Perish in Tokyo.

Tokyo, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The death toll from yesterday's typhoon, which disrupted shipping in Japanese waters and caused heavy damage to numerous cities ashore, rose today to the neighborhood of 150.

The home office announced that the casualties ashore were 26 dead, 25 seriously injured and 26 missing. The fishing villages of Fukushima prefecture reported 13 motorboats missing, with more than 100 fishermen aboard. Three bodies have been washed ashore.

Nine members of the crew of the freighter Unkai Maru, which went aground on Oshima Island at the mouth of Tokyo Bay, were rescued, but it was feared that the other 22 men aboard were lost.

The typhoon zone included the prefectures of Tokyo, Chiba, Kanagawa, Shizuoka and Fukushima. In Kanagawa prefecture, which takes in the cities of Yokohama and Yokosuka, there were 15 deaths, and in Tokyo proper there were 3. Landslides accounted for most of the victims.

BRIEF ILLNESS FATAL TO R. S. BROOKINGS

Founder of Institution Here Famous as Economist and Philanthropist.

Robert Somers Brookings, 82 years old, founder of the Brookings Institution and internationally known economist and philanthropist, died yesterday at his home, 2700 Upton street, after an illness of two weeks.

Mr. Brookings was a trustee of the Carnegie Institution, Washington, and the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and founded the Brookings Institution for research into governmental administration and international economics.

His life divides itself into three periods—his active business career in St. Louis from 1866 to 1897, his educational activities as president of the corporation of Washington University in St. Louis from 1897 to 1917 and his war work and subsequent educational and research activities in the Capital.

Born in Maryland.

He was born in Cecil County, Md., January 22, 1850. At the age of 17, an orphaned boy, he went to St. Louis. Before he was 22 he had become a partner in the firm where he found employment, and for the next eighteen years he devoted himself intensively to business enterprise, amassing a fortune regarded as very large for those days. Mr. Brookings' business activities extended to banking, transportation and real estate, as well as manufacturing.

He retired from active business at the age of 46. In 1917, prior to America's entrance into the war, Mr. Brookings was one of three men called to Washington by President Wilson to mobilize this country's industries for the inevitable war. Mr. Brookings was placed in charge of raw materials.

After the War Industries Board was organized, Mr. Brookings became chairman of the price-fixing committee, in which capacity he was responsible for the fixing of prices of more than $30,000,000,000 worth of commodities.

Interested in Economics.

Before the war Mr. Brookings had become deeply interested in the financial problems of the National Government. In 1916 he joined with a group of public-spirited men in the organization of the Institute for Government Research. This institute was primarily responsible for the establishment of the United States budget system.

In 1922 Mr. Brookings persuaded the Carnegie Corporation to found the Institute of Economics for the assembling and interpretation of economic data which form the bases of national and international policies. In 1924 he established in Washington a Graduate School of Economics and Government, affiliated with the two institutes, the purpose of which was to give young men and women exceptional training for the public service.

In 1927, these affiliated agencies were consolidated in the Brookings Institution "devoted to public service through research and training in the social sciences." This institution has already established a world-wide reputation.

Honored by Schools.

In recognition of his outstanding services to American education, Mr. Brookings has received honorary degrees from Yale, Harvard, the University of Missouri, and Washington University.

Dr. L. S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union, and vice chairman of the executive committee of the Brookings Institution, described the death of Mr. Brookings as an "irreparable loss to the entire country."

In 1927, Mr. Brookings married Miss Isabel Valle January, of San Remo, Italy, and St. Louis, Mo., who for many years had shared with him his philanthropic and public interests. He is survived by his widow; two half-sisters, Mrs. Robert A. Montgomery and Mrs. Florence Houston, both of Hollywood, Calif., and by several nephews and nieces.

More Bodies Found On Cuba's Shores

Machado Calls Attention to Needs of Orphans in Hurricane.

Havana, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The gunboat 24 De Febrero, cruising along southern shores, which were swept by the hurricane last week, sent a radio message today saying all tiny settlements along the south coast were destroyed.

This was the first general report from that section owing to disruption of communications. It emphasized the extent of the tragedy in Camaguey and Oriente Provinces. The message said bodies of 26 persons were found at Cape Guayabal, east of Santa Cruz del Sur, and that fishing boats were found stranded far inland.

Camaguey, Cuba, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—President Machado, on a tour of inspection in Camaguey Province, which was struck most severely by last week's hurricane, urged attention today to the problem of "hundreds of orphans whose welfare and education must not be neglected." Alberto Barreras, president of the Senate, was with the president in Santa Cruz del Sur, where about 2,500 were killed or drowned in a great tidal wave. He said fishing materials were urgently needed on the Camaguey coast in that region.

NAVY OFFICER HELD PROBABLE SUICIDE

Lieut. Ames Wed Capital Woman, Forsaking First Wife, Witness Says.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—A verdict of probable suicide was returned by the Norfolk city coroner following an inquest today in the death of Lieut. (J. G.) Jack W. Ames, U. S. N.

His body was found in a downtown hotel here on November 2. Dr. C. D. J. MacDonald, coroner, said the naval officer died of a poison, the character of which at this time "is unknown to the coroner."

A pint flask found beside the body of Lieut. Ames contained an amber fluid which, when analyzed by experts in the Norfolk Health Department Laboratory, was shown to be composed of whisky, paragoric, aromatic spirits of ammonia and another element, which baffled all attempts at identification.

Coroner's investigator, Leon Nowitzky, sole inquest witness, testified an investigation he conducted revealed that Lieut. Ames had a wife living on the West Coast, was recently married to another woman living in Washington, D. C., and was keeping company with a third woman, this one living in Norfolk. Nowitzky testified he had learned Lieut. Ames had carried a large amount of life insurance and that recently he had transferred the insurance so that the second wife was named beneficiary instead of the legal wife on the West Coast.

Lieut. Ames recently had borrowed $700 from another naval officer at the Naval Operating Base here and had purchased a $200 diamond ring from a local jeweler, on which he had paid only a small amount, Nowitzky testified.

The deceased had applied for a 30-day leave of absence in September, and was to have reported for duty at the Naval Base here the day before he was found dead in the hotel room.

LIBBY HOLMAN CASE DROPPED BY STATE

the clerk to enter the order of nol pros, discharge the defendants, and release their $25,000 bonds.

Defense attorneys said the action of the solicitor was acceptable to them. They interpreted it as the most complete exoneration possible under the laws of North Carolina, saying it restored their clients to the status existing before the murder charges were voted by a grand jury August 4.

The final act in the real-life drama that aroused the interest of millions was prosaic.

Neither Libby Holman Reynolds, the torch singer whose husky-throated singing of blues songs had captivated thousands, nor young Walker was in the courtroom. Their several attorneys were present, however.

Announcing that Sheriff Transou Scott and Assistant Solicitor J. Erle McMichael, who had been active throughout the inquiry, concurred in his action, the solicitor made known his decision to nolle prosse the case.

He explained the evidence was insufficient to warrant a trial, and that if it should go to trial, an acquittal would be certain.

"If the defendants are not guilty," he said, "the least the State can do is to remove the case from the docket. If they are guilty, then the door should not be closed to a prosecution, should sufficient evidence to justify it be available at any time hereafter."

In his statement the solicitor revealed that in spite of investigating officers' claims from time to time of "new evidence" practically all of the evidence now available "was presented to the coroner's jury." That jury returned a verdict that young Reynolds came to his death by a gunshot wound "at the hands of a person or persons unknown."

The solicitor also revealed that the grand jury, which returned the indictment charging "felonious, premeditated and willful murder," followed that course without "the benefit of evidence of any witnesses who were present at the party or who were in the house at the time of the shooting."

Young Reynolds was found wounded at 1 a. m., July 6, shortly after the break-up of a birthday party at Reynolda, palatial estate of the tobacco manufacturing family. The coroner's verdict was recorded July 13, and on August 4 the widow and Walker were indicted.

Ford Tractor Factory In Ireland Is Closed

Cork, Irish Free State, Nov. 15 (A. P.).—The plant of the Ford Motor Co. here closed down for an indefinite period this afternoon. The entire plant will be transferred to the new Ford plant at Dagenham, Essex, near London.

The Ford plant in Cork has been making tractors for export to every country in Europe and the United States. The business was of such importance that in 1930, shortly after the plant was started, the Free State started making its own commercial treaties with European countries in order to facilitate the exporting of tractors. Most of the equipment of the Ford plant was transferred to Dagenham some time ago. The plant was established at Cork four years ago.

INSULL, JR., DENIES FAMILY GOT $40,000

structed by his father and other Insull officials to negotiate with the banks for a "standstill" agreement under which they would demand no more collateral. In return, he said, he planned to make a "jackpot" of unpledged stock and assets of the companies as possible security for all the banks.

The court hearing was in the nature of a search for possible hidden assets of the $250,000,000 Utilities Investments and the $140,000,000 Corporation Securities companies—the holding mediums for the balance of power in Insull enterprises. Investors lost about $300,000,000 in their collapse.

Only once did young Insull make any reference to his own financial losses. He said:

"Officials of the Guaranty Trust Co. asked if myself and my father would be willing to indorse the loans in lieu of further collateral.

"I replied that all my property except a little real estate was tied up in the companies and that therefore my indorsement would be of little value. I did not speak for my father in the matter."

Moral 'Confusion' Attacked At Baptist Group's Session

The Rev. Clarence M. Cranford, Philadelphia, Urges Youth to Find Stable Foundation for Lives to End "Chaos;" Reports on B. Y. P. U. Heard

Urging youth to seek a stable foundation for their lives, the Rev. Clarence M. Cranford, eloquent, youthful Philadelphia clergyman, last night declared before the opening session of the annual conference of the Columbia Association of Baptist Churches that the world today is in a state of "moral confusion."

In this "great chaos," declared the Rev. Mr. Cranford, youth is looking to the church for an answer. Everywhere, he said, he hears questions.

"Why shouldn't women smoke? Why shouldn't young people drink? Why shouldn't they play cards on Sunday? To what extent can I be naughty and still be nice?"

To those and other questions of similar nature, said the Rev. Mr. Cranford, the church must come as an inspiration for youth to seek a stable, moral path.

"A vital, dynamic, living concept of God," declared the Rev. Mr. Cranford, "must and should be brought forward so that young people may find some way out of the moral confusion of today."

Too much individualism, too much freedom exists, said the Rev. Mr. Cranford. While not agreeing with the philosophical trend of Walter Lippman's "Preface to Morals," he said he agreed with the latter's citation of Huxley that "a man's difficulties begin when he finds he can do what he likes."

The meeting will continue through tonight, all sessions taking place at the Calvary Baptist Church, Eighth and H streets northwest.

Reports of officials of the Baptist Young People's Union of the District last night showed 1,064 members. Of this total, 841 were listed as church members; 559 as active church workers, and 697 as regular contributors to the church.

Among the main events of this morning's program will be an address by Dr. Solon B. Couzens, of Richmond, Va., and a pageant under the direction of Mrs. E. L. Carlton. The afternoon session will be addressed by Drs. J. W. Cammack, of Danville, Va., and George L. White, of Ministers and Missionaries Benefit Board.

The conference will close tonight with addresses by the Rev. V. W. Dyer and Dr. C. O. Johnson, president of the Northern Baptist convention.

Society Aviator And Pilot Killed

Head of Insurance Firm Dies in Plane Crash Near Dover, Del.

Dover, Del., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—An insurance broker, prominent in Delaware society, and his pilot were burned to death today as their airplane burst into flames in a crash about a mile south of this city.

The dead were J. A. Montgomery, jr., 37, president of the J. A. Montgomery Insurance Co., Inc., and Leslie MacAllister, 28, both of Wilmington.

Trapped in the debris of the flaming cabin of their plane, the men died while spectators and firemen, driven back by the heat of burning gasoline, stood by helplessly. Identification was made through a charred wallet belonging to Montgomery.

No More Politics, Dawes Declares

Through With Public Life Forever, He Says in Spiking Rumors.

Chicago, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The door of retirement has shut with finality on the picturesque political career of former Vice President Charles Gates Dawes. A power in virtually every Republican national campaign since that of his fellow Ohioan, President McKinley in 1896, the former head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has, he declared, sheathed his political rapier forever.

"My retirement is permanent," he told interviewers tonight. "I am out of politics for good."

His brusque statement not only mowed down any suggestion that he might be called upon to head the G. O. P. ticket in 1936 but swept him out of the councils and battle fronts of that campaign toward which Republican eyes are turning.

Wife Found Dead Near Mate's Body

Woman Shot and Battered With Two Hammers; Husband Blamed.

Morgantown, W. Va., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Shot and battered with two hammers, Mrs. William E. Lyona was found dead in her home today, a few feet from the body of her husband, who had been shot through the head.

Prosecuting Attorney Albert Shuman said he believed Lyons, 41-year-old coal mine fire boss, had shot his wife while she slept and then battered her, and committed suicide.

A revolver was found next to the dead man. One hammer, broken, was under the bed, and another was beside the body of the wife.

PREFERENCE URGED FOR LOCAL WORKERS

Building-Trades Men Protest Against Importation of Foreign Labor.

The District Commissioners received another plea yesterday that contractors on municipal building projects be required to employ local workmen, particularly mechanics, but they explained that they are unable to make such specifications under the law.

The petition, signed by a group of building-trades men, asked the Commissioners to "do something to break up the practice of importing foreign labor. For the last five years," the petition continued, "the contractors have not given the taxpayers a square deal on this work, and we think we should get a just percentage of the work."

Construction of the Taft Junior High School was cited in the petition as a case in point. The Burroughs Citizens Association, which led the fight for restoration of the cupola on the school, recently made a similar plea that local labor be used.

District Engineer Department officials explained that the Commissioners are required to award building contracts to the lowest responsible builders and are without authority to specify that local labor be used. As a result the majority of projects go to out-of-town contractors who import their own labor because it is cheaper than can be obtained locally.

RAZING OF AVENUE BUILDINGS SOUGHT

Ford Company Ownership of Sterling Hotel Is Confirmed.

The disclosure by The Washington Post on October 4, 1931, that Ford Motor Co. was the unannounced purchaser of the important business site at Pennsylvania avenue, Thirteenth and E streets northwest, was officially confirmed yesterday by an application to raze certain buildings on this site filed with the office of District Building Inspector Oehmann and listing Ford Motor Co. as owner of the property.

Employes of the office were informed that the razing of the buildings was for use of the site as a temporary parking lot. Permanent use of the property, it is now generally regarded, will be as a location for a new building for the Ford company, whose former plant at John Marshall place and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, eventually will make way for District government construction.

The application issued yesterday gives permission to demolish premises at 1231-1239 Pennsylvania avenue, brick buildings from one to three stories in height and having 80 of the 89 feet Pennsylvania avenue frontage and 75 of the 144½ feet Thirteenth street frontage of the Ford Co.'s property. Applications are expected to be filed soon for the razing of the Sterling Hotel at the southeast corner of Thirteenth and E streets northwest, as well as other structures in the Ford Co.'s property.

The filing of the application clears a real estate mystery of more than two years. On August 8, 1930, The Washington Post announced exclusively the sale of this valuable business site to Riggs National Bank, trustee for the unidentified buyer, for an unreported cash consideration, later reported at approximately $1,500,000. Clarence Dodge, a vice president of Weaver Bros., Inc., represented the purchasers and the Christian Heurich, jr. Realty Co., Lawrence J. Heller, Tobriner & Graham and Barnum L. Colton, the owners; Charles Jacobsen, Dr. Thomas E. Ogram, Miss Pauline Baum and the Isidor Grosner estate.

Second Pittsburgh Bank Fails to Open

Duquesne National, With $4,000,000 in Deposits, Is Closed.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 15 (U.P.).—The Duquesne National Bank with $4,000,000 in deposits closed today, the second national bank to close its doors this week in Pittsburgh. The Diamond National Bank closed Monday.

The closings were not caused by any new developments, but were the result, the Diamond Bank's statement explained, of continuous withdrawals by depositors over a period of eighteen months.

The Duquesne National Bank statement said the general recession in business and continued withdrawals made closing necessary. Its December statement gave its resources as $9,178,451.03. Demand deposits were listed then as $2,372,966.50 and time deposits as $1,761,865.31.

60 Who Practiced Nepotism In Congress Were Defeated

Smoot, Watson and Jones Among Victims; 109 Who Carried Relatives on Pay Roll Still Remain on Hill.

(Copyright, 1932, by the United Press.)

Sixty senators and representatives whose relatives were revealed as being on the federal pay roll are now on the way back to private life as a result of the 1932 election campaign.

Of a known total of 189 there are still 109 members left in the House and Senate who have carried relatives on the congressional pay roll within their present or preceding terms.

A number removed their relatives after the United Press reported specific instances of the practice several months ago.

Of 37 senators known to have given places on public pay rolls to wives, in-laws or other relatives, 5 have been defeated—Brookhart, Iowa; Jones, Washington; Smoot, Utah; Thomas, Idaho; Watson, Indiana. All are Republicans.

Of 133 House members who have come to the aid of deserving relatives at the taxpayers' expense, 55, divided between Republicans and Democrats, will not return for the next Congress. One, Andresen (Republican), Minnesota, is doubtful, depending upon the final count.

The most prominent member on the pay roll list, Speaker Garner, was elected to two jobs—his present House seat and the Vice Presidency.

The Alaskan delegate, whose wife had been on the congressional pay roll, was defeated for reelection. He is paid a representative's salary and has the privilege of debate, but has no vote.

The list of representatives known to have carried relatives on the congressional pay roll during the present or preceding Congress, and who have either voluntarily retired or been defeated in primary or election contests, includes:

GIRL WINS IRONING CONTEST AT SHOW

Dorothy Strauv Is First and Sylvia Stam Is Second at Food Exhibit.

There's nothing to the story that as housekeepers, 1932's girls are good dancers and bridge players.

Last night's contest at the Food Show in the Washington Auditorium proved it when first and second places in the ironing competition were captured by young girls. Miss Dorothy Strauv, of 15 Eighth street southeast, ironed down the whole field to win the prize by ironing quickest, and rest a piece of wearing apparel. And she drew one of the largest items from the clothes line too—a man's union suit of the long winter variety. Miss Sylvia Stam, of 6921 Georgia avenue was second. The contest was one of the jolliest of the show.

This afternoon will witness a new popularity contest for babies between the ages of 1 and 4. The audience's favorite will receive a $2.50 gold piece. Santa Claus, however, will see that every child under 6 gets a toy.

The chief gift this afternoon will be a genuine Mossoul Persian rug of scatter size, valued at $42.

Tonight's session of the show, which is sponsored by the District Grocery Stores, Inc., will witness an apple-eating contest in which the girl who first consumes an apple without touching hand to it as it bobbles about on a plate will receive a prize. The main gift will be a cabinet gas range of latest design that retails for $97.50.

Man Admits Killing His Uncle and Aunt

John Moore to Be Taken to Indiana in Death of Farmer and Wife.

Virginia, Minn., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Prosecutor James R. Emsweller, of Blackford County, Ind., tonight said John E. Moore, 29, had confessed to killing his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Moore, at their farm home near Pennville, Ind., last Friday night.

Mr. Emsweller, who arrived here this afternoon with Sheriff Ira Mannix to question Moore, arrested at Tower, Minn., early Monday morning, said Moore was charged with first-degree murder. He first shot and killed his aunt, 55, and then killed his uncle 62, he confessed to officials.

Moore, who, Mr. Esweller said, has served sentences in three reformatories, told the officials, "I don't know why I killed them." He said he had been ordered from the farm two weeks ago by his uncle.

Modernize with Gas FOR A CONVENIENT WINTER

$10 A MONTH
buys a Gas Furnace

$113 A YEAR
pays for the Gas

The owner of this home* used to think automatic gas heat would be too expensive. Then she got an estimate, found that it was far less than she had thought, and put in an Automatic Gas Heating plant.

After a year's use she found the actual cost was even less than our estimate, and now she says she would give up almost anything else rather than do without the comfort, the ease, the solid satisfaction of Automatic Gas Heat. More than any other one thing, Automatic Gas Heat makes housekeeping easier and winters comfortable.

For the average six-room brick row house, a complete gas heating plant costs $330 installed, and the cost of operation is about ten cents a day, for the year, more than other fuels. $330 on 3-year terms is about $10 a month, and the additional cost of operation pays the extra comfort, greater cleanliness, better health that gas heat gives you.

Remember that there is a special low rate for gas used in househeating. Find out what that will mean in the heating of your home. Call your heating contractor or DIstrict 8500.

STRIKING AT BUREAUCRACY.

In the remaining three and a half months of his term President Hoover has a rare opportunity to promote the reorganization of the Government service. Since he has been President he has urgently recommended such action, and when the depression made drastic economies imperative he almost begged Congress to give him authority to eliminate waste and duplication from the departments and independent agencies. Congress gave him limited authority to act, and the President is now fully prepared to do so.

For several weeks J. Clawson Roop, Director of the Budget, has been scrutinizing every Federal agency with a view to consolidation of bureaus and commissions exercising similar functions. President Hoover has given a good deal of personal attention to the question, and it is understood that he will have a comprehensive plan ready for announcement as soon as Congress assembles. No action has been taken thus far, because all of the changes must have the tacit approval of Congress.

In carrying out this project the usual legislative procedure has been reversed. Ordinarily Congress passes a measure subject to approval or veto by the President. In this case the President will formulate the reorganization plan and put it into effect subject to a veto by Congress within sixty days. President Hoover is expected to lay his program before Congress at the very beginning of the short session, so that objections, if any, can be considered by the present Congress.

Numerous efforts have been made to eliminate bureaucracy, red tape, overlapping of service, waste and inefficiency from the Government service. But every attempt has been defeated by politics. Every bureau and every commission, however obsolete or useless, has its defenders in Congress. Agencies of all kinds have grown at haphazard and without a comprehensive plan, because Congress would not permit consolidation or reorganization. But Congress can not now defeat reorganization without advertising its own extravagance.

President Hoover can act with a free hand. Politics will not enter into his plan. Most members of Congress will be reluctant to lead a fight against a reform that is so urgently needed and which promises so much in the way of economy. This is probably the best opportunity the Government will have in many years to effect a reorganization program.

NEW JOBS FOR OLD.

There is no question that labor-saving machinery is constantly presenting industrial management with new problems if these modern inventions are not to throw old employes out of work. One executive of a manufacturing company which has adopted the unusual regulation that no man may be displaced by a machine until other work is found for him within the organization says that the rule has led to an increased volume of profits. Under pressure of finding openings for workers, while keeping up with mechanical improvements, this large concern, which manufactures metal products, has been forced to develop new ideas.

In the case of a machine that had reduced by one-half the labor required for a certain operation, experiments led to the development of a by-product in the form of house insulating material which makes substantial profits. Though scores of mechanical devices have been installed in the past ten years, this company's payrolls have increased. An improved paint, cheaper and more durable, is the result of another effort to locate workers displaced by an invention. The added responsibility of executives and department heads who are obliged to retain all their workers is a valuable stimulus.

Diversification in industry has become as desirable as it is in agriculture. When more heads of factories realize the advantage of widening the scope of their market and making executives responsible for keeping all workers employed at profitable tasks within the organization, the system will spread. Naturally, a research department is necessary in such a scheme, but a company that cannot maintain an extensive laboratory can afford to dedicate a certain amount to scientific experiment.

Changes in methods and materials are frequent and sudden today, and every manufacturer must keep well posted on the latent possibilities of his products. An essential element of successful growth is the cooperation of the workers. Their knowledge that their jobs are safe inspires them to cut costs when possible. The men in the company here referred to are encouraged to submit their ideas for improvements in methods or materials. This has resulted in an average of about fifty worthwhile suggestions a month during the last decade.

BRINGING BACK LIQUOR.

Public sentiment usually fluctuates from one extreme to another. Fourteen years ago the eighteenth amendment was written into the Constitution with the approval of an overwhelming majority of the people. Indications are that it will soon be torn out of the Constitution by a majority not less impressive. Prohibition is in extreme disrepute.

In the backward swing of the pendulum of public sentiment there is grave danger that another blunder will be committed. A few months ago even the wettest of the wets simply advocated turning the liquor problem back to the States. Now even the idea of State prohibition or control is lost sight of in the outright demand for beer and liquor. The debacle of prohibition is resulting in a crusade for liquor rather than more effective control over the liquor traffic.

Both political parties are committed to temperance programs. The Democratic national platform states:

> We urge the enactment of such measures by the several States as will actually promote temperance, effectively prevent the return of the saloon and bring the liquor traffic into the open under complete supervision and control by the States.

The Republican platform favors the elimination of the evils of prohibition and preservation of the gains that have been made. It states:

> We, therefore, believe that the people should have an opportunity to pass upon a proposed amendment, the provisions of which, while retaining in the Federal government power to preserve the gains already made in dealing with the evils inherent in the liquor traffic, shall allow States to deal with the problem as their citizens may determine.

But the States are not moving in the direction of effective control over the liquor traffic. On the other hand, they are repealing prohibition enforcement laws, apparently preparing for an uncontrolled flood of liquor as soon as the eighteenth amendment can be repealed or nullified. Colorado, Arizona, Washington, Oregon and North Dakota have repealed dry laws that were in force before the eighteenth amendment was adopted. Wherever the question of repealing State antiliquor laws was submitted to the voters in last week's election the verdict was wet.

The Government is apparently preparing to hand over control of the liquor traffic to the States, and the States are preparing to abandon that authority. The guarantee of both major parties against the return of the saloon seems to have been forgotten. State control over liquor has been weakened, and a period of chaos is in prospect if the eighteenth amendment is repealed or the Volstead act substantially altered.

Millions of voters favor repeal only because they believe it would result in more effective control of the liquor traffic in States that wish to be dry. If the destruction of both State and national liquor laws results in no control at all, the pendulum of public opinion will certainly swing in the other direction again. It is time for the States to begin tightening up their regulations and making arrangements to prevent the unbridled sale of liquor in anticipation that the Federal Government will withdraw from this field.

If any political party gives its attention only to repealing national prohibition and pays no attention to its pledge for rigid liquor control within the States, it may find that the present wet boom is really a boomerang.

A MODERN PRISON.

The Government's new penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., marks the latest development in the scientific treatment of criminals. Its opening this week is an important event in the development of a new policy. Additional prison facilities have been much needed by the Government for several years. The new institution will give the Prisons Bureau an opportunity to relieve congestion in some of the older penitentiaries as well as to observe the effect of a model institution upon criminals housed in it. Federal prisons are one of the weakest points in the entire judicial system. It is encouraging to note this definite step toward improvement.

The new prison seems to afford a compromise between the two theories of criminology. The old theory of punishment is a failure, because it turns back to society men with more pronounced criminal tendencies than they had when entering prison. The theory of reformation is impractical for a large number of convicts, because human character is not easily changed. This leads directly to the modern policy of segregation. Society must be protected from incurable criminals, even though iron bars are necessary to do it. But individuals who fall into crime incidentally and are not depraved in nature may be rehabilitated in prison shops and schools.

The new prison at Lewisburg is equipped to handle both types. It is surrounded by a 21-foot wall, although it is not of the fortress type. Its educational facilities are the finest of any American prison. Shops with modern machinery where trades can be learned offer wholesome activity in place of idle plotting of new crimes. Cell blocks of the old type have been abandoned, but there are plenty of steel cells for desperate criminals. This prison makes it possible to administer that kind of treatment to which the various types of convicts will respond. It will be interesting to watch developments at the Lewisburg institution.

CHANGING VALUES.

Falling commodity prices have unsettled trade and impoverished producers all over the world. American farmers have complained loudly about what has been called the "rubber dollar," but the most justifiable protest of all comes from the rubber growers themselves, who really have to sell their product for prices which make the dollar look even more elastic than their rubber. A dollar today buys almost nine times as much rubber as it did in 1923.

The farmer finds it hard enough to meet interest and taxes when wheat and cotton bring but half or a third of former prices, but the rubber planters are having an even more difficult time, and very largely for the same reason—overproduction. The use of rubber in the United States has reached enormous proportions, tires, naturally, consuming a large proportion of the imported crude. Imports more than doubled in the ten years preceding 1929 when the total importation reached 469,000 long tons, which was more than half of the world production.

The National Industrial Conference Board has made a survey of commodity prices, comparing levels of 1923 with those of 1932 in the case of twenty-one products. While rubber suffered most from falling wholesale prices, few escaped heavy declines. The least change is recorded in the price of cattle. Based on Chicago market prices for "good to choice" steers, current prices are lower than in 1923 by 22 per cent. In 1929 this condition was reversed, the cattle seller getting 36 per cent more than six years before.

In the last boom year hogs, corn, copper, wheat and petroleum showed a similar advance over 1923. The greatest declines in price, after rubber, are shown in silk and cotton. A dollar's worth of silk in 1923 was worth but 61 cents in 1929, and has fallen to 19 cents this year. Cotton, as is well known in this country, suffered severely though not as heavily as silk. By 1929 all but six of the twenty-one commodities considered had declined in price, but this year, of course, all of them show heavy losses with resulting greatly reduced incomes for a large proportion of the population. This not only makes it difficult to meet fixed charges, but contracts purchasing power. It has been one of the points most frequently stressed by the President-elect in his campaign that the farmer's purchasing power must be restored. There will be nation-wide interest in seeing what measures the new administration will propose to this end.

Congress may decide that 2.75 beer is not intoxicating, but the Supreme Court after a supreme test might decide otherwise.

Lame duck congressmen are just the right folks to dispose of the lame duck war debts.

THE OUTLOOK FOR 1933

By RALPH B. WILSON, Vice President, Babson Statistical Organization, in the Kiwanis Magazine.

Business has struck bottom! A sharp rise in the commodity and security markets indicates that the worst is over. The present low water mark of business activity can not long endure. There is a scarcity of finished merchandise in the hands of retailers and more goods are constantly being consumed than are being produced. A flood of orders will burst and find the retailers' cupboard bare. Wholesale commodity prices will go higher. Good stocks and bonds will continue on their fundamental climb with the usual concomitant scares and reactions. Business activity will rebound from its overdepressed state, and it is quite possible that the rise will be sharp. The total volume of business in 1933 should be greater than that of 1932. Because the readjustment has been drastic it is not unreasonable to expect the recovery to reach normal by the close of 1934. If this forecast is even approximately true there is better business ahead of us for several years to come.

So far as the United States is concerned, we were ready to resume business in 1931. In fact, we staged a rather rapid recovery from February to the middle of the year. In July the largest private bank of Austria closed its doors. Gold began to leave Germany. A moratorium was declared to avoid German bankruptcy. Discussion relative thereto disclosed almost unbelievable foreign conditions that shook the very foundation of the world's confidence. Gold began to leave England. By September Great Britain went off the gold standard. Foreign countries began to drain American gold and money was withdrawn from the banks of the United States. The chain of events set in motion by the failure of the Austrian bank were wholly nonpredictable, but they interrupted our recovery and gave us an "imported depression."

In 1929 our commodity index of basic materials stood 50 per cent above prewar levels. Today many of these basic raw materials in spite of recent advances can be bought at or below the prewar level. Several commodities are selling or have sold recently at prices lower than ever before in the history of statistical information. Just as soon as business begins to buy basic raw materials at these bargain levels; just as soon as investors begin to buy securities at the unprecedented prices; just so soon as buying starts will we start out of the depths of this depression to recovery and prosperity.

The readjustment has been most drastic and intense. The efficiency of management and labor is greater than it has been for years. Any improvement in business would be clear "velvet" for business. Wages have been reduced. Overhead expenses have been cut. The cost of living is low. Commodities, stocks and bonds are in the bargain basement of a buying zone. Tension is less taut in Europe. Foreign countries have ceased draining our gold. There are fewer bank failures and less hoarding. There are still 133,643 banks in the United States that have not closed. Credit inflationary measures are becoming effective. There is an accumulated demand for goods augmented by heavy replacements in many lines. Investment sentiment is improved. The deflation has been definitely checked. Inflation is a possibility! Commodity and security prices have already turned up and we are now ready for the recovery in business which the rising stock market indicates.

PRAYER.

Strengthen us, Lord, that we may hold
The faith when winds blow bleak and cold!

We who have sat beneath the trees
And quaffed our sparkling drinks at ease;

Have known all comforts and delights,
Days of employment, restful nights,

Friendships and happy, blazing fires,
Contentment and fulfilled desires,

Found serving Thee an easy task
When there was little men could ask.

But now, Oh, Lord, our fires burn low,
The cold, harsh winds of failure blow,

Our needs are great! Good Lord, we pray;
Grant us the courage for the day,

The heart to struggle as we must,
The faith, though prostrate in the dust,

That we shall, braving care and doubt,
At last work mankind's problems out.

They Come Out of the Storm Cellar When It Begins to Rain Duck Soup

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE average man's mental picture of present conditions is wholly wrong.

He reads that ten million men are jobless; that former millionaires are now poor; and he imagines that wealth has somehow disappeared.

As a matter of fact, the land is glutted with money. The banks that remain are filled with money they dare not lend. One small town in California contains 4,000 millionaires. A few days ago the Government borrowed 150 millions from New York banks at three-eights of 1 per cent.

Why, then, is there no enterprise to provide jobs? Because so much of the Nation's capital is lying idle in banks or tied up in tax-free securities.

How can matters be mended? Only by recognizing the truth that the only dependable motive among men is self-interest.

Those who have wealth to invest are not concerned about the Nation's welfare, but only about their own. They hate and fear taxation.

There is no reason why certain securities should be tax-free. The tax exemption was a bribe. It was an unfair advantage—a kind of rebate—offered by the State to those who would buy its paper.

And when law-makers made the incredibly stupid blunder of exempting idle wealth from taxation while increasing the tax burden of industry and commerce, it was inevitable that the Nation should suffer.

Self-interest impelled the owners of wealth to invest in tax-free securities. Self-interest alone will persuade them to change their investments.

It is too late to talk of changing the law. The evil is done and will not be undone. Perhaps tax-free securities should and could be taxed, but they will not be—and that's that.

The only way to mend matters is to find a new appeal to self-interest—to attract idle money from its hiding place by offering a new kind of bait.

What can be offered? Well, money is hiding in tax-free securities to escape taxation. Offer it a similar advantage if it will go to work.

Deny further favors to idle money and give advantages to money that works.

The great problem of the future, caused by the increase of labor-saving machinery, will be to provide jobs for men.

Offer tax reductions to those who make jobs. Reward capital that serves society. Bribe wealth to go to work.

If he accepts a bribe to work for the enemy, the way to win him back is to offer a bigger bribe.

No Bogus Bonus Money.
Boston Transcript.

What the Senate did under Hoover, the Senate will do under Roosevelt—refuse any further cash bonus. Senator Robinson's speech makes that certain. "The printing of more money for immediate cash payment of the soldiers' bonus would threaten the national credit and result in much more harm than good," the Democratic leader declared. He went further, and put himself equally on record against the issue of bonds to make such payment. Since that process would "require the banks to take the bonds and issue (currency) notes to the veterans," it amounts to the same thing as the printing of fiat money, he said, and thereby showed that he was opposed to it.

Beer on the Way Back.
Minneapolis Journal.

That the manufacture and distribution of beer will be legalized in the United States before next summer is almost a foregone conclusion, in view of the wet victories in the congressional and senatorial races at the polls Tuesday. Every dry that was beaten was beaten by a wet; every wet that was beaten was beaten by another wet.

That the eighteenth amendment would be resubmitted became a virtual certainty when the national conventions were held last summer. That there will be a legalization of beer without any wait for the decision of the States upon constitutional prohibition, is made another virtual certainty by the action of the voters on Tuesday.

Free to Act.
Chicago Tribune.

In a win of such sweeping character the winner is exceptionally fortunate. He is free from particular obligations which he might regret. The claims of clique and group upon him are not imperative. He has taken his mandate from a whole people and there are no special services to be regarded as imposing either moral or material obligations. When a great vote, both in the popular election and in the electoral college, makes a President he is free from the importunities of special interests and special pleaders.

It cannot be known what the official or popular viewpoint would be with regard to any given scheme for permanent reduction of these debts. But there is this much to be said: The advantages accruing to the American people through their assumption of the burden must be unmistakably and plainly demonstrated. Vague generalizations, no matter who makes them, will not be acceptable.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Says France Is Using Every Recourse to Escape Payment of Debt—Remission of Reparations Not Comparable to Cancellation of Debt.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The frank declaration by the editor of Le Matin, of Paris, that France would repudiate her debt to the United States and justify this repudiation on the ground that the country has meddled far too much in Europe's affairs, specifically by making loans to Germany and collaborating in the Dawes and Young plans, shows to what devious processes of reasoning the European mind will resort in the furtherance of its design. To claim that loans made by American and English bankers to rehabilitate Germany's war-worn industries incapacitated Germany to pay reparations to France is a subterfuge. It is equally absurd to hold the American Government responsible for the Dawes and Young plans. Gen. Dawes and Mr. Young were invited as private citizens by the allied governments to aid in untangling the mass of the Versailles treaty. Monsieur Lauzanne discloses the motive for these invitations, which were to keep us enmeshed in these entanglements. Now comes the request from the French government for cancellation or its equivalent.

France, ever since these loans were made, has resorted to every recourse of which the fertile brain of the Gaul is capable to escape payment. There can be no comparison between loans made by the American taxpayer to the French government, for which France has given her bond, and a fine imposed on the German government by France, at the point of the sword, on the theory that Germany was responsible for the war. The remission of a fine so imposed is in no way comparable to the cancellation of an obligation voluntarily entered into for value received.

Americans are far too sentimental and softhearted to deal with these hard and astute Europeans. We are flattered by their attentions, though we know they have their hands in our pockets.

When we read the account of the struggle made by our infant republic to honorably discharge its obligations to France for loans made during the American Revolution, and the pressure exerted by the French government to collect these loans—Jefferson even refers to threats of war by the French government—there can be no patience or sympathy with France, whose whole attitude during and since the war has been utterly selfish and crafty. This is the testimony of every American soldier who fought in France and of every one who has had any dealings there since.

Let us deal with these Europeans as they have always dealt with us. They have never given us anything.

We have serious problems of internal debt and taxation to grapple with that will take all of our resources and strength. Tell Europe to put its hat on its head.

Reader Trembles at Prospect of High-Powered Radio Ads of Beer and Whisky.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Anyone who has seen the advertisements used by liquor makers in the saloon days can't help but be struck with the fact that at least in one way (and probably many others) prohibition has been a 100 per cent success. I refer to its success so far as advertising is concerned.

The methods of presenting merits of their products in the old saloons were feeble and necessarily ineffective compared with the present-day so-called "high-powered" publicity methods used by modern advertising agencies. If these new methods have been valuable to tobacco producers, drug venders and the like, imagine their effect in behalf of "vitamined" beer or "violet-rayed" whisky. And aren't those rather obviously the lines, in the light of experience, that the liquor advertising would follow?

It is altogether possible, rather probable, that our ears would be asked over the radio whether we quaffed, guzzled or funneled. Do not the present "ads" justify it?

Let Your Contribution to Community Chest Make Thanksgiving Real to the Needy.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As Thanksgiving Day approaches I have no patience to waste on any who take a cynical delight in calling attention to things there is no reason to be thankful for. In spite of the pinch of hard times and aside from any thought of religion, the common sense doctrine is to make the best of the world as it is.

That doctrine in its practice brings peace of mind. It has a felicitous anniversary in Thanksgiving Day. In the observance of the day's feast of homes we this year have an extraordinary chance to give thanks in the best way possible. By liberal donations to the Community Chest we will give thanks by the lips of others. Mere verbal thanks may not amount to much. The best thanks of all are those which are uttered by the unknown beneficiaries of self-sacrificing generosity.

Wants Plain-Clothes Cops to Catch Red Light Crashers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am with your correspondent, C. F. Joseph, in his plea for plain-clothes cops to pinch "red-light crashers." With the rights of pedestrians and human life at stake, I think safety rules at street crossings should be enforced by every means possible. If the crasher is not ashamed to sneak by when the cop is not looking, I don't see how he has any right to get peeved and call the cops unsportsmanlike if the latter does some sneaking on his own account.

CATHOLIC U. UNITS' ATTENDANCE GAINS

Board of Trustees Meeting Reports $450,000 Collected.

Substantial increases in attendance in all schools of Catholic University were reported yesterday by the Right Rev. James Hugh Ryan, rector, at the semiannual meeting of the board of trustees in the John K. Mullen Library. His eminence, William Cardinal O'Connell, presided.

The annual collection for the university, Mgr. Ryan reported, increased 70 per cent during the past year, reaching a total of $450,000. He also stated that the new pontifical society, the "Friends of the Catholic University of America," is now organized in 67 dioceses.

Plans were discussed by the board for carrying out the financial program of the university during the next year. An organization has been built up to further the observance of "Catholic University of America Day" on Sunday night. Four of the members of the board of trustees will speak in connection with a Nation-wide alumni program on the Catholic University on Sunday, over the Columbia Broadcasting System at 6:15 o'clock.

The next meeting of the board of trustees will be held in April, 1933. Among those present at the meeting were: Cardinal O'Connel, D. D., Boston; the Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, D. D., Baltimore; the Most Rev. John J. Glennon, D. D., St. Louis; the Most Rev. John W. Shaw, D. D., New Orleans; the Most Rev. Francis J. L. Beckman, D. D., Dubuque, Iowa; the Most Rev. John T. West Virginia Wesleyan Asks for Radio Permit

Protests Are Delaying Park Land Payments

Luray, Va., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Payment for land included in the Shenandoah National Park area can be made to no one until some agreement has been reached with objecting landowners whose land must be taken in, inquiring landowners have been advised.

Inquiries have been received from a number of persons seeking settlement who raised no objection to the valuations placed by the appraisal commissions. It was announced that in following the crest of the Blue Ridge, as must be done in securing the minimum acreage, some land will have to be taken in where owners filed exceptions, and these will have to be settled before any landowners can be paid.

BETHESDA CHAMBER ATTACKS GAS RATES

Discrimination Is Charged in Move for Early Public Hearing.

Alleging that the citizens of Bethesda will be done irreparable damage in being forced to pay "unjust rates" while the commission is conducting a survey and appraisal of the property of the Georgetown Gas Light Co., the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce last night voted to petition the Maryland Public Service Commission for a public hearing in Bethesda at which early rearrangement of the rates could be urged.

The petition, prepared by Samuel E. Stonebraker, as attorney for the chamber, alleges that although the Bethesda district is a part of the Greater Washington area and is served by the same companies and the same mains, the rates charged for gas are much in excess of other sections served by the company, although the cost of such service is no higher to the company.

It alleges that the rates are unjust and unreasonable; discriminatory; that they retard the business interests of the district; that because of the high rates the service facilities of the gas company are not extended as rapidly as they should be and thus deprive the business interests and citizens of the service; that the business of the company is not being handled efficiently and not utilizing economical methods "which good business judgment and foresight would dictate;" that it is neither alleged nor denied that the earnings of the gas company are in excess of the amount which, assuming good management, it is entitled to receive as a return upon fair value; however, alleging that means and methods not now in use would be materially helpful in lowering such costs, and that while the essentials of character and service are identical with other sections, that Bethesda has not received like reductions in rates.

$194,232 REPORTED TO CHEST IN SECOND DAY OF CAMPAIGN

dent Woodrow Wilson before Congress. I don't remember the superb wording, but one of the phrases went something like this: 'America is privileged to spend her large treasure to maintain those principles for which she stands.'

"Omitting the word 'large,' we are privileged to spend our treasure to maintain peace and order in the community in which we live. Nothing whole life than a lack of that. I can compare it with the call to colors heard by 4,000,000 men in this country in 1917.

"The people of America have got to take this thing very seriously. It is more serious than any taxes, and no kind of legislation by Federal Government can solve the problem which confronts us in America today.

"I don't believe in the dole. It is long-arm philanthropy. We ought to register at least 300,000 people as glad givers to this cause. We must pay voluntarily to the cause or else it will be added to our taxes.

"Everybody has sustained cuts in salary. These cuts should not cut the amount of gifts. Rather, we should give more because the need is so utterly imperative and must be met. If we ever had a civic duty, it is in this very critical year. We are in a transition period which must issue to the advantage of the whole Nation and which makes this meeting of supreme importance to every one. You are engaged in a work that is quite comparable to that which called 4,000,000 men away from home, fireside, and occupation to follow the colors of the Republic."

Honor Banners Given.

Following the invocation by the Rev. Francis J. Hurney, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, honor banners were awarded to Team 134, Area I, of the Metropolitan unit, of which Mrs. W. M. Brown is captain, for the highest percentage of dollar quota, 43.06 per cent; to Division 2, Area III, of which Louis B. Arnold is chairman, for the highest percentage of dollar quota, 13.48 per cent; to the Special Gift Team, captained by Clarence A. Aspinwall for the highest percentage of dollar quota, 24.67 per cent.

Chairman Noyes then introduced the guests of honor, who included Mrs. Frederic A. Delano, Mrs. Whitman Cross, Mrs. Charles Bradley, Frederic A. Delano, first president, of the Community Chest, and John Poole, first campaign chairman and second president of the Chest.

Mr. Delano made a short talk in which he said in part:

"I am greatly interested in this effort that the Chest is making for 1933. All I can say and all I can ask of this community is that we learn to cooperate. Everybody is interested in saving the situation in Washington. Everybody should go to the limit in effort, whether it is in money or in services to meet this situation."

Reports Are Made.

Reports were made by Clarence A. Aspinwall for the Special Gift Unit; Governor Campbell and several chairmen for the Governmental Unit; Lloyd B. Wilson and his four area chairmen for the Group Solicitation Unit, and H. L. Rust, jr., and his four area chairmen for the Metropolitan Unit.

Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest, pointed out that the total to date of $384,836.48 would provide relief for exactly 59 days on the Chest plan of giving by the day. This, he said, leaves 306 days for which Washingtonians must contribute approximately $6,629 per day if the Chest is to attain its goal. While the results today were slightly behind those of last year, Mr. Street said the spirit shown by the workers encouraged him to believe that this condition would not obtain for long.

In closing the meeting Chairman Noyes urged every worker to "go out and push and push and push" until the requisite number of dollars have been pushed into the Community Chest.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

BEHIND SCHEDULE.

THE human animal grows physically, mentally and emotionally according to schedule. In the field of physical growth much work has been done on the schedule, and there is a considerable volume of information. The rate of growth in height and weight, the periods of acceleration and of slowing, seasonal variation, the rate of growth of different organs and their variations are subjects on which there is much information.

In the field of mental growth, as measured by ability to learn and progress in school, variations in interest and, therefore, of methods of learning at different ages, are well known. Teachers are experts in this field, and for psychiatrists who classify children into normals and feebleminded, with subdivisions into idiots, imbeciles and higher-grade feebleminded, this knowledge is the basis of classification.

Less is known and less use is made of what is known in the field of emotional development. Most of our virtues evolve out of our vices. Therefore, when social conflicts get into the field of the primitive, vice tends to replace virtue. When the two are in conflict vice is apt to conquer.

A baby is selfish and self-centered. Unselfishness is an acquired quality and never is a natural attribute. When things are primitive unselfishness is shed, and the human animal again becomes dormantly selfish. A baby knows nothing of the rights of property. That is an acquired point of view. When life becomes primitive the rights of property tend to vanish. The notion that "society owes me a living" is a return to the infantile. Thrift and a score of virtues tie in here.

The infant is amoral. Motions of morality are acquired. These educational or cultural acquirements follow each other in normal people as unselfishness, the first faint recognition of the rights of property, the ability to stand restraint without rage.

The program of "collecting" proceeds according to schedule, the first kind coming at one age, changing to a different one at another, and ending at a third age.

There is an infantile type of emotional reaction, a child type, pubertal type, and an adolescent type. Children are apt to get into trouble when one type carries on from the life period in which it was normal into one in which it is abnormal. Arrest of emotional development is liable to occur at any level, just as we have feeble-minded folks whose mental growth has stopped at 3, 7, 10, 14 or some other year.

A person 40 years of chronologic age, but with an adolescent emotional age, may be a misfit or even a criminal because he acts at age of 40 just as it is normal for a person to do at age 15 to 17. It is not easy for this person to understand whence comes the harm from doing what he does from natural impulse what he was applauded for doing at a younger age.

PROBABLY NOT BRIGHT'S.

N. C. writes: For the last few months my urine shows albumin but no casts. I have no swelling of feet or limbs. I am 73 years. Am dizzy and quite nervous, but think this is caused from hardened arteries. Do above symptoms show indications of Bright's disease?

REPLY.

Probably not. The chances are you have an enlarged prostate and some cystitis. This would cause some albumin and pus. If the inflammation extends to the kidney you will have casts and probably microscopic evidence of blood.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"SCORPIO."

IF November 16 is the date of your birth, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a. m. to 8:30 a. m., from 11 a. m. to 11:45 a. m., and from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. The danger periods are from 2:30 p. m. to 2:55 p. m., and from 6 p. m. to 7:30 p. m.

Astrological influences would seem to point to a day of rather hectic activity, with many treacherous currents and cross-currents of human meddling to be carefully navigated. Protect yourself against those who seek to rush you into making snap judgments. If you are expecting news from afar, you may anticipate that it will be of a happy nature.

The child born on this November 16 will unconsciously seek to pattern his thoughts and acts after those of his parents. He will in all cases turn to them for advice and guidance. These children will have very trusting and kind dispositions and care must be taken not to deceive them even in the slightest, for their affections can thus easily be lost.

If you were born on November 16, you may seek a career in almost any field of endeavor and feel confident of making a success of your work. You have the daring and courage that would enable you to do well in military pursuits; your ability to gather facts and to unify them would aid you greatly were you to devote yourself to a life of research; your winning personality, striking physical appearance, your ability to stand on your feet and think fast and logically, and your keen insight into human nature would make of you an able politician or diplomat. You have the ability, the desire and the good health to work hard, and these factors assure you of success, regardless of what your work may be.

You will probably not marry early in life, and when you do be careful not to pick a jealous mate. You are most attractive to the opposite sex and do not possess the necessary qualities to keep yourself from becoming involved in harmless but annoying flirtations. You are not worldy wise. You are much too trusting, and at times this ofttimes admirable quality is carried to the point of gullibility. You will dearly love your children, but often you will be at a loss to know how to best deal with them.

Successful people born on November 16:

Charles Eliot Norton, educator.
Timothy Dwight 2d, scholar and educator.
Henry Gillman, scientist and consul.
Minnie Hauk, singer.
Edward S. Dana, mineralogist.
Annie F. Loud, composer.

A RULE AND ITS EXCEPTIONS.

RULES laid down to govern bidding at the Contract table should ordinarily be followed, but a good Contract player must realize the exceptions to their application, which arise in almost every game. It is a generally accepted principle of correct bidding that if your partner has opened the contracting and Second Hand passes, you must give him a chance to speak again, even though your hand holds only from 2½ to 3 playing-tricks in support of the bid, which is not enough to justify a free Raise. The reason for this is firmly grounded in the fact that when the bidding is opened the players are groping in the dark, seeking to establish the contract in which the hand shall be played and the extent of that contract. An Opening bid of one may be made on a very big hand, or it may be a mere minimum. In any event, if an excuse can be found to give the Opening bidder a chance to bid again, it should be done. The situation is one quite well understood by most Contract players today; however, there is another situation which is not as well understood.

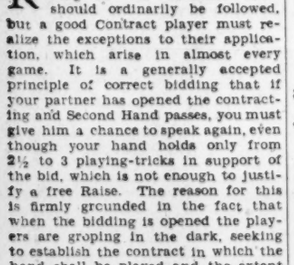
Assume the bidding to be: South, one heart; West, one spade. Now North, with a hand on which he would have bid two hearts or one notrump, in order to give his partner an opportunity to rebid, should ordinarily pass, as an opponent has kept the bidding open. Thus, such bidding as: South, one heart; West, one spade; North, two hearts, is clearly stronger bidding than: South, one heart; West, pass; North, two hearts. In the first instance there has been an affirmative declaration of playing-tricks in support of partner's bid. In the second instance, the hand may be a bare minimum, only strong enough to give partner an opportunity to rebid, if his hand was strong.

This being understood, I wish to give a hand which occurred in a recent team-of-four match in which, while both players appreciated the rue, one, holding the North hand, realized the exception and applied it, and thus reached a game contract, while the other, failing to read his hand as an exception, permitted the opponents to play the hand and make a part-score.

South—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♡	1♠(1)	2♡(2)	Pass
2NT(3)	Pass	3NT(4)	Pass
Pass	Pass



(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

1—Possibly a doubtful vulnerable Overcall. However, it was actually made at both tables.

2—In support of South's bid of one heart, North can count only a bare 8 playing-tricks. However, his hand presents on its face evidence of the fact that it is an exception. The fact that he holds two high honors in hearts clearly indicates that South's trump suit must be ragged. There is no other way than by bidding over the Overcall that North can show this to his partner.

3—Offering an alternative road to game.

4—Naturally North prefers to play the hand at notrump, as his honors now have a definitely added value. There are no ruffing-tricks in support of hearts, but the honors in that suit, coupled with partner's length, should make it very valuable in the production of a notrump game.

In the play, the Opening lead was a spade, West's hand suggesting no better alternative. The hearts, of course, were at once established, and the contract easily made.

At the other table, for this was a team-of-four match, South's Opening bid of one heart was overcalled by West with one spade, but North passed. East bid two clubs, South passed, and West rebid his spades, and in the play made two. The making of the game was based upon North's realization that his hand presented an exception to a sound rule.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Utterly graceful and individual, and most elegant and flattering do we find this dinner gown in black bagheera crepe, with white satin sleeves embroidered in white fringe. (Courtesy of Mirande, Paris.)

AN IMPORTANT style bulletin of mine reads, "Evening gowns of the finest woolens have been chosen for the winter by the smartest Parisiennes."

And has it ever occurred to you that the silhouette is influenced by the fabric? So let me let you in on a little secret—'tis that the style is influenced by the fabric, even before it is woven!

What do you think of that? Yes, it is that far-reaching—first a fabric wizard like Rodier, say, rounds up a lot of llamas. Then he breeds them for a few years, to be sure that they will live and multiply where he has put them. Then he, or his workers, rather, experiment for another few years on fabrics made from the llamas' hair. And after all that tremendous amount of work, all that patience and investment—Rodier has to approach the Haute Couture and ask them if they will accept and sponsor and make a style out of soft woolens! That was the exact story of kasha, imagine it. Then, seven or eight years after kasha first appears on the market, soft woolens become the style in evening gowns—it having taken all that time to change the silhouette and the artistic taste of Miladi to where she would accept the soft, form outlining, classical silhouette that woolens would give her.

I think it is positively thrilling, what do you think? And then to know that your Dah-ray knows all about these things years n advance of their appearance—well, isn't there something intersting bout being a Fashun Cricket after all?

• • • •

Have you a nightgown pattern or design that you really like? One that has been comfortable and stylish, chic and practical for years—one that you are sure of yourself? Well, we have! And, after all, you might just like to see the one we have, mightn't you? So better send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for it, because it is one that I myself have tried over a period of years and find most satisfactory. The best part of this nightie is that it is quite modest—something very desirable when it comes to traveling, my deah. And a better part of it is that it takes just 2¾ yards of material—which you know is quite a saving. Send for the leaflet and keep it on file, why don't you?

• • • •

Now, I couldn't live without this one! P'haps it is a good thing that I am nowhere near it, because it is my idea of AAAAAAAA dress! The dress I sketched, I mean—with its lovely lines, and the white satin sleeves embroidered all over in white braid so fine that it is really fringe—and hangs as fringe down the arm. Isn't it a dream? I do think so, and bet you do, too. 'Tis a design from Mirande, no less—and Paris unmistakably.

Au revoir.

F. C. Stetson Joins Georgetown U. Faculty

A recent graduate of the Georgetown Law School, Francis Carroll Stetson, of this city, has joined the faculty of the school as lecturer on the law of real property, succeding the late Howard Boyd, who was fatally stricken while teaching his class last month.

Mr. Stetson comes of a family long associated with Georgetown. His father, W. Stetson, vice president of the District Title Co., and an uncle, Andrew J. Shipman, local attorney, are both graduates of the law school. He also belongs to the Carroll family, of Maryland, a member of which was Georgetown's founder, the Rev. John Carroll, first archbishop of Baltimore. In 1916, Mr. Stetson was attending Harvard College, but quit to become an ambulance driver with the French army. He enlisted laied in the American Artillery and saw action in three major offensives. Upon his return to this country he reentered Harvard and obtained his degree in 1920.

Prize Debates to Begin Tonight at Georgetown

The first of a series of prize debates at the Georgetown University Law School will be held today at 5:10 p. m. A representative speaker for each of the four law clubs at the school will take part, the debate being in the nature of arguments before an appellate court.

The contestants in the first debate will be Joseph J. Stevens, of the Edward Douglas White Club, and William B. Spohn, of the Pierce Butler Club, acting as counsel for the defendant. Howard Boyd, of the John Carroll Club, and Cornelius K. Hurley, of the Ashley M. Gould Club, will appear for the plaintiff. There will be four preliminary debates to pick the entries for a final contest at the end of the academic year. Cash prizes will be awarded the five winners.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

CLEANLINESS INSTITUTE is a remarkable organization given over to the study of that which the Golden Rule teaches us is next to Godliness. Their experts have made an extensive study of the various movements used in housework and find that "it's surprising how many of the positions and movements are exactly like those for games and exercises." They venture that if women went about their housework with as much attention to form as if playing golf or tennis, they would derive very much the same sort of benefits from it.

The Apparatus in Your Kitchen.

In order to get the utmost benefit out of your housework exercise, your equipment should be right. Kitchen table the right height for you, and an adjustable stool, preferably with a back. Why stand and stoop when ironing, when you can adjust said stool to the right height and be seated. And your sink. Is it the right height for you so that you can stand in an easy, upright position before it? Continual stooping over a low sink means droopy shoulders and fatigued nerves. A block of wood under the dishpan will bring it up to the right height. Simple, isn't it? To save steps, all the necessary apparatus should be grouped right near the sink—drainboard at each end, soap dish near, shelf over the sink or near it with soaps and cleansers; dish mop, cloth and clean towels hanging nearby.

Fresh Air.

There should be plenty of fresh air in every room in the house, particularly in the room you work in—window open top and bottom. While you work, remember to make a conscious effort to breathe deeply, slowly, regularly in and out. Try to count four each time you inhale and four each time you exhale.

Washing Dishes.

Washing dishes? Remember to stand upright, abdomen in. Use wrists and elbow joints as much as possible, and some movement in the shoulder joint. Now put the dishes away. If you have to reach up, that's exercise for arms, shoulders, back and neck. Conscientiously stretch. Feel a pull up and down your arms and through your shoulders. Relax as you bring hands down to grasp more dishes and stretch as you put up. Now stretch and extend your fingers, spreading them apart. Relax bringing them into a loose fist. Repeat a few times. Shake your hands from the wrist. Repeat. Fine exercise for the hands.

Tomorrow, we'll get some beauty exercise via bed making.

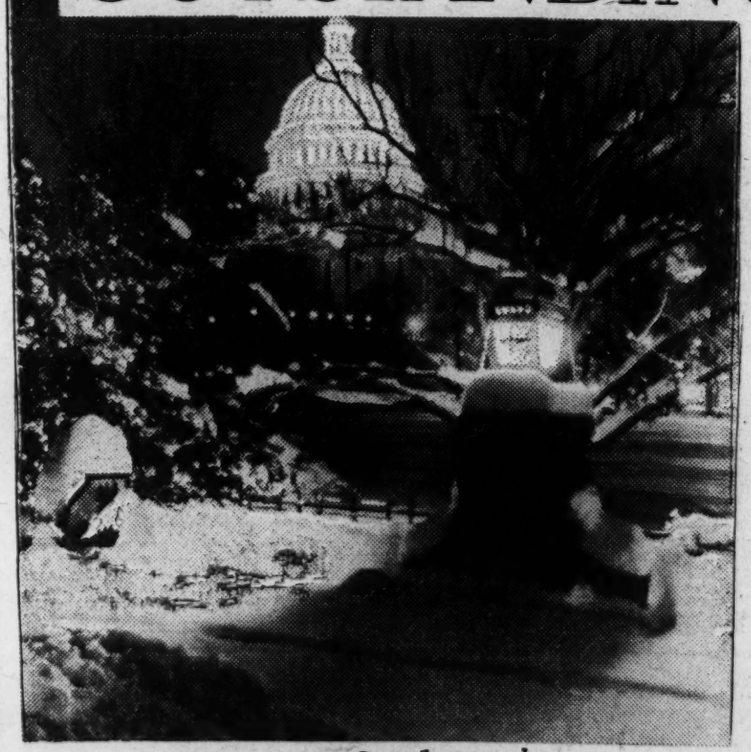
OUTSTANDING!



In a Class by Itself!

The United States Capitol . . . the seat of government of our great nation . . . a masterpiece of architectural beauty. No other capitol in the world can compare with it. It is in a class by itself.

So, too, is Electric Cookery outstanding . . . in a class by itself! No other cooking fuel can give you such efficiency that waste of heat is almost nonexistent . . . such economy that the cost of operation for the average family is less than $3 per month. In addition, consider its dependability, its speed, coolness, cleanliness, healthfulness and its completely automatic operation. A combination of all these features in one cooking method seems almost impossible . . . yet you get them all in Electric Cookery. That's why it is outstanding . . . in a class by itself! You can easily convince yourself by inspecting the new Electric Ranges now being shown.

ZONING IS PLANNED FOR FALLS CHURCH

Judge McCarthy to Be Asked at Early Date to Name Commission.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

Falls Church, Va., soon will ask Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of the Fairfax County Circuit Court, to appoint a zoning commission for the town. The town council has authorized its zoning and building committee, of which Dr. Julius Parmelee is chairman, to nominate citizens from each of the three wards for appointments.

The zoning problem has been under consideration by the committee for several years, during which time the zoning laws of the towns of Virginia have been studied as to their adaptability for Falls Church.

The council at its monthly meeting adopted an ordinance making it unlawful for any vehicle to back around the street corners in the corporation.

A report of delinquent tax payers in the town was submitted by Town Clerk J. C. Parrott and it was ordered filed with the clerks of Fairfax and Arlington Counties. The town finance committee was authorized to take the necessary steps to collect these taxes.

Major L. P. Daniel was instructed to send a memorandum to all citizens in the town outlining action necessary to qualify voters so that they may take part in local and county elections.

The town school board was authorized to borrow $1,700 from the State literary loan to pay for improvements at Jefferson High School. The board was advanced $2,000 from its budget allotment of $3,500 to meet current expenses.

She was taken to Casualty Hospital and admitted with multiple lacerations to her face and body. Physicians were unable to determine whether she would be able to finish the duration of the show. Police said she was struck by the machine of Geoffrey Crayle, 21, of 3525 R street northwest.

COUNTY USE OF TAX ON GASOLINE ASKED

Prince Georges Grange Aids Commissioners in Plan to Raise Funds.

The report of the Prince Georges County Grange recommending use of a part of the State gas tax for county roads was adopted yesterday by the county commissioners, and will be presented by the commissioners to a general meeting of other Maryland commissioners in Annapolis Friday.

At least one member of the Prince Georges County Board will attend the Annapolis meeting, called to discuss methods of lowering taxation at the next session of the Legislature. Joseph H. Blandford, who presented the grange report to the board, will also attend the meeting with the county delegation.

The grange report was made by a legislative committee and adopted last Thursday by the farmers' organization. It calls attention to the fact that expenditures for county roads are now about $171,000 per year, and that this amount will increase after 1934. A new assessment, scheduled for 1935, is expected to lower the taxable value of the county, making it even more difficult to finance county affairs without resorting to new sources of tax funds.

The report asks that 20 per cent of the gasoline tax receipts be diverted to the counties, to be divided just as the lateral road fund is now apportioned. This would give each county about $100,000, the sum to be spent by the county without any supervision by the State. The City of Baltimore now receives 20 per cent of the gasoline tax for the upkeep of its streets, and the grange suggestion is modeled on this provision.

The grange report also asks that the sum set aside for the elimination of grade crossings be returned to the State roads commission for general expenditure. This sum, now amounting to several million dollars, was raised by a half-cent tax on gasoline. It was intended to be used to match, dollar for dollar, any amount spent by the railroad for crossing elimination. In the last five years, however, the railroads have spent nothing for this purpose, the report says, so the money is lying idle.

Man Hit by Auto Dies; Driver Held by Police

William J. O'Connor, 32, of 2037 H street northeast, died at Casualty Hospital last night from injuries suffered last Thursday when struck by the car of Joseph Belt, of Colmar Manor, Md., at Nineteenth street and Benning road northeast.

An inquest will be held tomorrow. In the meantime, Belt is being held on an open charge.

Eight Mules

Bought by District and Will Be Sent to Reformatory.

Eight mules were bought yesterday by the District Commissioners, but the municipal officials insisted that the purchase had no political significance. Elephants could not have been used even if the Republicans had won.

The mules, obtained at $238.50 each from A. Rice Son & Co., are to be put to work at the District Reformatory at Lorton, Va.

Bond Sought for Watts In Slaying of Garrison.

Habeas corpus procedings will be filed in Prince Georges County Friday in an effort to obtain the release on bond of L. C. Watts, alleged slayer of Thomas V. Garrison, Attorney J. Frank Lillard said yesterday.

Watts, who was jailer of the Hyattsville jail until the shooting of Garrison, was ordered held for the grand jury without bond after a coroner's jury had declared him responsible for the shot which killed Garrison. Garrison was killed in the entrance to the Hyattsville Jail on November 7.

FOR WASHINGTON'S SAKE Give COMMUNITY CHEST

The element of safety in the management of trust funds is the more important because our obligations often run far into the future. Investments must be selected and watched with the greatest care. Trust funds must be kept separate from other bank money as they constitute an entirely distinct part of our business.

We are telling you these things about ourselves because the better we understand each other the more respect and confidence we have in each other. We keep open house every day and are always glad to discuss either estate or banking matters with you.

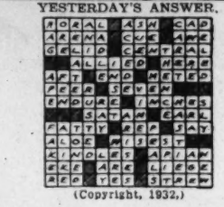
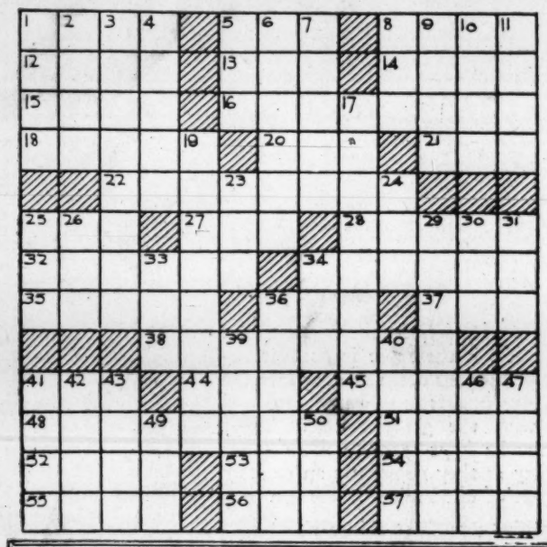
YESTERDAY'S ANSWER.



(Copyright, 1932.)



Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

LAWRENCE TIBBETT, barytone, and Richard Crooks, tenor, both members of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will be soloists for the Voice of Firestone when that program returns to the air for a new series, beginning Monday, December 5. They will alternate during the series. Mr. Crooks is scheduled to inaugurate the hour, and Tibbett will sing on December 12, 19 and 26. Crooks will appear again on January 2 and Tibbett on January 9.

The question is often asked, What are the most popular features on the air? Perhaps one answer might be found in the all-star American National Red Cross broadcast.

The Red Cross had its choice of the musical and entertainment talent of the whole country and chose the following, in this order, as having the widest appeal:

1. United States Marine Band, Capt. Taylor Branson, leader.
2. Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, Leopold Stokowski, conductor.
3. Amos 'n' Andy.
4. Revelers' Quartet.
5. Seth Parker.
6. Will Rogers.

The Right Rev. Lord William Gascoyne Cecil, Bishop of Exeter, who is visiting the United States under the auspices of the Committee on Interchange of Preachers and Speakers, will be heard over WRC at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. The subject of his talk will be "Must We Have War?"

"ONE complaint stands out above all others: Political candidates talk too long," observes Orrin E. Dunlap, jr., the New York radio critic. "Years ago the broadcasters were aware that a fifteen-minute address on the radio was quite enough; in fact, it requires a highly interesting speaker and a sparkling topic to hold an invisible audience that length of time. The broadcasters contend that candidates running for the Presidency, for the governorship or Congress must learn to discard hour-and-a-half speeches and condense their thoughts to fit in a half-hour, at the most.

"Owen D. Young was praised for his fifteen-minute oration for the cause of Democracy. More than one listener holds that speech as a model for all political speakers to follow."

Dr. Hugh Cumming, Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, will speak over the WJZ-WBAL network at 7:30 p. m. on "National Welfare Against Disease."

THE coming of Dr. Albert Einstein to the United States to serve as a member of the Princeton College faculty will remind many electrical men here that the wizard of relativity has a personal reputation in electronics and electrical invention quite independent of his mathematical abstractions. His best known electrical device before the European public is undoubtedly the "Einstein piano," a musical instrument which employs the vibrations of piano strings to actuate microphones, the output of which can then be modified by electrical circuits to produce a variety of instrumental effects when heard through a loud speaker. By changing switch contacts, various familiar standard instruments can be reproduced, or the player may soar off into new Einsteinian harmonies, creating musical notes of timbres and qualities never before heard in nature.

"The Einstein piano is but one of many new electrical musical instruments which are now holding public attention in Europe," O. H. Caldwell, former Radio Commissioner, explains. "Over there a large number of inventors has been at work on electronic devices for individual musical expression. In America a similar instrument just placed on the market commercially is the emicon, having a keyboard on which single notes can be played through the regular radio-set loud speaker, either separately or as an accompaniment to an incoming radio program. The $59.50 price at which the emicon is offered to the public will give an interesting test of the public's demand for instruments for individual musical expression."

Lucky Strike is said to be planning a Columbia Hour opposite its N. B. C. program. A clearing of the C. B. S. air for a Nation-wide hook-up is said to be the only delay in their presentation of a new program featuring Irene Castle, Arthur Murray, Tom Howard and Round-the-Towners and an orchestra.

CLAUDE MOYE, "Pie Plant Pete," was recently married in Erie, Pa., to Miss Jeanette Schauer, a Cleveland, Ohio, girl. * * * Robert Franc Schulkers, creator of "Seckatary Hawkins," has four children of his own—two sons and two daughters. * * * Brown University conferred an honorary degree in music on Dr. Walter Damrosch last week as part of a special program of the Institute of Art at the university. * * * Don Bestor and Art Jarrett have a checker feud on between broadcasting sessions. The score at this writing stands 15 games to 12, favor of Don Bestor. * * * When Notre Dame plays a home game the loudest voice among the rooters is that of Ralph Dumke. Ralph is now living in his home town of South Bend, Ind., and commutes to Chicago for his broadcast on Friday nights. * * * Mrs. Ernest Hutcheson is always in the control room when her husband rehearses with Howard Barlow's symphony orchestra. She makes notes on the reception of his playing and then offers suggestions. Incidentally, Mr. Hutcheson plays on a special piano, which is locked and kept in a corner of the studio when he is not using it.

LANNY ROSS, tenor of the Maxwell House Show Boat, recently appeared as guest of honor with the Madison Square Garden Boys' Club. The tenor sang several popular songs.

The boys listened intently as he sang "Say It Isn't So," "Let's Have Another Cup of Coffee" and other pieces, applauding each loudly. One curly headed youngster, however, seemed unimpressed. After the singing, Ross spoke to the boy.

"Didn't you care for my singing?" he asked.

"Yeah, I guess it was all right," the boy reluctantly said. "But can't you do any tricks?"

Man Sues for $10,000 Following His Arrest

Alleging that he was "unlawfully assaulted and imprisoned," Norman L. Pinkard, of Hyattsville, has filed suit in Prince Georges County Circuit Court against County Policeman Claude Reese, asking damages of $10,000.

According to Pinkard's attorney, J. Frank Lillard, the complainant was arrested on October 3 after Reese was notified that a pocketbook had been missing in Washington. Pinkard was taken to the Hyattsville police station, but was released when Reese was notified that the pocketbook had been found.

Silver Spring Man Sued After Auto Collision

L. H. Mitchell, of Silver Spring, Md., yesterday filed suit in District Supreme Court for $20,000 damages from Sidney G. Kaufman, of 2737 Devonshire place northwest, as a result of an automobile accident last July.

Mr. Mitchell, through Attorney Wilbur N. Baughman, charged an automobile driven by himself was struck by an automobile operated by Edward C. Furman, brother-in-law of Mr. Kaufman, at Seventeenth and D streets northwest. He laid the liability upon Mr. Kaufman on the theory that Furman was driving Kaufman's car at the time.

Your Thanksgiving-Day Prayer

The capacity for thankfulness, the emotion of gratitude and a desire to give these feelings expression is almost universal among men, from the most primitive to the most cultured. Nor does a mere prayer of Thanksgiving suffice for such expression. The successful savage hunter sacrificed his choicest trophies to express his gratitude for a successful chase. The early pastoral people sacrificed the choicest products of their herds and harvests in token of thankfulness for a fruitful year. The world is dotted with mighty temples and cathedrals whose heaven-climbing spires testify to the gratitude of their builders for blessings bestowed upon them. Our own Pilgrim fathers had little, but the best of what they had they tendered to their less fortunate fellows in a splendid feast of Thanksgiving. And as we approach the feast which commemorates that first festival of thankfulness, let us give more than lip-thanks for the fact that we have enough so that from our store, however scanty it may be compared with what we have had in other years, we may give something, if only a few pennies a day, so that we, through the Community Chest, may give thousands of those less fortunate than we, something for which they, too, may be Thankful. Let us, too, give concrete expression to our Thanksgiving Prayer.

KREISLER IS SUPERB IN CAPITAL PROGRAM

Audience Finally Persuaded to Leave Hall After Five Encores.

Thousands of music lovers attending the concert of Fritz Kreisler, the world's premier violinist, at Constitution Hall yesterday afternoon refused to leave the auditorium after the artist had given five encores at the conclusion of his formal program and the lights had been dimmed twice in the effort to clear the hall.

Only when Kreisler came on the stage once more and indicated laughingly that his arms were utterly exhausted did the wildly applauding audience, which was composed of some of Washington's leading social celebrities, music lovers, musicians and a throng of average concert goers, consent to leave the hall. It was one of the most thrilling incidents in the history of music in Washington and a spontaneous tribute to a great musician.

In a stage box were the Hungarian Minister and Countess Szechenyi, who had come to hear the countrymen of the minister. Other diplomatic leaders were in the audience as well.

The three-fold Kreisler, the virtuoso, the poet and the composer, was displayed in the program and its playing. With impeccable surety of interpretation he gave the works of other composers added luster by his performance of them; his vivid bow, like a living thing, sang the deathless melodies of genius on the throbbing strings of his gorgeous violin with its golden, soul-deep tones. And then finally came the high point of the program, the matchless playing of the musical creatures of his own brains, his lovely "Caprice Viennois," with its enchanted notes light as the rustle of an angel's wings; the "Liebesfreud," beloved of all who know the violin, and other compositions of his which embodied the very spirit of music itself and had little of the mortal in them.

To attempt to explain Kreisler's playing is akin to the futile task of gilding the lily or painting the summer rose with a 10-cent box of water colors.

Loucks Seen Likely Broadcasting Czar

Washington Executive of Radio Group Slated as Supervisor.

St. Louis, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Alfred J. McCosker, of New York, was elected president of the National Association of Broadcasters at today's session of the annual convention, at which the organization also empowered its executive committee to appoint a "czar" to supervise broadcasting activities.

Leo J. Fitzpatrick, of Detroit, was elected first vice president and John Shepard 3d, of Boston, second vice president. Arthur Church, of Kansas City, was named treasurer. Directors will be appointed tomorrow.

Members of the association said that Philip G. Loucks, of Washington, present managing director of the broadcasters' organization, was mentioned informally as the likely appointee for the position of "czar" to supervise the industry. With appointment of such an official the executive committee would be abolished.

Student, 15, Unaware Of Neck Being Broken

Grand Island, Nebr., Nov. 15 (A.P.). Gene Smith, 15, doesn't know how long he went around with two broken vertebrae before the injury was discovered.

His neck was in a plaster cast today and physicians said any severe jolt after the break might have been disastrous. The injury was noted by a physician who X-rayed Gene for a supposedly minor affliction. He had been attending school and playing as usual.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

Lupe Velez.

TIMES change, as do methods, motives and surrounding circumstances, but the motion picture industry, basically, remains about the same. It is still the least stable of the major creative occupations and in essence an endless battle for supremacy among a small group willing to stake fortunes on their own powers of perception and individual capabilities.

Back in the old days — meaning in the neighborhood of 1914, when D. W. Griffith, Thomas H. Ince and Mack Sennett were recognized as the "big three" in the field of production and skillful direction—competition was as keen as it is now. Maybe keener. Perhaps Mack Sennett was the most severely handicapped of any of the leaders of that comparatively remote era by reason of the fact that most comedies—and comedies, of course, were his specialty—were limited in length to a single reel of approximately 1,000 feet. But it took more than any such trivial obstacle as that to give the silver-thatched Irishman pause. With Griffith and Ince going great guns with pictures like "The Birth of a Nation" and "Civilization," he shocked the film colony—and the rest of the world, too, for that matter—out of at least a year's growth by announcing his intention to undertake a comedy in six full reels!

Everybody thought he was crazy. And so he was—just the way a fox is a total imbecile!

His feature-length comedy was "Tillie's Punctured Romance," enlisting the joint services of a few mere tyros like Marie Dressler, Charlie Chaplin, Mabel Normand, Mack Swain, Charlie Murray, Chester Conklin, Al St. John, Ford Sterling and a few dozen others of comparable rank.

The industry is perhaps too old now, and too inured to the extravagances of excessive pipe-dreaming, to be much startled by any man's announcement of his production plans, but just the same, there may be something to think about in Sennett's 1932 project to make a fifteen-reel comedy, with at least one star of the first flight for every reel! His hope now is to make a picture of sufficient quality and sufficient quantity to assure a return of at least 10 per cent on the investment.

The greatest assemblage of stars ever in one picture, barring, of course, the revue type of musical that flourished when sound was still a novelty, was for "The Affairs of Anatol," a round decade ago. In this one, Cecil B. De Mille had Gloria Swanson, Wallace Reid, Bebe Daniels, Elliott Dexter, Monte Blue, Agnes Ayres, Polly Moran, Wanda Hawley, Raymond Hatton and numerous others of lesser rating.

It is the casual opinion in Hollywood at the moment that if Mack Sennett can combine four kinds of "It"—Clara Bow, Lupe Velez, Jean Harlow and Dorothy Burgess—with Edmund Lowe's heroics, Roscoe Ates' staccato diction, Ben Turpin's quarreling eyes, Moran and Mack's lethargic dawdling, Mack Swain's prodigious heft, and Lloyd Hamilton's mincing uncertainty, and still tell a story that will be worth listening to, he ought to get next year's golden statue for inspired directorship.

And the chances are he can do it!

Mr. Stephen E. Cochran, reigning panjandrum at Col. Rapley's National Theater, drops by to leave many heartening messages, among them the announcement that Irving Berlin's latest musical show, "Face the Music," starring Mary Boland, surrounded by a huge company of Broadway's musical comedy favorites, will make an early appearance on E street.

This is the musical piece that satirizes the recent political upheaval in New York City, that culminated in the resignation of Mayor Jimmy Walker, and lampoons municipal government much after the manner that George S. Kaufman and George Gershwin's "Of Thee I Sing" pokes fun at the Federal Government here in Washington and national politics. Kaufman, incidentally, also directed the book of the Berlin production.

"Face the Music," you should be reminded, is the first big musical show Irving Berlin has written in five years and, running true to form, affords an evening full of popular song hits, including "Another Cup of Coffee, Another Piece of Pie," "Soft Light and Sweet Music" and "Castles in Spain."

Immediately following its current engagement in Boston, where it is this week inaugurating a Nation-wide tour—after a long run in the New Amsterdam Theater in New York—it will be seen here at the National for a week.

Contrary to the original plan and consequent announcement, the first of the week's matinees will not be given on Friday when Ethel Barrymore appears at the National Theater next week in "Encore."

It was the first thought that the best interests of all concerned would be served by having both matinees follow the Thanksgiving holiday. More mature deliberation, however, has convinced Miss Barrymore that four performances in two days would place an undue strain upon her and her associates in the company. Therefore, announcement now is made that the matinees, as usual, will be presented on Wednesday and Saturday, with no extra holiday matinee on Thursday.

It is hoped that this will serve as a blanket reply to numerous inquiries that have reached this desk with regard to the possibility of a special Thanksgiving Day matinee. There definitely will be none.

The boys are breaking out with previews again, bless their helpful hearts! While Mr. Rodney Collier, by prearrangement, was stretching a point, and probably his good nature, by giving these aged eyes a midnight glimpse of "Air Mail" last night, the Messrs. Barron, Gilmore, Driasell et al., at Loew's Fox, were screening "Payment Deferred" for those whose leisure moments do not coincide with our own. This is just another irritating aspect of the inexorable law that precludes one's being in two places at the same time.

In an effort to elude a similar conflict of good intentions, Master Hardie Meakin, of RKO-Keith's has summoned the press to an advance peak at Richard Dix and Ann Harding in "The Conquerors" in his opera house Saturday midnight.

Personally, I am coming to attach the greatest importance to the comparatively new theory that sleep is sleep whenever you get it, and need not necessarily occur before midnight to be efficacious in preventing the old body from falling apart.

Which is fairly lucky, for these screenings of moon pitchers, like being a night watchman—and aren't we all?—certainly do cut into your evenings!

Tax Rate Decrease Studied in County

Every Effort to Be Made for Montgomery Cut, Shaw Declares.

Comprehensive study of all existing possibilities to reduce the direct tax rate is being made by the Montgomery County, Md., Commissioners and other county officials, it was announced yesterday by Lucy Shaw, president of the board of county commissioners.

Every effort will be made to reduce the county tax rate through all economies that will not be harmful to the public good and through the opportunity to shift part of the money now required for school operation and maintenance and raised by direct levy on the property of Montgomery County to indirect taxation on nonessentials or luxuries.

It is proposed to take a substantial portion of the school tax and the road maintenance tax out of the tax bills of the property owners of the county, but the plan will require legislation in which Montgomery County will be represented by Senator Robert G. Hilton and the already elected members of the House of Delegates.

School Project Bids Authorized

Resignation of Dr. Ladson as Trustee Accepted in Montgomery.

Bids on six items of school construction as soon as final plans can be finished were authorized yesterday by the Montgomery County Board of Education. The items are: Addition to Bethesda Elementary School; new building for Fairland Elementary School; addition to Woodside Elementary School; construction of a unit of the Chevy Chase Elementary School; reconstruction work on the Germantown School and the Rockville Colored High School Building.

The resignation of Dr. Thomas Ladson as trustee of the Sherwood School was accepted. John B. Bean was appointed trustee of the Derwood School, and John A. Johnson, a trustee of the Spencerville colored school. The board authorized its transportation committee to study future policies for transportation of pupils.

A delegation from the Glenmont School requested the board to pay part of the costs of providing further equipment in the school cafeteria. The request was referred to the supervisor of school property.

Virginia Treasury Gets $54,557 in Dog Fees

Richmond, Va., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Local treasurers paid $54,557.66 into the State treasury from dog license collections during the first ten months of the year, C. Emmett Downs, chief clerk in the county officers' section of the State comptroller's office, announced today.

This amount represents 15 per cent of the dog license fund, which, with proceeds from hunting and fishing licenses, goes to support the State commission of game and inland fisheries. The remaining 85 per cent of this fund is held for local purposes.

SPOT ZONING CHARGE DENIED BY FELLOWS

Arlington Board's Policy Is Defended by Chairman at Rosslyn.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Speaking at the meeting of the Rosslyn Civic League, County Board Chairman Harry A. Fellows declared reports that the board is adopting a policy of "spot zoning" is without foundation.

"The board did at a recent meeting," he said, "reverse the decision of the zoning appeal board and approve the application of Harry Stewart, of Ballston, rezoning his property from residential to commercial. The case has been reopened, new evidence has been taken and what the board will do at its meeting on Saturday I am not in a position to say."

Discussing the question of zoning further, Mr. Fellows pointed out that there are now large tracts of land zoned residential, but when developed it may be found necessary to make changes as stores will be needed.

Assured that the military authorities will cooperate, the Arlington County Board has renewed its efforts for construction of the Lee boulevard through to the Memorial Bridge.

Joseph D. McDonnell, owner of a large tract of land through which the boulevard would pass, has informed the board that he has been assured by military authorities that recommendations will be made for the transfer of needed rights of way provided the boulevard takes the original route. There would be opposition to building the road only to Pershing drive, thus throwing all traffic through the military reservation, he says.

County Manager Roy S. Braden has been instructed to arrange, if possible, a conference between H. G. Shirley, chairman of the State Highway Commission; Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and Col. Harry N. Cootes, commandant at Fort Myer.

J. C. McClellan was reelected president of the Jefferson Civic League at its meeting last night in the community house at Virginia Highlands. Other officers are, Archie Davis, first vice president; Roy L. Miller, second vice president; L. J. Hinman, secretary, and Charles T. Thrope, treasurer. Delegates to the Arlington County Civic Federation are J. C. McClellan, Roy L. Miller, G. O. Basham and A. Dexter Davis. Alternates, Clyde M. Mills, E. J. Skidmore and Charles T. Thrope.

The delegates were instructed to take up the question of relief from the alleged crowding of buses carrying students to the Washington Lee High School. The following committee was appointed to participate with a similar committee of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Nellie Custis School in a conference with the school board and bus officials: W. Glen Bixler, Thomas Moore, Roy L. Miller and J. H. Frank.

Waiting until the last day, hundreds of motorists of Arlington County blocked highways in Rosslyn, Cherrydale, Falls Church and Clarendon yesterday in an effort to have their cars tested in accordance with the State traffic laws.

State police say they will be on the highways today on the lookout for all persons operating cars without the required red seal on their windshields.

With the election of J. Kenneth Lewis, of Lyon Park, as president, the music club at the Henry Clay School in Lyon Park has been organized. Catherine Crist is secretary, and Dorothy Lee Nutt chairman of the program committee. Other members of the committee are Neil Wheeler and Mildred Bolen.

Caddington to Address Citizens.

CAPITAL MAN GETS TERM FOR PERJURY

Neal O'Leary Is Sentenced After Pleading Guilty in Divorce Case.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Neal O'Leary, of Washington, has been sentenced in Alexandria Corporation Court, Judge William P. Woods presiding, to serve a term of eighteen months in the State penitentiary, after entering a plea of guilty to a perjury indictment in connection with his suit for divorce.

O'Leary was the principal witness against Attorney Richard B. Washington in a hearing before three judges to show cause why his license to practice should not be canceled, and which resulted in the suspension of Attorney Washington's license for five years.

Last Saturday, however, the judges, after hearing additional evidence, granted Mr. Washington a new hearing, which is set for November 26, before the same judges—Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of the Sixteenth Judicial Circuit; Judge William A. Moncure, of the Chancery Court of Richmond, and Judge Woods, of the Alexandria Corporation Court.

The November membership meeting of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, after a study of the annual budget of the city, decided to leave further study in the hands of its special budget committee. The item in the budget providing funds for the public schools, which propose to reduce the appropriation for next year by $26,000, occupied most of the discussion. The chamber has been conducting a campaign for greater efficiency in the school system, and many of the members believe that if a cut in the school appropriation is necessary, it should not be in greater proportion than for the other departments of the city government. It was stated that the proposed cut in school appropriations amounts to 20 per cent, while the reduction in the tax rate amounts to only 8 per cent.

A report of the school committee, which set forth that many of the recommendations contained in the recent survey of the schools had not been carried out, was adopted. Col. Clarence Deems, jr., former professor of military science and tactics, said the report was "mild" as compared with conditions he had found. He stated he was "astounded" that the taxpayers stood for the conditions. R. C. Bowton, superintendent of schools, stated that many of the conditions complained of had been remedied. Dan S. Hollenga, business manager, said a conference would be held with the school board soon to discuss the report.

The meeting adopted resolutions adopted by the board of directors, which favor legislation to balance the Federal budget and reductions in relief payments to former service men except those injured in action, and opposing payment of the bonus before it is due.

IT'S A GREAT comfort for Grandmother to have a weekly chat with her son and his family. Dad and Mother and children like it too. It's almost like a family reunion.

Dad has an extension telephone by his easy chair in the living room. He knows it adds to the comfort of the evening.

Grandmother not only has an extension telephone. She has a special device for the hard of hearing as well.

This family knows the endless conveniences offered by the telephone. They enjoy them daily—and at a cost so small they don't miss it.

51ST HARVARD-YALE GAME PUZZLING GRID CRITICS

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE bangtails back at Bowie yesterday. . . . And they're all trying. . . . Owners wanting the purse money to hit the trail to Southern tracks two weeks hence. . . . It's the lucky owner who gets a horse in a race at Bowie. . . . As many as 50 nominees excluded from some of the races yesterday. . . . When they're in there they're tryin'. . . . An Indian summer day it was with overcoats superfluous in the sun that bounced off the concrete "lawn." . . . Tips as free as the sunlight. . . . Dr. J. Fred Adams liked the chances of his Old Field. . . . But the public didn't. . . . They made True Sentiment the 7-to-10 favorite in the first race, but he quit at the finish. . . . And Old Field popped down in front with a $146.10 mutuel. . . . Vacillate was on everybody's tongue in the second. . . . Two to one in the first odds. . . . Despite the fact he hadn't been out of the barn all summer. . . . But Wise Count got the "come back" money. . . . And went to the post at 13 to 10. . . . And won like a Man o' War by five lengths. . . . After Vacillate quit cold. . . . They overlooked Drombo in the third. . . All but Bill Bennings, The Post handicapper, who threw out those dull races on the heavy and muddy track at Pimlico. . . . It was no contest with Drombo moving into a two lengths' lead at the turn with express speed and finishing four lengths in front of Lone Hand. . . . And paying $40.80 in the $2 mutuels. . . . The first win of the day for Jockey Gilbert. . . . Who is threatening to take the lead from Hank Mills as America's leading rider. . . . Needs eight more wins in the remaining twelve days at Bowie and is a sure shot to get 'em. . . . With Mills on the ground as a result of grabbing bridles in the Pimlico Futurity. . . . And taken back to Colorado by his father, who says that big-time racing is getting the best of his boy. . . . Who is only 16. . . . Kincsen goes to the post at 40 cents on the dollar in the fourth. . . . And is left. . . . Twenty lengths behind the leader going to the clubhouse turn and making up 'no ground quickly. . . . Monel is in front at the half, but folds up. . . . Kincsen begins to move at the far turn. . . . And from seventh at the half is first at the three-quarter pole. . . . A great stretch runner and outstays the underrated Espinetta to win by a half length. . . . Another favorite goes down in the fifth. . . . General A. at 13 to 10 runs an even race, second all the way. . . . Laurel fans put over Try It at 14 to 1. . . . When the faint-hearted Late Date, which has been running with high-class horses, chucks up the lead in the stretch. . . . The second winner for Gilbert. . . . Aymond is the paddock "good thing" in the sixth. . . . And goes to the post the second choice at 3 to 1. . . . But John F. figures on "dope." . . And Gilbert rides his third winner. . . . Triple Threat is the pace setter to the stretch turn. . . . Ridden by little Jimmy Sullivan, Washington lad who used to deliver The Post to your door, perhaps. . . . But Sullivan doesn't have the horse under him that Gilbert has and John F. wins by two lengths. . . . Even the stable was surprised at Triple Threat's second money. . . . Aymond is a poor sixth. . . . But is claimed after the race for $1,500. . . . Two ne'er-do-well sons of Man o' War go to the post in the seventh. . . . Quarter Deck at 3 to 1 and Full Dress at 18 to 1. . . . Quarter Deck holds up the start for seven minutes. . . . Until finally placed on the outside with a twitch on his nose. . . . And is left at the post as the betters money is burned up. . . . Full Dress is the winner. . . . Staving off Garlic's stretch run by a head. . . . With Quarter Deck making up a half furlong to finish third. . . . The best horse in the race but a bad risk on account of his post manners. . . . Twelve more days at Bowie and no more racing in The East until the bangtails return to Bowie on April 1.

Tom Armour And Watrous Lead Pros

131 Best-Ball Score for 36 Holes Tops Pinehurst Field.

Washington Golfers Trail; Open Play Starts Today.

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Al Watrous and Tommy Armour, Detroit sharpshooters, today led 53 other professional best ball teams down the home stretch to capture first money in a preliminary to the thirteenth annual Midsouth open tournament. They carded 68—63—131 for the 36 holes.

Their closest rivals, Mike Turnesa and Tony Manero, of Elmsford, N. Y., were three strokes behind with 68—66—134.

On the heels of second money winners came three teams with 135. One was composed of Herman Barron, Port Chester, N. Y., and Tom Creavy, Albany; one of Tom Kerrigan, Mount Vernon, N. Y., and Johnny Farrell, Marmaroneck, N. Y., and the other of Clarence Owen, Greenville, S. C., and Henry Picard, Charleston, S. C.

D. C. Golfers Finish Far Back.

Washington, D. C., golfers finished far down on the list, Archie Clark, paired with Jack Forrester, of New York, being the first to show, this pair registering, 73, 69—142. Cliff Spencer, paired with Joe Fungy, of Martinsburg, dropped out after having a first round card of 75, while George Diffenbaugh and Al Treder failed to turn in any scores.

Armour and Watrous blazed their way to the title with six birdies and an eagle, the former United States and British champion teaming smoothly with the one-time British open runner-up to serve notice they will have something to say about tomorrow's prize money, $800.

Armour was two strokes under par for the first three, and Watrous kept the work up with an eagle 3 and a birdie 2 in succession. Coming back, Armour had two birdies and Watrous one.

Approximately 120 golfers were expected to tee off for the 36-hole open tournament tomorrow.

Trainer Midgley Shot and Robbed

Body Found by Wife; Had Recently Been Banned by Race Body.

Baltimore, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—William R. Midgley, 55, suspended trainer of thoroughbreds and owner of a small racing stable, was found shot to death in his home here today.

His wife told police she heard the report of a gun and she ran to the bathroom, where her husband had been bathing a short time before to discover him with a bullet through his heart.

Just before the report of the shooting reached police, two men were arrested on charges of robbing him, and investigators were attempting to link the loss with his death. He is known to have lost a stop watch, valued at $175.

Midgeley formerly managed the stable of Dr. J. Fred Adams, of Catonsville, Md., and last summer was at the New York tracks training for C. J. Eisenhardt, of Baltimore.

His license was revoked after a race in which Portan, an Eisenhardt entry, was sent to the post at Empire City in what was said to be an unfit racing condition.

GLAZER DARTMOUTH LEADER.

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 15 (U.P.).—Philip J. Glazer, of Memphis, Tenn., veteran right tackle, was elected captain of the 1933 Dartmouth football team at a meeting of lettermen here today.

Glazer, outstanding man in the Dartmouth line during the season just closed, played on the 1930 freshman eleven and has been a mainstay on the varsity for the past two seasons.

Injury May Finish Hamas as Fighter

Wrenched Knee Forces Young Jersey Heavyweight to Fistic Sidelines.

New York, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—A knee injury threatens to end the boxing career of Steve Hamas, promising young heavyweight from New Jersey.

Hamas wrenched ligaments in his knee several months ago and spent six weeks in the hospital. An operation was performed, but the injury failed to respond to treatment.

Forced to the fistic sidelines, Hamas has returned to his first athletic love, football. A star at Penn State, he now is coaching Montauk High School's eleven.

G. U. DEFEAT IS SEEN BY BUCKNELL

Loss of Two Regulars Fails to Lower Optimism of Bisons.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEWISBURG, Pa., Nov. 15.—The loss of two regulars, one of them Capt. Ed Nied, tackle, has failed to lower the optimism with which Bucknell regards its game in Washington next Saturday with Georgetown University. Incidentally it will be the final Bucknell game of the season, and will end the college football careers of five Bison regulars.

Nied suffered a dislocated shoulder against Western Maryland last week. Jack Dempsey, regular left tackle, whose familiar name has been causing Bucknell authorities frequent occasions to deny that they have subsidised the former world's heavyweight champion, also will be out of the game, but his place and that of Nied have been taken by capable sophomores and the rock-bound Bison line is as good as ever.

Georgetown to Face Clever Ends.

Intent upon handing Georgetown its sixth straight loss, Bucknell will send a big and determined squad to Washington Saturday. The graduating seniors who will see service are George Vetter, left half back; Henry Seiss, Jud Ruch and Ed Wood, line men. Georgetown should have trouble attempting to skirt the ends of Tim Delaney and Jack Dorman, whose defensive skill is expected to pile up the Georgetown plays, which send Al Kelley and Ray Parcells around end.

Coach Snavely is depending on the center of his line, James and Wood, guards, and Furiell, center, to stop the new Georgetown power plays, and perhaps burst through to break up the uncertain handling of the ball by the Georgetown backs and throw them for losses.

Clark Hinkle's shoes this season have been filled, to a large degree, by Joe Reznichak, shifty-hipped sophomore.

Football Briefs

(Associated Press.)

New York—Fordham held a lively defensive session against Oregon State plays put on by the freshmen. The Rams had no trouble stopping the running attack but failed to diagnose several passes.

New York—Columbia regulars had some difficulty breaking up the Syracuse attack put on by the "coaches" team in a long dummy scrimmage. The Lions looked better in an offensive drill against the scrubs.

West Point, N. Y.—Army again conducted its practice in strict secrecy, aiming at the Notre Dame and Navy games. The coaches would give no information about what went on behind the curtains.

New Haven, Conn.—Yale spent most of its practice period drilling on passes and Coach Mal Stevens went into the back field to demonstrate how to throw them. The Elis also went through a defensive session against Harvard plays. Andy Callan, slightly injured in the Princeton game, replaced Joe Crowley at right half back.

Cambridge, Mass.—Speed was strongly emphasized in Harvard's preparations for the Yale game as the Crimson went through a long session, divided between attack and defense. Every member of the squad was in uniform, but Coach Eddie Casey did not take chances of injuries by ordering contact work.

Worcester, Mass.—Holy Cross put in a hard session at fundamentals and topped it off by rehearsing its attack in a signal drill. Capt. Jim Ryan, idle since the first game of the season, was at right tackle on the varsity.

Navy Readies Passes for Irish Game

Miller Plans Aerial Attack in Notre Dame Battle.

"Swede" Larson Now Being Groomed for Full Back Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 15.—Following a protracted drill in signals, formations and kicking, Navy football players today were put through an intensive dummy scrimmage, in which offensive forward passing was stressed, as they continued their preparations for the game with Notre Dame at Cleveland on Saturday.

Head Coach Rip Miller and his staff of assistants worked steadily with first, second and third varsity strings, alternating in the offensive drive against the shock troops, and the various plays were reeled off with gratifying smoothness and there was some nifty handling of passes.

All of the regulars participated in the workout with the exception of Gordon Chung-Hoon, Hawaiian half back star, who sustained a slight leg injury in the Maryland game Saturday, and he was given another day of complete rest, the mentors not desiring to aggravate the ailment in any way.

Larson Draws New Attention.

Of the large group of back field men, one from whom little has been heard this season but who attracted much attention today is Harold H. "Swede" Larson, who hails from Collingswood, N. J. Larson played end on the plebe team last season, and he was a candidate for a like berth with the varsity group. Recently, however, he has been in the process of grooming for full back, as an understudy for "Soupy" Campbell. Larson weighs 175 and is 5 feet 11 inches tall and is strong and fast. Not that the coaches view him as a "find," but the squad is lacking anything in the way of heavy back field talent. Campbell packs only 173 pounds, but is a hard line plunger and a fine blocker.

Arrangements for the departure of Naval Academy football players for Cleveland for the Notre Dame game to be played in the Municipal Stadium there on Saturday were completed today. Forty-three gridders will make the trip, and with coaches, attendants, officers and others the party will number about 75.

Squad Will Leave Thursday Night.

The squad will travel in a special train over the Baltimore & Ohio, leaving Annapolis at 7:30 Thursday evening and arrival in Cleveland will be in ample time for the squad to indulge in a final prep on the playing field. During the trip the Middies will be under the direct charge of Capt. John W. Wilcox, jr., director of athletics, and Lieut. Comdr. John L. Hall, jr., director of football and graduate manager of athletics.

Cleveland, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—A huge tarpaulin, hauled in two trucks, arrived here today from the Notre Dame field house at South Bend, Ind., and was immediately placed on the playing field of Cleveland Stadium to insure dry footing for the Notre Dame-Navy football game next Saturday.

Record Crowd to See Trojan-California Tilt

San Francisco, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—With nothing more at stake than the settlement of an annual rivalry, Stanford and California will meet at Berkeley Saturday in a football game that will draw the largest crowd, the most money and will cost the highest price for tickets of any contest played thus far this season.

The crowd of 79,403 fans, which is all that Memorial Stadium holds, will pay approximately $389,000 to watch the thirty-eighth annual encounter. Taxable tickets will net the Government around $35,400.

Giants Challenge Fordham Gridmen

Pros Would Prove Superiority Over Collegians in Game for Charity.

New York, Nov. 15 (U.P.).—Tim Mara, owner of the New York Giants of the National Professional Football League, tonight challenged Fordham University's team to meet the Giants in a charity game to decide the old question of superiority between college or professional football.

Mara's challenge followed publication today of a newspaper statement by Fordham's assistant coach, Hiker Joy, claiming that a good college team is better than a good professional team.

Mara notified Daniel M. Daniel, chairman of the sports committee of the mayor's fund for relief of unemployed, that the Giants would be available after December 4 for a game with Fordham to settle this question "without doubt." He assured Daniel that the Giants would offer their services "without expenses of any kind," and that the entire receipts could go to the fund.

Maj. Frank Cavansugh, head coach at Fordham, tonight said he doubted that Fordham officials would permit the team to play a professional outfit, as it has been against the school's policy in the past.

Schmeling-Baer Bout Challenge to Garden

Paris, Nov. 15 (U.P.).—Plans for competing directly with the Madison Square Garden Corporation by holding a Max Schmeling-Max Baer heavyweight bout in New York in June were announced today by Jeff Dickson, the American promoter who operates in Europe. The bout would be held at the Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds, Dickson said. He plans a second show in July.

Duquesne's Dukes Who Will Face Catholic U. Here

Coached by Elmer Layden, one of Rockne's famed four horsemen, Duquesne will invade Griffith Stadium Friday night to battle Catholic University's Football Team in an effort to reverse the defeat of last year. Silvio Zaninelli, full back, heads the brilliant cast.

MD. U. FINDS NEW ACE IN CRECCA

Substitute Will Get More Work in Game With W. and L.

HOPEFUL that it has played all of its bad football for the 1932 season, and thus can sail into its final three opponents with some of the coordinated fury of former Maryland teams, the Old Liners yesterday began warming up in earnest for their game, Saturday with Washington and Lee at Lexington.

Maryland has something to work for Saturday against Washington and Lee, even though a victory will not do much to rescue the poor season of the Terrapins. The two teams, it seems, have met seven times and Washington and Lee holds four victories. The rivalry began in 1924. Washington and Lee holds four victories during the first four years of competition, by scores of 19-7, 7-3, 3-0 and 13-6. Maryland has won by 6-0, 41-7 and 13-7. The Old Liners need a victory Saturday to even up matters.

Comparative Scores Favor Generals.

Whether they will achieve it is problematical. Comparative scores do not argue greatly in the Old Liners' favor. Virginia beat Maryland 7 to 6, and was in turn beaten by W. and L. by a 7-to-0 score.

Maryland will pin more duties Saturday on Joe Crecca, the substitute back who went into the Maryland game late Saturday and showed flashes of real promise. He passed to Paul Kiernan for Maryland's lone touchdown, and also gained credit by yielding a safety, off a bad pass from center into the end zone, instead of taking a chance on having his punt blocked. Dick Nelson's superior kicking has kept Crecca out of the game most of this season, but Saturday should see more of him.

Indian Spring Golf To Mrs. J. F. Gross

Takes Low Net Prize as Mrs. Von Steiner Is Low Gross Winner.

Playing the difficult Indian Spring course in 90, Mrs. J. F. Gross, of the host club and vice president of the District of Columbia Women's Golf Association, tied with Mrs. Alma Von Steiner, of Congressional, for the low gross prize in the annual fall tournament of the association.

Aided by a 14-stroke handicap, Mrs. Gross also won the low net prize, which she accepted, leaving the low gross award for Mrs. Von Steiner. A field of 78 participated in the tournament.

Other prize winners and their scores were: Mrs. Tom Moore, Indian Spring, 92—14—78; Mrs. Bishop Hill, Chevy Chase, 95—16—79; Mrs. A. C. Minnix, Columbia, 102—20—82; Mrs. W. E. Hall, Washington, 95—13—82; Mrs. Howard Simons, Manor, 98—16—82; Mrs. S. W. Bradbury, Washington, 104—21—83, and Mrs. C. K. Osborne, Army and Navy, 94—10—84.

The winner gained a leg on the Times Cup.

GEORGETOWN MEETS EAGLES.

The manager of the Georgetown Boys Club 125-pound eleven is requested to call the manager of the Anacostia Eagles at Atlantic 0823 regarding their game Sunday.

Hardest Tests Are Offered This Week

EARLY entrants in the fifth of The Washington Post's popular football contests are not giving the two local colleges on the list much of a show to win their games this Saturday. The consensus of opinion seems to be that both Georgetown and Maryland will go down to defeat.

But no such certainty is being shown over the Yale-Harvard game and the Fordham-Oregon affair. Here is a couple of tussles which is causing much variance of opinion.

The broken ribs of Pug Rentner, Northwestern's all-American back, which will keep him out of the game for the rest of the season, has not caused many of the fans to give Iowa the edge over the Wildcats.

The rules of this ever-popular contest are extremely simple. Simply jot down the scores by which you think the victors in the twelve games below should win by and mail the result to the Football Contest Editor of The Post.

Soccer Referee Shot In Game in Argentina

La Plata, Argentina, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Leon Ariamendi, refereeing a soccer game here yesterday, was shot in the head and critically wounded by Augustin Celadilla, president of the Soccer Football Club, when he refused to allow Celadilla's team a penalty kick.

GONZAGA IS FOOTBALL CHOICE

Central Is Underdog in School Clash This Afternoon.

SWEET CHARITY will be served and the avid appetities of dyed-in-wool football fans will be appeared today when two rivals of long standing clash at 3:30 o'clock at Central. The Purple marauders of Gonzaga, seeking another victim for a slim record, test their skill with the faded Blue of Central.

Half of the proceeds derived from the game will be donated to the Community Chest. Admission to all school children will be 25 cents, and adults will be taxed 40 cents.

10,000 Saw Purple Win In 1925.

Back in the not far distannt past of 1925 these two schools met in the outstanding grid attraction of the year. Both carried unsullied records into the game, which attracted a crowd of 10,000 fans to Central's Stadium. One of the greatest games of schoolboy history resulted. Central led for a time when Morty Wilner, later quarter back at Penn, booted a field goal. But in the ensuing period Johnny Bozek picked himself up off the slippery turf, and, reversing his field, ran 53 yards to a touchdown, and Gonzaga won by a score of 7 to 3.

Today's game will be the rubber in the series between teams coached by Bert Coggins, of Central, and Orrell Mitchell, of Gonzaga. Central won the first encounter, 12-0, but Gonzaga came back last year and evened the score with a 19-0 triumph.

No championship is at stake today, nor do undefeated records hang in the balance; nothing but hard, rugged football and plenty of it. Central, though it outweighs its opponent, is the underdog.

The Blue has played raggedly all season. Only the individual work of such boys as Gibbins, Pistolas, Kocsis and Dunlop has kept the team from being completely smothered.

Virtually the same team that started against St. John's will take the field for Gonzaga. A good little football player was discovered in the St. John's fray when Frankie Mann burst forth with the brilliance of a newly discovered planet. Until last week Mann had adorned left end on the bench. He will be in there today and also should start against Western next week.

Ancient Feud Tops East's Program

Favorite Was Beaten in Last 2 Clashes of Old Rivals.

Yale Enters Contest With Only 1 Game Won This Season.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—It's Yale vs. Harvard for the fifty-first time on Saturday, and the football experts rapidly are tearing up their dope sheets and, almost without exception, cannily declining the issue.

There is no figuring a Yale-Harvard game. An Eli outfit facing what might appear to be a superior Harvard eleven frequently has played over its collective head and sent the experts scurrying for cover. And that goes equally for apparently inferior Harvard teams of the past.

The last two years furnish excellent examples of just this point. In 1930, Yale came down to the Harvard game with only one defeat, while Harvard had been beaten by Army, Dartmouth, Michigan and Holy Cross and tied by William and Mary. Yet the Crimson won, 13 to 0.

Booth Beat Harvard Last Year.

Last season Harvard, with one of the east's great elevens, went into the Yale game undefeated, but Albie Booth's field goal gave the Eli's a 3-to-0 triumph.

This season neither has any particular luck. Yale's only victory was a 6-0 conquest of Dartmouth. The Elis have been tied by Bates, Chicago and Princeton, and beaten by Brown and Army.

Harvard whipped Buffalo, New Hampshire, Penn State and Dartmouth in succession, but dropped a decision to Brown and then took a 46-0 lacing from Army. Last week the Crimson showed a surprising return to form, beating Holy Cross, 7-0.

Yale has a wide edge in the 50 games the two rivals have played since 1875, with 27 victories against 17 for Harvard. Six games have resulted in ties, all scoreless.

The most decisive victory of the ancient series was the 48-0 victory the Yale eleven of 1884 achieved. Harvard beat the Elis, 41-0, in 1915 for the next most one-sided score.

Both have been handicapped by injuries this season, but virtually all the "cripples" should be in shape by Saturday.

Yale-Harvard Rivalry Long-Standing.

By right of age, the Yale-Harvard struggle tops the Eastern program this week, although there are a number of other highly important intersectional struggles involving traditional or natural rivals. These include Pittsburgh and Carnegie Tech, Columbia and Syracuse, Temple and Villanova, Lafayette and Lehigh, Georgetown and Bucknell and Boston College and Boston University.

1933 Batting Title Goal of Simmons

Ex-Mackman, Now Chisox, Already in Training at Hot Springs.

Hot Springs, Ark., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—An extra 20 pounds and a burning ambition to regain American League batting honors have caused Al Simmons to start his preseason training a bit early this year.

Simmons, who will wear a White Sox uniform the coming baseball season, arrived here yesterday with Ralph Shinners, Milwaukee outfielder, for conditioning exercises.

"I am 20 pounds overweight," Simmons said, "but it will be an easy matter to get rid of the excess in the baths, hiking over the mountains and playing golf and tennis.

"That is what I am going to do for the next three weeks. By the time the regular training season begins I'll be in first-class condition and my one ambition is to give the White Sox my best efforts and regain batting honors in the American League."

G. W. Now Grooms Stewart, Hero in Line, for Full Back

EVERYTHING comes to him who waits, providing, of course, he waits long enough.

"Zuzu" Stewart, the bald-pated George Washington University lineman, who has been dubbed "All-Fours" by local fans this year as an apt appellative for his habit of crawling around on all fours, has been stepped on all year by cascading ball carriers who took off for the goal and glory, by using his sensitive head as a starting block.

Yesterday, in a moment of retribution, the Colonial coaching staff dug up Stewart out of the line and transplanted him to full back. He performed very creditably, minus a headgear once more. In fact, he showed enough drive to warrant serious consideration as a full back when George Washington winds up its fine season Thanksgiving by meeting Oklahoma.

Wally Wilson took his place in the line.

From the sounds of impact yesterday at Griffith Stadium one would have thought that Oklahoma already was pounding on the front door. One of those biff bang workouts, tough enough so that the coaches excused Johnny Fenlon, Nig McCarver and Hardy Pearce from the workout, taking no chances on hurting them.

Yesterday's punching bags were the so-called radio squad, the third team.

Boos of Tulane Grid Fans Cause Break With Vandy

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Vanderbilt has severed athletic relations with Tulane over the "booing" it got when the Commodores tied the Green Wave in New Orleans early this season.

Russ Cohen, member of Vanderbilt's coaching staff and former head football coach of Louisiana State University, announced the break last night and said Louisiana State would replace Tulane on Vanderbilt's 1933 schedule.

The severance with Tulane, he explained, resulted from the "booing" and the insistence on the part of Tulane officials that Vandy return to New Orleans for any future contests.

Cohen engineered the negotiations with L. S. U., and said officials had telegraphed last night they would play Vandy October 28, 1933, in Baton Rouge.

Vanderbilt and Louisiana State have met but twice on the football field, once in 1902 and again in 1910. Vandy won both matches. Vandy ranks as one of the top teams of the conference this year and only has ties with Tulane and Tennessee against its record. L. S. U. is unbeaten and untied within the conference.

It was Vanderbilt that started the downfall of Tulane's football dynasty this year. The tie was the Wave's first blot since 1928 in the Southern Conference. Then Auburn came along to shove Tulane farther down.

KREISLER IS SUPERB IN CAPITAL PROGRAM

Audience Finally Persuaded to Leave Hall After Five Encores.

Thousands of music lovers attending the concert of Fritz Kreisler, the world's premier violinist, at Constitution Hall yesterday afternoon refused to leave the auditorium after the artist had given five encores at the conclusion of his formal program and the lights had been dimmed twice in the effort to clear the hall.

Only when Kreisler came on the stage once more and indicated laughingly that his arms were utterly exhausted did the wildly applauding audience, which was composed of some of Washington's leading social celebrities, music lovers, musicians and a throng of average concert goers, consent to leave the hall. It was one of the most thrilling incidents in the history of music in Washington and a spontaneous tribute to a great musician.

In a stage box were the Hungarian Minister and Countess Szechenyi, who had come to hear the countrymen of the minister. Other diplomatic leaders were in the audience as well.

The three-fold Kreisler, the virtuoso, the poet and the composer, was displayed in the program and its playing. With impeccable surety of interpretation he gave the works of other composers added luster by his performance of them; his vivid bow, like a living thing, sang the deathless melodies of genius on the throbbing strings of his gorgeous violin with its golden, soul-deep tones. And then finally came the high point of the program, the matchless playing of the musical creatures of his own brains, his lovely "Caprice Viennois," with its enchanted notes light as the gustle of an angel's wings; the "Liebesfreud," beloved of all who know the violin, and other compositions of his which embodied the very spirit of music itself and had little of the mortal in them.

To attempt to explain Kreisler's playing is akin to the futile task of gilding the lily or painting the summer rose with a 10-cent box of water colors.

Loucks Seen Likely Broadcasting Czar

Washington Executive of Radio Group Slated as Supervisor.

St. Louis, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Alfred J. McCosker, of New York, was elected president of the National Association of Broadcasters at today's session of the annual convention, at which the organization also empowered its executive committee to appoint a "czar" to supervise broadcasting activities.

Leo J. Fitzpatrick, of Detroit, was elected first vice president and John Shepard 3d, of Boston, second vice president. Arthur Church, of Kansas City, was named treasurer. Directors will be appointed tomorrow.

Members of the association said that Philip G. Loucks, of Washington, present managing director of the broadcasters' organization, was mentioned informally as the likely appointee for the position of "czar" to supervise the industry. With appointment of such an official the executive committee would be abolished.

Student, 15, Unaware Of Neck Being Broken

Grand Island, Nebr., Nov. 15 (A.P.). Gene Smith, 15, doesn't know how long he went around with two broken vertebrae before the injury was discovered.

His neck was in a plaster cast today and physicians said any severe jolt after the break might have been disastrous. The injury was noted by a physician who X-rayed Gene for a supposedly minor affliction. He had been attending school and playing as usual.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

Lupe Velez.

TIMES change, as do methods, motives and surrounding circumstances, but the motion picture industry, basically, remains about the same. It is still the least stable of the major creative occupations and in essence an endless battle for supremacy among a small group willing to stake fortunes on their own powers of perception and individual capabilities.

Back in the old days — meaning in the neighborhood of 1914, when D. W. Griffith, Thomas H. Ince and Mack Sennett were recognized as the "big three" in the field of production and skillful direction—competition was as keen as it is now. Maybe keener. Perhaps Mack Sennett was the most severely handicapped of any of the leaders of that comparatively remote era by reason of the fact that most comedies—and comedies, of course, were his specialty—were limited in length to a single reel of approximately 1,000 feet. But it took more than any such trivial obstacle as that to give the silver-thatched Irishman pause. With Griffith and Ince going great guns with pictures like "The Birth of a Nation" and "Civilization," he shocked the film colony—and the rest of the world, too, for that matter—out of at least a year's growth by announcing his intention to undertake a comedy in six full reels!

Everybody thought he was crazy. And so he was—just the way a fox is a total imbecile!

His feature-length comedy was "Tillie's Punctured Romance," enlisting the joint services of a few mere tyros like Marie Dressler, Charlie Chaplin, Mabel Normand, Mack Swain, Charlie Murray, Chester Conklin, Al St. John, Ford Sterling and a few dozen others of comparable rank.

The industry is perhaps too old now, and too inured to the extravagances of excessive pipe-dreaming, to be much startled by any man's announcement of his production plans, but just the same, there may be something to think about in Sennett's 1932 project to make a fifteen-reel comedy, with at least one star of the first flight for every reel! His hope now is to make a picture of sufficient quality and sufficient quantity to assure a return of at least 10 per cent on the investment.

The greatest assemblage of stars ever in one picture, barring, of course, the revue type of musical that flourished when sound was still a novelty, was for "The Affairs of Anatol," a round decade ago. In this one, Cecil B. De Mille had Gloria Swanson, Wallace Reid, Bebe Daniels, Elliott Dexter, Monte Blue, Agnes Ayres, Polly Moran, Wanda Hawley, Raymond Hatton and numerous others of lesser rating.

It is the casual opinion in Hollywood at the moment that if Mack Sennett can combine four kinds of "It"—Clara Bow, Lupe Velez, Jean Harlow and Dorothy Burgess—with Edmund Lowe's heroics, Roscoe Ates' staccato diction, Ben Turpin's quarreling eyes, Moran and Mack's lethargic dawdling, Mack Swain's prodigious heft, and Lloyd Hamilton's mincing uncertainty, and still tell a story that will be worth listening to, he ought to get next year's golden statue for inspired directorship.

And the chances are he can do it!

Mr. Stephen E. Cochran, reigning panjandrum at Col. Rapley's National Theater, drops by to leave many heartening messages, among them the announcement that Irving Berlin's latest musical show, "Face the Music," starring Mary Boland, surrounded by a huge company of Broadway's musical comedy favorites, will make an early appearance on E street.

This is the musical piece that satirizes the recent political upheaval in New York City, that culminated in the resignation of Mayor Jimmy Walker, and lampoons municipal government much after the manner that George S. Kaufman and George Gershwin's "Of Thee I Sing" pokes fun at the Federal Government here in Washington and national politics. Kaufman, incidentally, also directed the book of the Berlin production.

"Face the Music," you should be reminded, is the first big musical show Irving Berlin has written in five years and, running true to form, affords an evening full of popular song hits, including "Another Cup of Coffee, Another Piece of Pie," "Soft Light and Sweet Music" and "Castles in Spain."

Immediately following its current engagement in Boston, where it is this week inaugurating a Nation-wide tour—after a long run in the New Amsterdam Theater in New York—it will be seen here at the National for a week.

Contrary to the original plan and consequent announcement, the first of the week's matinees will not be given on Friday when Ethel Barrymore appears at the National Theater next week in "Encore."

It was the first thought that the best interests of all concerned would be served by having both matinees follow the Thanksgiving holiday. More mature deliberation, however, has convinced Miss Barrymore that four performances in two days would place an undue strain upon her and her associates in the company. Therefore, announcement now is made that the matinees, as usual, will be presented on Wednesday and Saturday, with no extra holiday matinee on Thursday.

It is hoped that this will serve as a blanket reply to numerous inquiries that have reached this desk with regard to the possibility of a special Thanksgiving Day matinee. There definitely will be none.

The boys are breaking out with previews again, bless their helpful hearts! While Mr. Rodney Collier, by prearrangement, was stretching a point, and probably his good nature, by giving these aged eyes a midnight glimpse of "Air Mail" last night, the Messrs. Barron, Gilmore, Driasell et al., at Loew's Fox, were screening "Payment Deferred" for those whose leisure moments do not coincide with our own. This is just another irritating aspect of the inexorable law that precludes one's being in two places at the same time.

In an effort to elude a similar conflict of good intentions, Master Hardie Meakin, of RKO-Keith's has summoned the press to an advance peak at Richard Dix and Ann Harding in "The Conquerors" in his opera house Saturday midnight.

Personally, I am coming to attach the greatest importance to the comparatively new theory that sleep is sleep whenever you get it, and need not necessarily occur before midnight to be efficacious in preventing the old body from falling apart.

Which is fairly lucky, for these screenings of moon pitchers, like being a night watchman—and aren't we all?—certainly do cut into your evenings!

Tax Rate Decrease Studied in County

Every Effort to Be Made for Montgomery Cut, Shaw Declares.

Comprehensive study of all existing possibilities to reduce the direct tax rate is being made by the Montgomery County, Md., Commissioners and other county officials, it was announced yesterday by Lucy Shaw, president of the board of county commissioners.

Every effort will be made to reduce the county tax rate through all economies that will not be harmful to the public good and through the opportunity to shift part of the money now required for school operation and maintenance and raised by direct levy on the property of Montgomery County to indirect taxation on nonessentials or luxuries.

It is proposed to take a substantial portion of the school tax and the road maintenance tax out of the tax bills of the property owners of the county, but the plan will require legislation in which Montgomery County will be represented by Senator Robert G. Hilton and the already elected members of the House of Delegates.

School Project Bids Authorized

Resignation of Dr. Ladson as Trustee Accepted in Montgomery.

Bids on six items of school construction as soon as final plans can be finished were authorized yesterday by the Montgomery County Board of Education. The items are: Addition to Bethesda Elementary School; new building for Fairland Elementary School; addition to Woodside Elementary School; construction of a unit of the Chevy Chase Elementary School; reconstruction work on the Germantown School and the Rockville Colored High School Building.

The resignation of Dr. Thomas Ladson as trustee of the Sherwood School was accepted. John B. Bean was appointed trustee of the Derwood School, and John A. Johnson, a trustee of the Spencerville colored school. The board authorized its transportation committee to study future policies for transportation of pupils.

A delegation from the Glenmont School requested the board to pay part of the costs of providing further equipment in the school cafeteria. The request was referred to the supervisor of school property.

Virginia Treasury Gets $54,557 in Dog Fees

Richmond, Va., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Local treasurers paid $54,557.66 into the State treasury from dog license collections during the first ten months of the year, C. Emmett Downs, chief clerk in the county officers' section of the State comptroller's office, announced today.

This amount represents 15 per cent of the dog license fund, which, with proceeds from hunting and fishing licenses, goes to support the State commission of game and inland fishtries. The remaining 85 per cent of this fund is held for local purposes.

SPOT ZONING CHARGE DENIED BY FELLOWS

Arlington Board's Policy Is Defended by Chairman at Rosslyn.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Speaking at the meeting of the Rosslyn Civic League, County Board Chairman Harry A. Fellows declared reports that the board is adopting a policy of "spot zoning" is without foundation.

"The board did at a recent meeting," he said, "reverse the decision of the zoning appeal board and approve the application of Harry Stewart, of Ballston, rezoning his property from residential to commercial. The case has been reopened, new evidence has been taken and what the board will do at its meeting on Saturday I am not in a position to say."

Discussing the question of zoning further, Mr. Fellows pointed out that there are now large tracts of land zoned residential, but when developed it may be found necessary to make changes as stores will be needed.

Assured that the military authorities will cooperate, the Arlington County Board has renewed its efforts for construction of the Lee boulevard through to the Memorial Bridge.

Joseph D. McDonnell, owner of a large tract of land through which the boulevard would pass, has informed the board that he has been assured by military authorities that recommendations will be made for the transfer of needed rights of way provided the boulevard takes the original route. There would be opposition to building the road only to Pershing drive, thus throwing all traffic through the military reservation, he says.

County Manager Roy S. Braden has been instructed to arrange, if possible, a conference between H. G. Shirley, chairman of the State Highway Commission; Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and Col. Harry N. Cootes, commandant at Fort Myer.

J. C. McClellan was reelected president of the Jefferson Civic League at its meeting last night in the community house at Virginia Highlands. Other officers are, Archie Davis, first vice president; Roy L. Miller, second vice president; L. J. Hinman, secretary, and Charles T. Thrope, treasurer. Delegates to the Arlington County Civic Federation are J. C. McClellan, Roy L. Miller, G. O. Basham and A. Dexter Davis. Alternates, Clyde M. Mills, E. J. Skidmore and Charles T. Thrope.

The delegates were instructed to take up the question of relief from the alleged crowding of buses carrying students to the Washington Lee High School. The following committee was appointed to participate with a similar committee of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Nellie Custis School in a conference with the school board and bus officials: W. Glen Bixler, Thomas Moore, Roy L. Miller and J. H. Frank.

Waiting until the last day, hundreds of motorists of Arlington County blocked highways in Rosslyn, Cherrydale, Falls Church and Clarendon yesterday in an effort to have their cars tested in accordance with the State traffic laws.

State police say they will be on the highways today on the lookout for all persons operating cars without the required red seal on their windshields.

CAPITAL MAN GETS TERM FOR PERJURY

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 323.

Neal O'Leary, of Washington, has been sentenced in Alexandria Corporation Court, Judge William P. Woods presiding, to serve a term of eighteen months in the State penitentiary, after entering a plea of guilty to a perjury indictment in connection with his suit for divorce.

O'Leary was the principal witness against Attorney Richard B. Washington in a hearing before three judges to show cause why his license to practice should not be canceled, and which resulted in the suspension of Attorney Washington's license for five years.

Last Saturday, however, the judges, after hearing additional evidence, granted Mr. Washington a new hearing, which is set for November 26, before the same judges—Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of the Sixteenth Judicial Circuit; Judge William A. Moncure, of the Chancery Court of Richmond, and Judge Woods, of the Alexandria Corporation Court.

The November membership meeting of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, after a study of the annual budget of the city, decided to leave further study in the hands of its special budget committee. The item in the budget providing funds for the public schools, which propose to reduce the appropriation for next year by $26,000, occupied most of the discussion. The chamber has been conducting a campaign for greater efficiency in the school system, and many of the members believe that if a cut in the school appropriation is necessary, it should not be in greater proportion than for the other departments of the city government. It was stated that the proposed cut in school appropriations amounts to 20 per cent, while the reduction in the tax rate amounts to only 8 per cent.

A report of the school committee, which set forth that many of the recommendations contained in the recent survey of the schools had not been carried out, was adopted. Col. Clarence Deems, jr., former professor of military science and tactics, said the report was "mild" as compared with conditions he had found. He stated he was "astounded" that the taxpayers stood for the conditions. R. C. Bowton, superintendent of schools, stated that many of the conditions complained of had been remedied. Dan S. Hollenga, business manager, said a conference would be held with the school board soon to discuss the report.

The meeting adopted resolutions adopted by the board of directors, which favor legislation to balance the Federal budget and reductions in relief payments to former service men except those injured in action, and opposing payment of the bonus before it is due.

51ST HARVARD-YALE GAME PUZZLING GRID CRITICS

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE bangtails back at Bowie yesterday. . . . And they're all trying. . . . Owners wanting the purse money to hit the trail to Southern tracks two weeks hence. . . . It's the lucky owner who gets a horse in a race at Bowie. . . . As many as 50 nominees excluded from some of the races yesterday. . . . When they're in there they're tryin'. . . . An Indian summer day it was with overcoats superfluous in the sun that bounced off the concrete "lawn." . . . Tips as free as the sunlight. . . . Dr. J. Fred Adams liked the chances of his Old Field. . . . But the public didn't. . . . They made True Sentiment the 7-to-10 favorite in the first race, but he quit at the finish. . . . And Old Field popped down in front with a $146.10 mutuel. . . . Vacillate was on everybody's tongue in the second. . . . Two to one in the first odds. . . . Despite the fact he hadn't been out of the barn all summer. . . . But Wise Count got the "come back" money. . . . And went to the post at 13 to 10. . . . And won like a Man o' War by five lengths. . . . After Vacillate quit cold. . . . They overlooked Drombo in the third. . . All but Bill Bennings, The Post handicapper, who threw out those dull races on the heavy and muddy track at Pimlico. . . . It was no contest with Drombo moving into a two lengths' lead at the turn with express speed and finishing four lengths in front of Lone Hand. . . . And paying $40.80 in the $2 mutuels. . . . The first win of the day for Jockey Gilbert. . . . Who is threatening to take the lead from Hank Mills as America's leading rider. . . . Needs eight more wins in the remaining twelve days at Bowie and is a sure shot to get 'em. . . . With Mills on the ground as a result of grabbing bridles in the Pimlico Futurity. . . . And taken back to Colorado by his father, who says that big-time racing is getting the best of his boy. . . . Who is only 16. . . . Kincsen goes to the post at 40 cents on the dollar in the fourth. . . . And is left. . . . Twenty lengths behind the leader going to the clubhouse turn and making up 'no ground quickly. . . . Monel is in front at the half, but folds up. . . . Kincsen begins to move at the far turn. . . . And from seventh at the half is first at the three-quarter pole. . . . A great stretch runner and outstays the underrated Espinetta to win by a half length. . . . Another favorite goes down in the fifth. . . . General A. at 13 to 10 runs an even race, second all the way. . . . Laurel fans put over Try It at 14 to 1. . . . When the faint-hearted Late Date, which has been running with high-class horses, chucks up the lead in the stretch. . . . The second winner for Gilbert. . . . Aymond is the paddock "good thing" in the sixth. . . . And goes to the post the second choice at 3 to 1. . . . But John F. figures on "dope." . . And Gilbert rides his third winner. . . . Triple Threat is the pace setter to the stretch turn. . . . Ridden by little Jimmy Sullivan, Washington lad who used to deliver The Post to your door, perhaps. . . . But Sullivan doesn't have the horse under him that Gilbert has and John F. wins by two lengths. . . . Even the stable was surprised at Triple Threat's second money. . . . Aymond is a poor sixth. . . . But is claimed after the race for $1,500. . . . Two ne'er-do-well sons of Man o' War go to the post in the seventh. . . . Quarter Deck at 3 to 1 and Full Dress at 18 to 1. . . . Quarter Deck holds up the start for seven minutes. . . . Until finally placed on the outside with a twitch on his nose. . . . And is left at the post as the betters money is burned up. . . . Full Dress is the winner. . . . Staving off Garlic's stretch run by a head. . . . With Quarter Deck making up a half furlong to finish third. . . . The best horse in the race but a bad risk on account of his post manners. . . . Twelve more days at Bowie and no more racing in The East until the bangtails return to Bowie on April 1.

Tom Armour And Watrous Lead Pros

Washington Golfers Trail; Open Play Starts Today.

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Al Watrous and Tommy Armour, Detroit sharpshooters, today led 53 other professional best ball teams down the home stretch to capture first money in a preliminary to the thirteenth annual Midsouth open tournament. They carded 68—63—131 for the 36 holes.

Their closest rivals, Mike Turnesa and Tony Manero, of Elmsford, N. Y., were three strokes behind with 68—66—134.

On the heels of second money winners came three teams with 135. One was composed of Herman Barron, Port Chester, N. Y., and Tom Creavy, Albany; one of Tom Kerrigan, Mount Vernon, N. Y., and Johnny Farrell, Marmaroneck, N. Y., and the other of Clarence Owen, Greenville, S. C., and Henry Picard, Charleston, S. C.

D. C. Golfers Finish Far Back.

Washington, D. C., golfers finished far down on the list, Archie Clark, paired with Jack Forrester, of New York, being the first to show, this pair registering, 73, 69—142. Al Houghton and Bob Barnett finished a stroke higher, with 74, 69—143, while Sandy Armour and Mel Shorey had to be satisfied with 71, 75—146. Cliff Spencer, paired with Joe Fungy, of Martinsburg, dropped out after having a first round card of 75, while George Diffenbaugh and Al Treder failed to turn in any scores.

Armour and Watrous blazed their way to the title with six birdies and an eagle, the former United States and British champion teaming smoothly with the one-time British open runner-up to serve notice they will have something to say about tomorrow's prize money, $800.

Armour was two strokes under par for the first three, and Watrous kept the work up with an eagle 3 and a birdie 2 in succession. Coming back, Armour had two birdies and Watrous one.

Approximately 120 golfers were expected to tee off for the 36-hole open tournament tomorrow.

Trainer Midgley Shot and Robbed

Body Found by Wife; Had Recently Been Banned by Race Body.

Baltimore, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—William R. Midgley, 55, suspended trainer of thoroughbreds and owner of a small racing stable, was found shot to death in his home here today.

His wife told police she heard the report of a gun and she ran to the bathroom, where her husband had been bathing a short time before to discover him with a bullet through his heart.

Just before the report of the shooting reached police, two men were arrested on charges of robbing him, and investigators were attempting to link the loss with his death. He is known to have lost a stop watch, valued at $175.

Midgeley formerly managed the stable of Dr. J. Fred Adams, of Catonsville, Md., and last summer was at the New York tracks training for C. J. Eisenhardt, of Baltimore.

His license was revoked after a race in which Portan, an Eisenhardt entry, was sent to the post at Empire City in what was said to be an unfit racing condition.

GLAZER DARTMOUTH LEADER.

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 15 (U.P.).—Philip J. Glazer, of Memphis, Tenn., veteran right tackle, was elected captain of the 1933 Dartmouth football team at a meeting of lettermen here today.

Glazer, outstanding man in the Dartmouth line during the season just closed, played on the 1930 freshman eleven and has been a mainstay on the varsity for the past two seasons.

Injury May Finish Hamas as Fighter

Wrenched Knee Forces Young Jersey Heavyweight to Fistic Sidelines.

New York, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—A knee injury threatens to end the boxing career of Steve Hamas, promising young heavyweight from New Jersey.

Hamas wrenched ligaments in his knee several months ago and spent six weeks in the hospital. An operation was performed, but the injury failed to respond to treatment.

Forced to the fistic sidelines, Hamas has returned to his first athletic love, football. A star at Penn State, he now is coaching Montauk High School's eleven.

G. U. DEFEAT IS SEEN BY BUCKNELL

Loss of Two Regulars Fails to Lower Optimism of Bisons.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEWISBURG, Pa., Nov. 15.—The loss of two regulars, one of them Capt. Ed Nied, tackle, has failed to lower the optimism with which Bucknell regards its game in Washington next Saturday with Georgetown University. Incidentally it will be the final Bucknell game of the season, and will end the college football careers of five Bison regulars.

Nied suffered a dislocated shoulder against Western Maryland last week. Jack Dempsey, regular left tackle, whose familiar name has been causing Bucknell authorities frequent occasions to deny that they have subsidized the former world's heavyweight champion, also will be out of the game, but his place and that of Nied have been taken by capable sophomores and the rock-bound Bison line is as good as ever.

Georgetown to Face Clever Ends.

Intent upon handing Georgetown its sixth straight loss, Bucknell will send a big and determined squad to Washington Saturday. The graduating seniors who will see service are George Vetter, left half back; Henry Seiss, Jud Ruch and Ed Wood, line men. Georgetown should have trouble attempting to skirt the ends of Tim Delaney and Jack Dorman, whose defensive skill is expected to pile up the Georgetown plays, which send Al Kelley and Ray Parcells around end.

Coach Snavely is depending on the center of his line, James and Wood, guards, and Furiell, center, to stop the new Georgetown power plays, and perhaps burst through to break up the uncertain handling of the ball by the Georgetown backs and throw them for losses.

Clark Hinkle's shoes this season have been filled, to a large degree, by Joe Reznichak, shifty-hipped sophomore.

Football Briefs

(Associated Press.)

New York—Fordham held a lively defensive session against Oregon State plays put on by the freshmen. The Rams had no trouble stopping the running attack but failed to diagnose several passes.

New York—New York University began its preparations for the Carnegie Tech game Thanksgiving Day with a drill on fundamentals, and on passing.

New York—Columbia regulars had some difficulty breaking up the Syracuse attack put on by the "coaches" team in a long dummy scrimmage. The Lions looked better in an offensive drill against the scrubs.

West Point, N. Y.—Army again conducted its practice in strict secrecy, aiming at the Notre Dame and Navy games. The coaches would give no information about what went on behind the curtains.

New Haven, Conn.—Yale spent most of its practice period drilling on passes and Coach Mal Stevens went into the back field to demonstrate how to throw them. The Elis also went through a defensive session against Harvard plays. Andy Callan, slightly injured in the Princeton game, replaced Joe Crowley at right half back.

Cambridge, Mass.—Speed was strongly emphasized in Harvard's preparations for the Yale game as the Crimson went through a long session, divided between attack and defense. Every member of the squad was in uniform, but Coach Eddie Casey did not take chances of injuries by ordering contact work.

Worcester, Mass.—Holy Cross put in a hard session at fundamentals and topped it off by rehearsing its attack in a signal drill. Capt. Jim Ryan, idle since the first game of the season, was at right tackle on the varsity.

Navy Readies Passes for Irish Game

"Swede" Larson Now Being Groomed for Full Back Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 15.—Following a protracted drill in signals, formations and kicking, Navy football players today were put through an intensive dummy scrimmage, in which offensive forward passing was stressed, as they continued their preparations for the game with Notre Dame at Cleveland on Saturday.

Head Coach Rip Miller and his staff of assistants worked steadily with first, second and third varsity strings, alternating in the offensive drive against the shock troops, and the various plays were reeled off with gratifying smoothness and there was some nifty handling of passes.

All of the regulars participated in the workout with the exception of Gordon Chung-Hoon, Hawaiian half back star, who sustained a slight leg injury in the Maryland game Saturday, and he was given another day of complete rest, the mentors not desiring to aggravate the ailment in any way.

Larson Draws New Attention.

Of the large group of back field men, one from whom little has been heard this season but who attracted much attention today is Harold H. "Swede" Larson, who hails from Collingswood, N. J. Larson played end on the plebe team last season, and he was a candidate for a like berth with the varsity group. Recently, however, he has been in the process of grooming for full back, as an understudy for "Soupy" Campbell. Larson weighs 175 and is 5 feet 11 inches tall and is strong and fast. Not that the coaches view him as a "find," but the squad is lacking anything in the way of heavy back field talent. Campbell packs only 173 pounds, but is a hard line plunger and a fine blocker.

Arrangements for the departure of Naval Academy football players for Cleveland for the Notre Dame game to be played in the Municipal Stadium there on Saturday were completed today. Forty-three gridders will make the trip, and with coaches, attendants, officers and others the party will number about 75.

Squad Will Leave Thursday Night.

The squad will travel in a special train over the Baltimore & Ohio, leaving Annapolis at 7:30 Thursday evening and arrival in Cleveland will be in ample time for the squad to indulge in a final prep on the playing field. During the trip the Middies will be under the direct charge of Capt. John W. Wilcox, jr., director of athletics, and Lieut. Comdr. John L. Hall, jr., director of football and graduate manager of athletics.

Cleveland, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—A huge tarpaulin, hauled in two trucks, arrived here today from the Notre Dame field house at South Bend, Ind., and was immediately placed on the playing field of Cleveland Stadium to insure dry footing for the Notre Dame-Navy football game next Saturday.

Record Crowd to See Trojan-California Tilt

San Francisco, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—With nothing more at stake than the settlement of an annual rivalry, Stanford and California will meet at Berkeley Saturday in a football game that will draw the largest crowd, the most money and will cost the highest price for tickets of any contest played thus far this season.

The crowd of 79,403 fans, which is all that Memorial Stadium holds, will pay approximately $389,000 to watch the thirty-eighth annual encounter. Taxable tickets will net the Government around $35,400.

Giants Challenge Fordham Gridmen

Pros Would Prove Superiority Over Collegians in Game for Charity.

New York, Nov. 15 (U.P.).—Tim Mara, owner of the New York Giants of the National Professional Football League, tonight challenged Fordham University's team to meet the Giants in a charity game to decide the old question of superiority between college or professional football.

Mara's challenge followed publication today of a newspaper statement by Fordham's assistant coach, Hiker Joy, claiming that a good college team is better than a good professional team.

Mara notified Daniel M. Daniel, chairman of the sports committee of the mayor's fund for relief of unemployed, that the Giants would be available after December 4 for a game with Fordham to settle this question "without doubt." He assured Daniel that the Giants would offer their services "without expenses of any kind," and that the entire receipts could go to the fund.

Maj. Frank Cavanaugh, head coach at Fordham, tonight said he doubted that Fordham officials would permit the team to play a professionals outfit, as it has been against the school's policy in the past.

Schmeling-Baer Bout Challenge to Garden

Paris, Nov. 15 (U.P.).—Plans for competing directly with the Madison Square Garden Corporation by holding a Max Schmeling-Max Baer heavyweight bout in New York in June were announced today by Jeff Dickson, the American promoter who operates in Europe. The bout would be held at the Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds, Dickson said. He plans a second show in July.

Duquesne's Dukes Who Will Face Catholic U. Here

Coached by Elmer Layden, one of Rockne's famed four horsemen, Duquesne will invade Griffith Stadium Friday night to battle Catholic University's Football Team in an effort to reverse the defeat of last year. Silvio Zaninelli, full back, heads the brilliant cast.

MD. U. FINDS NEW ACE IN CRECCA

Substitute Will Get More Work in Game With W. and L.

HOPEFUL that it has played all of its bad football for the 1932 season, and thus can sail into its final three opponents with some of the coordinated fury of former Maryland teams, the Old Liners yesterday began warming up in earnest for their game, Saturday with Washington and Lee at Lexington.

Maryland has something to work for Saturday against Washington and Lee, even though a victory will not do much to rescue the poor season of the Terrapins. The two teams, it seems, have met seven times and Washington and Lee holds four victories. The rivalry began in 1924. Washington and Lee holds four victories during the first four years of competition, by scores of 19-7, 7-3, 3-0 and 13-6. Maryland has won by 6-0, 41-7 and 13-7. The Old Liners need a victory Saturday to even up matters.

Comparative Scores Favor Generals.

Whether they will achieve it is problematical. Comparative scores do not argue greatly in the Old Liners' favor. Virginia beat Maryland 7 to 6, and was in turn beaten by W. and L. by a 7-to-0 score.

Maryland will pin more duties Saturday on Joe Crecca, the substitute back who went into the Maryland game late Saturday and showed flashes of real promise. He passed to Paul Kiernan for Maryland's lone touchdown, and also gained credit by yielding a safety, off a bad pass from center into the end zone, instead of taking a chance on having his punt blocked. Dick Nelson's superior kicking has kept Crecca out of the game most of this season, but Saturday should see more of him.

Indian Spring Golf To Mrs. J. F. Gross

Takes Low Net Prize as Mrs. Von Steiner Is Low Gross Winner.

Playing the difficult Indian Spring course in 90, Mrs. J. F. Gross, of the host club and vice president of the District of Columbia Women's Golf Association, tied with Mrs. Alma Von Steiner, of Congressional, for the low gross prize in the annual fall tournament of the association.

Aided by a 14-stroke handicap, Mrs. Gross also won the low net prize, which she accepted, leaving the low gross award for Mrs. Von Steiner. A field of 78 participated in the tournament.

Other prize winners and their scores were: Mrs. Tom Moore, Indian Spring, 92—14—78; Mrs. Bishop Hill, Chevy Chase, 95—16—79; Mrs. A. C. Minnix, Columbia, 102—20—82; Mrs. W. E. Hall, Washington, 95—13—82; Mrs. Howard Simons, Manor, 98—16—82; Mrs. S. W. Bradbury, Washington, 104—21—83, and Mrs. C. K. Osborne, Army and Navy, 94—10—84.

The winner gained a leg on the Times Cup.

GEORGETOWN MEETS EAGLES.

The manager of the Georgetown Boys Club 125-pound eleven is requested to call the manager of the Anacostia Eagles at Atlantic 0823 regarding their game Sunday.

Hardest Tests Are Offered This Week

EARLY entrants in the fifth of The Washington Post's popular football contests are not giving the two local colleges on the list much of a show to win their games this Saturday. The consensus of opinion seems to be that both Georgetown and Maryland will go down to defeat.

But no such certainty is being shown over the Yale-Harvard game and the Fordham-Oregon affair. Here is a couple of tussles which is causing much variance of opinion.

The broken ribs of Pug Rentner, Northwestern's all-American back, which will keep him out of the game for the rest of the season, has not caused many of the fans to give Iowa the edge over the Wildcats.

The rules of this ever-popular contest are extremely simple. Simply jot down the scores by which you think the victors in the twelve games below should win by and mail the result to the Football Contest Editor of The Post.

Choice seats to the big George Washington University - Oklahoma game on Thanksgiving are at stake.

Soccer Referee Shot In Game in Argentina

La Plata, Argentina, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Leon Arismendi, refereeing a soccer game here yesterday, was shot in the head and critically wounded by Augustin Celadilla, president of the Soccer Football Club, when he refused to allow Celadilla's team a penalty kick.

GONZAGA IS FOOTBALL CHOICE

Central Is Underdog in School Clash This Afternoon.

SWEET CHARITY will be served and the avid appetities of dyed-in-wool football fans will be appeared today when two rivals of long standing clash at 3:30 o'clock at Central. The Purple marauders of Gonzaga, seeking another victim for a slim record, test their skill with the faded Blue of Central.

Half of the proceeds derived from the game will be donated to the Community Chest. Admission to all school children will be 25 cents, and adults will be taxed 40 cents.

10,000 Saw Purple Win In 1925.

Back in the not far distannt past of 1925 these two schools met in the outstanding grid attraction of the year. Both carried unsullied records into the game, which attracted a crowd of 10,000 fans to Central's Stadium. One of the greatest games of schoolboy history resulted. Central led for a time when Morty Wilner, later quarter back at Penn, booted a field goal. But in the ensuing period Johnny Bozek picked himself up off the slippery turf, and, reversing his field, ran 53 yards to a touchdown, and Gonzaga won by a score of 7 to 3.

Today's game will be the rubber in the series between teams coached by Bert Coggins, of Central, and Orrell Mitchell, of Gonzaga. Central won the first encounter, 12-0, but Gonzaga came back last year and evened the score with a 19-0 triumph.

No championship is at stake today, nor do undefeated records hang in the balance; nothing but hard, rugged football and plenty of it. Central, though it outweighs its opponent, is the underdog.

The Blue has played raggedly all season. Only the individual work of such boys as Gibbins, Pistolas, Koscis and Dunlop has kept the team from being completely smothered.

Virtually the same team that started against St. John's will take the field for Gonzaga. A good little football player was discovered in the St. John's fray when Frankie Mann burst forth with the brilliance of a newly discovered planet. Until last week Mann had adorned left end on the bench. He will be in there today and also should start against Western next week.

Ancient Feud Tops East's Program

Favorite Was Beaten in Last 2 Clashes of Old Rivals.

Yale Enters Contest With Only 1 Game Won This Season.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—It's Yale vs. Harvard for the fifty-first time on Saturday, and the football experts rapidly are tearing up their dope sheets and, almost without exception, cannily declining the issue.

There is no figuring a Yale-Harvard game. An Eli outfit facing what might appear to be a superior Harvard eleven frequently has played over its collective head and sent the experts scurrying for cover. And that goes equally for apparently inferior Harvard teams of the past.

The last two years furnish excellent examples of just this point. In 1930, Yale came down to the Harvard game with only one defeat, while Harvard had been beaten by Army, Dartmouth, Michigan and Holy Cross and tied by William and Mary. Yet the Crimson won, 13 to 0.

Booth Beat Harvard Last Year.

Last season Harvard, with one of the east's great elevens, went into the Yale game undefeated, but Albie Booth's field goal gave the Eli's a 3-to-0 triumph.

This season neither has any particular luck. Yale's only victory was a 6-0 conquest of Dartmouth. The Elis have been tied by Bates, Chicago and Princeton, and beaten by Brown and Army.

Harvard whipped Buffalo, New Hampshire, Penn State and Dartmouth in succession, but dropped a decision to Brown and then took a 46-0 lacing from Army. Last week the Crimson showed a surprising return to form, beating Holy Cross, 7-0.

Yale has a wide edge in the 50 games the two rivals have played since 1875, with 27 victories against 17 for Harvard. Six games have resulted in ties, all scoreless.

The most decisive victory of the ancient series was the 48-0 victory the Yale eleven of 1884 achieved. Harvard beat the Elis, 41-0, in 1915 for the next most one-sided score.

Both have been handicapped by injuries this season, but virtually all the "cripples" should be in shape by Saturday.

Yale-Harvard Rivalry Long-Standing.

By right of age, the Yale-Harvard struggle tops the Eastern program this week, although there are a number of other highly important intersectional struggles involving traditional or natural rivals. These include Pittsburgh and Carnegie Tech, Columbia and Syracuse, Temple and Villanova, Lafayette and Lehigh, Georgetown and Bucknell and Boston College and Boston University.

1933 Batting Title Goal of Simmons

Ex-Mackman, Now Chisox, Already in Training at Hot Springs.

Hot Springs, Ark., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—An extra 20 pounds and a burning ambition to regain American League batting honors have caused Al Simmons to start his preseason training a bit early this year.

Simmons, who will wear a White Sox uniform the coming baseball season, arrived here yesterday with Ralph Shinners, Milwaukee outfielder, for conditioning exercises.

"I am 20 pounds overweight," Simmons said, "but it will be an easy matter to get rid of the excess in the baths, hiking over the mountains and playing golf and tennis.

"That is what I am going to do for the next three weeks. By the time the regular training season begins I'll be in first-class condition and my one ambition is to give the White Sox my best efforts and regain batting honors in the American League."

G. W. Now Grooms Stewart, Hero in Line, for Full Back

EVERYTHING comes to him who waits, providing, of course, he waits long enough.

"Zuzu" Stewart, the bald-pated George Washington University lineman, who has been dubbed "All-Fours" by local fans this year as an apt appellative for his habit of crawling around on all fours, has been stepped on all year by cascading ball carriers who took off for the goal and glory, by using his sensitive head as a starting block.

Yesterday, in a moment of retribution, the Colonial coaching staff dug up Stewart out of the line and transplanted him to full back. He performed very creditably, minus a headgear once more. In fact, he showed enough drive to warrant serious consideration as a full back when George Washington winds up its fine season Thanksgiving by meeting Oklahoma.

Wally Wilson took his place in the line.

From the sounds of impact yesterday at Griffith Stadium one would have thought that Oklahoma already was pounding on the front door. One of those biff bang workouts, tough enough so that the coacher excused Johnny Fenlon, Nig McCarver and Hardy Pearce from the workout, taking no chances on hurting them.

Yesterday's punching bags were the so-called radio squad, the third team.

Boos of Tulane Grid Fans Cause Break With Vandy

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Vanderbilt has severed athletic relations with Tulane over the "booing" it got when the Commodores tied the Green Wave in New Orleans early this season.

Russ Cohen, member of Vanderbilt's coaching staff and former head football coach of Louisiana State University, announced the break last night and said Louisiana State would replace Tulane on Vanderbilt's 1933 schedule.

The severance with Tulane, he explained, resulted from the "booing" and the insistence on the part of Tulane officials that Vandy return to New Orleans for any future contests.

Cohen engineered the negotiations with L. S. U., and said officials had telegraphed last night they would play Vandy October 28, 1933, in Baton Rouge.

Vanderbilt and Louisiana State have met but twice on the football field, once in 1902 and again in 1910. Vandy won both matches. Vandy ranks as one of the top teams of the conference this year and only has ties with Tulane and Tennessee against its record. L. S. U. is unbeaten and untied within the conference.

It was Vanderbilt that started the downfall of Tulane's football dynasty this year. The tie was the Wave's first blot since 1928 in the Southern Conference. Then Auburn came along to shove Tulane farther down.

KINCSEN, OFF LAST, WINS FEATURE AT BOWIE BY A NECK

Gilbert Rides 3 Winners On Card

Scores With Drombo, Try It and John F. at Long Odds.

Wise Count Is Easy Winner of Second at Even Money.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

UNDER a bright autumn sun, a welfare day crowd in the neighborhood of 10,000 saw Kincsen, 5-year-old mare, win the Will Osborne Trophy in the feature race at Bowie yesterday. It was over the same track that Kincsen's pa and ma—Cudgel and Buckwheat—used to romp to victories. It was a popular win with the form players, although the reward of $2.80 hardly made any of them rich.

It was one of the youngsters of the field that caused Jockey Leyland and Kincsen the most trouble, for Espinetta was a mighty lively place horse, a half length behind at the finish. Six more lengths away came Seven Veils to take the show.

Kincsen, who has a habit of doing a lot of running in only one stage of the race, was last as usual when the field went up the back stretch. Monel was setting the pace, followed by Gala Time and Seven Veils. At the far turn Monel began to fade and Kincsen made her rushing move. But Espinetta had beaten Kincsen to the draw to take the lead as the field swung into the stretch.

Kincsen Comes From Rear to Win.

However, Kincsen was soon on even terms with the filly and the battle started in earnest. Leyland and Todd went to their whips with a vengeance, but it was Kincsen which had the most left. Reaching the mutuel board the mare was drawing away.

Riding honors for the day were accorded Jockey J. Gilbert, who booted home three winners, two long shots, in five mounts.

He led the field across the finish line in the third race atop the glistening back of Drombo, which rewarded its backers with the handsome price of $40.80. Gilbert finished in front on Try It in the fifth canter for his second long price of the day. Holders of $2 win tickets on the horse received $31.10. In the sixth he scored with John F., the favorite.

The mutuel board fairly sagged before the program was two minutes old. Dr. J. Fred Adams' Old Field won the 5½ furlongs opener and jolted the boys with a $146.10 mutuel. In taking the decision, H. Kneesi brought the gelded son of Sedgefield up on the outside of True Sentiment, the favorite. Kneesi whipped him up at the sixteenth pole, and when he found his mount swerving in toward Sweet Sentiment, he straightened him out and then put in a couple of timely blows to which the colt responded with a burst of speed which carried him on to victory. Fair Bill held the third money safe.

Wise Count Rewards Form Players.

Wise Count, backed into favoritism in the last betting, had things his own way in the second race, taking the lead when Lord Tournament quit his fling at pace setting and coasting home under the wraps of Albert Robertson. Memories Dear was second ahead of Whisking. Sea Fox, being vanned to the track for the engagement, failed to arrive on time and was scratched a few minutes before the field went to the post. Bets on the Man o' War gelding were refunded, of course. Vacillate, which drew most of the early play and closed at 3 to 1, broke down after being prominent for three furlongs.

Drombo returned to Maryland from the West and gave those that faced the barrier in the third race a neat exhibition of speed. Royal See, Bally Bay and Grace R. dominated the early running, but just before the stretch turn, Gilbert brought Drombo up on the outside like a streak of lightning and the race was over as far as the winning end was concerned.

Lone Hand came up to take the place from Royal See. The mutuels received a big glare when Drombo paid $40.80, $18 and $11.60. Lone Hand, a surprising second, showed $27 to place and $16.10 to show. Royal See filled it out with a $7.40 show price.

Those who followed the hunch to Try It were well rewarded in the fifth race, when Admiral Cary T. Grayson's Try It accounted for the purse at a $31.10 mutuel. Try It, as is his habit, was a distant last on the back stretch, but moved around with a rush at far turn that carried him and Johnny Gilbert on to victory over the favored General A. and Late Date.

John F, the horse that figured, won the sixth from a field of tips. Little Jimmy Sullivan, Washington boy, rode Triple Threat into second money ahead of Griffin.

BOWIE RACE TRACK.

DEAR CHIEF:

Slipped the boys my exclusive long shot yesterday. It was Drombo at a $40.80 mutuel. This one added to Wise Count, Kincsen and John F. gave me a pretty good day. I don't mean these were after the scratches or my money picks. I had them right on the nostrils where it counts the most. Expect to dig up a few more Drombos at this meeting, so string along, as my friend Harry Stringer used to say. Today, I'll be approaching the windows with a feeling of confidence to play these.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—STANDOUT ran his best races on a fast track. Has done fairly well on off tracks recently. This is not one to risk the family jewels on but a good across-the-board bet. ONE CHANCE showed to advantage with that place effort here. COLONIST seems best of the others.

SECOND RACE—NITUMA won her maiden race at this track and since has developed into a promising youngster. May jump to the front in this and never be headed. KNIGHT'S GAL and WELCOME GIFT for the rest.

THIRD RACE—POMPEIUS showed a brilliant effort in the mud and now will show the boys some tricks on a fast track. I am afraid of FINITE. This fellow has been out there with a lot of speed in front of the stars and it may be the right day today. GOLD STEP for third and a possible surprise.

FOURTH RACE—HALCYON has been working sensationally and, at the weights, I'm taking the Whitney representative to defeat JACK HIGH. KINCSEN won yesterday and may come back to show here.

FIFTH RACE—Looks like a Whitney parlay, with MAD FRUMP and CLOTHO in the light blue and brown. The first named did all asked the other day and the latter is fit as a fiddle. SPRINGSTEEL and MICROPHONE must be considered. MICROPHONE is trying the route again. Worth across-the-board play.

SIXTH RACE—THE DOCTOR appears to be on the up and up and will be out there battling. Forced to take him on top. LA SALLE and PRIZE DAY for the rest.

SEVENTH RACE—IMPEACH is a good, fast track horse in contrast to the general belief. BIG PLAY will be tipped and dangerous. GLORIA MARIS for the show.

OLD FIELD, away quickly and kept in near attendance of TRUE SENTIMENT, responded courageously to pressure and vigorously ridden during the stretch run, was up nearing the end. TRUE SENTIMENT, hurried to the front and saying ground, was unable to resist OLD FIELD and faltered right at the end. FAIR BILLY, placed forwardly, held on well for the final drive. CANTERON rushed hard while on the outside, had too much taken out of him and tired. GRAMAYRE could not threaten the leaders when the real issue came. MISS TEENIE was held safe. FUSCO dropped back badly after having early foot.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—WISE COUNT, $4.70. $3.30, $3.00; MEMORIES DEAR, $8.30, $6.30; WHISKING, $14.80.

WISE COUNT, going improved and having good speed, moved to the front when leaving the back stretch, and opened up without effort during the final stages. MEMORIES DEAR, following close up from the start, could not menace the winner after the opening three furlongs. WHISKING, lacking early speed, came with a rush in the final half mile. PENNATE improved his position gradually on the outside, and was racing gamely at the finish. POXIANA finished fast while in close quarters at the end. VACILLATE had speed for a half mile. The others were outrun.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $700; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 2:09. Off at 2:12. Winner, E. Walsh's br. g. DROMBO, reached the leaders rapidly when kept on the outside, assumed a safe lead when straightened into the home stretch and kept in reserve at the end. LONE HAND worked his way up stoutly, but could not reach the winner. ROYAL SEE, prominent throughout, was tiring at the end. EVERFAIR, allowed to drop far out of contention, came between her field nearing the end and finished slightly. GOLDEN PRINCESS saved ground and weakened nearing the finish. LERACK went well. BALLY BAY was done early. GRACE R. quit badly.

BRIGHT LUNA	103	6	7	3h	6½	7	7	7	Godfrey	152.05

Two-dollar mutuels paid—KINCSEN, $2.80, $2.40, $2.30; ESPINETTA, $7.10, $4.00; SEVEN VEILS, $3.90.

KINCSEN, a natural slow beginner, moved to her field when leaving the back stretch, circled to the outside to gain command and under strong urging outstayed ESPINETTA. Latter, tired off the pace, moved into contention with the winner and fought it out stubbornly. SEVEN VEILS, kept under pressure from the start, held on gamely to outlast MONEL. Latter went into an easy lead, and a lot of ground, but was not good enough when forced to a drive. GOLDEN FAIRY had no mishaps. GALA TIME was done after six furlongs.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $700; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:13. Off at 3:13½. Winner, C. T. Grayson's blk. g. (4), by Trystero—Kit. Trained by M. Smart. Value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24, 0:48 3-5, 1:13 4-5, 1:40 3-5, 1:47 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TRY IT, $31.10, $8.50, $4.00; GENERAL A., $3.40, $2.50; LATE DATE, $3.10.

TRY IT, slow to begin, settled in his best stride sooner than usual and showing improvement, reached contention rounding the last turn and assuming command when straightened into the home stretch had enough in reserve to stall off GENERAL A. Latter, rated forwardly, disposed of LATE DATE, but hung during the final drive. LATE DATE, having more early speed than usual, weakened after holding command for seven furlongs. PENCADER raced on his own courage for the entire journey. MARTIS was steered wide around the first turn. FEUDAL TIMES and BARNEY SEXTON were outrun.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $700; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward, colts, geldings and horses. Start good from gates. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 3:45. Off at 3:48. Winner, F. F. White's ch. c. (4), by Ladkin—Fousette. Trained by F. J. Kearns. Value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Two-dollar mutuels paid—JOHN F., $7.90, $4.60, $3.10; TRIPLE THREAT, $9.80, $5.40; GRIFFIN, $3.50.

JOHN F., away forwardly and well handled, was kept in the thick of contention early, came willingly after being momentarily displaced and drew out gradually when regaining command in the final quarter mile. TRIPLE THREAT, going in greatly improved fashion and always in a forward position, could not stay with the leader. GRIFFIN walked through the barrier and was unprepared for the start. He was straightened away after being sideways, was blocked repeatedly when kept in behind horses, but closed strong when finally taken to the outside. LUCKY CHINA closed well on to the outside. EGAD showed a good effort. AYMOND was outrun. FIRE BRIGADE and JOHN BANE had speed.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $700; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward, colts, geldings and horses. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:16. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FULL DRESS, $38.40, $17.40, $11.10; GARLIC, $10.10, $6.90; QUARTER DECK, $4.60.

FULL DRESS, hurried into the first division, secured racing room when moving up on the inside of the pacemakers and moving into a brief lead just lasted to stall off GARLIC. Latter, far back for the first six furlongs, worked his way into contention, and finished with a belated rush on the inside of the winner. QUARTER DECK kept up with the pace, finished stoutly in the final drive. QUORUM, a keen factor from the start, faltered during the closing furlong. ARUNDEL could not threaten the leaders. HAPPY PLAY and PAPYROGRAPH raced each other into submission. WRACK ROYAL went to his knees at the break.

VIRGINIANS CHALLENGE.

Games with strong teams in the 135-pound division are wanted by the Virginia A. C., claimants of the northern Virginia title. Teams interested should call Manager Travers at Alexandria 1155.

ELDBROOKE WOULD PLAY.

SHEARY FEAR OF 'DUKES' SCOUTS

Duquesne Overlooks Whelan in Drill for C. U. Game.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE deemphasis of Tommy Whelan, which has been progressing steadily all this season—in that Coach Dutch Bergman, at Catholic University, has been giving the beautiful broken-field runner odd jobs like passing, blocking and a bit of kicking to do—reached its peak yesterday when advance notices from Duquesne stated that the team was pointing for Buster Sheary.

That's the final blow.

This is the first time in three years that Whelan has been overlooked by the publicity departments of a rival college. His comparatively minor year has caused him to be shunted, temporarily, into the background on the eve of Catholic University's biggest test of the season, its homecoming game Friday night at Griffith Stadium, against the Night Raiders of Duquesne.

C. U. Followed Rivals' Dope Yesterday.

A glance at yesterday afternoon's practice at Brookland Bowl more or less substantiated the proposed Duquesne plan of defense. Sheary was the ball-carrying demon yesterday, and Whelan spent most of his time passing and pushing laterals to John Jankowski, another capable C. U. back who has come into eminence this year since C. U. began to deemphasize football by letting other persons besides Whelan carry the ball.

It may prove a boomerang—this preparation of Duquesne's.

Whelan is still the best ball carrier in Washington when the occasion arises, and while Duquesne is gunning for his iron-legged companion, Sheary, it may find the old Cardinal ghost slanting off for the winning touchdown. However, there is not much chance that Whelan will be a constant menace, for he seems to be about the only one capable of taking over the passing job that Charley McVean left vacant when he retired from the squad, and C. U. promises to do much in the way of passing. Watch out, also, for a confusing double lateral pass play that should do much to confound the Dukes.

Duquesne, with a fine record behind it, and full of fight for a victory over C. U., arrives in town late tomorrow afternoon and probably will work out at Griffith Stadium in conjunction with the Cardinals.

Visitors More Used to Play Under Lights.

One advantage the visitors have is that every home game they have played since 1928, when Elmer Layden, one of Notre Dame's immortal Four Horsemen, became head coach, has been played at night under lights. Friday night's will be C. U.'s first nocturnal tilt of the year.

Duquesne is minus two regulars, both of them hurt when the team trounced South Dakota last week. They are Ben Pawlina and Art Strutt, half backs. Steve Marin and George Chacko will take their places.

Most of the local interest surrounding the Duquesne team centers on Big Silvio Zaninelli and Little Larry Sullivan. Zaninelli, nearly 200-pound back, is rated the best football player Duquesne ever had. He is adjudged one of the best punters in the business. Sullivan is perhaps the smallest triple-threater in the country today. He is just 5 feet 2, but he is built along the lines of Fee Collier, tough local sandlot veteran.

Wide-open, wild and woolly football is in prospect for Friday night. The two clubs are superbly coached in the hard-boiled mysticism of the Notre Dame system, and their caliber, if laid end to end, would reach about an equal distance.

Charity Gains $28,000 From Bowie Race Meet

Bowie, Md., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Closing the charity day programs at Maryland race tracks this year, the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association, which operates the Bowie track, today turned approximately $15,000 over to the State and welfare organizations for relief of the unemployed.

A total of about $28,000 has been raised at the track as $13,000 was realized yesterday in the first welcome day races.

The right days of racing for charity in the State this year amounted to about $253,000 from 5 per cent of the money wagered in the pari-mutuels, admissions, programs, donations and concessions.

Hitting the Headpin

LAST night must have been set aside solely for the purpose of establishing records, at least that's what most everyone did. In the Men's Lutheran League, Attel and Zanner rolled 146 to hang up a new game mark for the season, and Attel continued on to a new set score of 400. St. John's, No. 2, gave the teams a couple of new marks to shoot at when it rolled a 591 game and a 1,702 set.

Miss Biggs accounted for a couple of new records in the Ladies' Lutheran League when she rolled 125 and 336. Christ Church also hung up a pair of record-smashing scores in its 487 game and 1,413 set.

Jack Burton continued the assault on the records at Arcadia by pounding out a 418 set in the Columbia Heights League. His best game amounted to 150 pins. Swann's rolled a 638 game and then busted the set mark with its total of 1,872.

Mosely's 161 and 409 scores were high in the King Pin Business Men's League. Franklins rolled 1,671 to lead the teams.

Eli Gees rolled into first place in the Washington Ladies League atop a 1,617 set at Columbia, which also happens to be a new season record. The team had high game of the evening, 559. Bille Butler's 141 and 393, the latter another season record, made her the leading lady of the show.

The Russets bowled 1,617 in the Postoffice Department Loop at Columbia, and it was a new all-time league mark. Their best game was 577. Earl Wadsworth had high set, 343, and George Hartman had the best game, 125.

In the Internal Revenue League, Miscellaneous was high with its 1,450 and 528 scores. Miss Amer's 313 set and Miss Estin's 127 game took the individual laurels.

Morrisey's 131 and Weber's 345 supplied the high scores in the Supervising Architects loop at Lucky Strike. The Oriental team led its rival's with a 561 game and 1,561 set.

Catherine Dove's 116 game and 327 set featured activities in the Ladies' Eastern Star League at Lucky Strike. Miriam quintet rolled high game, 493, and Ruth finished with high team set, 1,429.

Homiller's 153 and 367 scores topped the Insurance League at Lucky Strike. Acacia pounded out a 549 game and 1,625 set for the best team scores of the evening.

Earl McPhilomy rolled 144 and 392 to lead in the National Capital League at Lucky Strike. The home team took the five-man honors with its 623 and 1,823.

And it was Georgetown that scored a 2-1 victory over Temple in their District League match the other night, not Temple, as was first reported.

Tony Suess' 365 set, which included a 144 game, was the best of the individual scores recorded in The Washington Post League yesterday afternoon at Lucky Strike. Quads took game honors with 504, and Breviers had high set, 1,576.

Mulligan's 138 game and 375 set were the high spots in the bowling of Section C, Holy Name League, last night. Holy Comforter upset the pins for a pair of new season's records

Stocks Average Unchanged After Professional Dealing

Many Leaders Close Higher as Sales Volume Drops to 1,048,980 Shares.

New York, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Stocks teetered today, but the net result of their generally narrow fluctuations was a fairly even break. The price averages closed unchanged, although a number of leaders, especially in the rail group, were slightly higher.

It was still, brokers said, a "trading market," with professionals providing the chief impetus on either side. Around midday prices were fairly firm; then they turned easier, only to improve again in the final dealings. Wheat converted an early advance into a small loss. Cotton followed a narrow rut.

Between debt and dividend uncertainties, operators who were interested enough to maintain trading positions appeared undecided as to market policies and were probably content with the small changes pending better light for cloudier corners. Coca Cola again softened, losing 2⅞ net, while Drug, Inc., was sold, presumably as an aftermath of the receivership petition against a retailing subsidiary. Elsewhere, features were hard to find. Transactions dwindled to 1,048,980 shares.

Declaration of the regular dividend for Chesapeake & Ohio common stockholders came late in the session and coincided with the firmer tone of rail shares. With the exception of Union Pacific's 1¼ net advance, improvement was mostly in the nature of minor fractions in the carrier group.

American Telephone traded erratically, but Wall street's impression that the regular quarterly dividend of $2.25 would be voted tomorrow carried considerable weight and the shares closed a point higher. United Aircraft, American Can, Montgomery Ward, American Tobacco B, Consolidated Gas, Case, Public Service of New Jersey and Du Pont showed something on the plus side. The U. S. Steels, Westinghouse, Western Union, Goodyear and Norfolk & Western were off on the day. Steel preferred losing 1¾. Preferred stocks of American Power & Light and Electric Power & Light lost 3 to more than 6 points on dividend uncertainties caused by halving of the dividend on United Gas Co.'s senior issue yesterday. These companies are members of the Electric Bond & Share group.

Belgium added her debt note to those of France and England. Meanwhile, financial quarters were deeply interested in the forthcoming Hoover-Roosevelt conference, assuming that the issue would mark time until that meeting had taken place.

American Metal Market estimated a slightly lower rate of steel production, but said that although decreases at this time of year were familiar there appeared no reason to believe the December low would approach the August minimum. "There is no evidence of any widespread swing by miscellaneous buyers taking hold more freely," the review stated.

Stocks.

Fluctuating and narrow trading resulted in stocks closing unchanged. Some leaders marked up gains. The turnover declined to 1,048,980 shares. Professional dealing was in evidence.

Bonds.

Backing and filling were features of the bond market in a listless session. The average decline was one-tenth of a point, on a sales volume of $7,094,000. Principal activity centered on Baltimore & Ohio 4½s, which gained 4¼ points. Other rails were irregular.

Curb.

The market blew hot and cold, and closed lower, in spite of a rally that reduced losses. The turnover was 180,000 shares. Electric Bond & Share stock held the limelight of trading activity. The issue closed at a fractional loss.

Wheat.

Heavy rural deliveries of wheat in Canada and the British tariff on shipments through the United States caused declines which included all grains. Wheat closed ⅝ to ⅞ under Monday's finish. Reports of 35,000,000 to 50,000,000 bushels increase in Argentine output of wheat also resulted in price setbacks. December wheat sold at 45½ to 45¼ cents.

Cotton.

Prices closed unchanged to 2 points lower. Early advances were followed by reactions on local selling and liquidating. December sold at 6.27. Liverpool reported hedging and realizing had supplied trade calling.

Dried Fruits Steady.

New York, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Dried fruits and hops steady; unchanged.

BOND MARKET SAGS IN LISTLESS TRADING

Backing and Filling Cause One-Tenth Loss; Sales $7,094,000.

New York, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The bond market backed and filled today and net results, after an unusually listless session, were rather negative.

Activity in a few specialties contrasted with extremely light transactions in other sections of the list. The sales volume dropped to $7,094,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate loans was off one-tenth of a point.

Conflicting trade and industrial trends, together with the imminent war debt situation, combined to augment the recently ultra-cautious attitude of traders and investors.

Government Bonds Firm.

Most of the United States Government bonds firmed moderately toward the close, although trading in this department was as dull as in the corporate categories.

Dealers pointed out that if the war loan moratorium, which expired last July, is extended to cover December 15 payments by the allied debtors, the national budget, which contemplated the receipt of some $270,000,000 from abroad during the current fiscal year, will have its deficit extended just that much further.

The day's principal activity was in Baltimore & Ohio 4½s, due next year. Of this issue, 440 bonds changed hands at a gain of 4¼ points. Strength of this maturity was generally attributed to reports that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was preparing to announce a loan of $31,000,000 would be granted to the B. & O. shortly. At the same time, other of the road's liens declined slightly.

Rail Issues Irregular.

Most of the semispeculative rail securities were irregular, while the higher grade transportation bonds were steady to firm. Weakness was shown by some loans of Allegheny Corporation, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Southern Pacific and Southern. Bonds of Canadian railways were soft.

Obligations of American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Detroit Edison, Kansas Gas, International Hydro-Electric and Public Service steadied. International Telephone and American Foreign Power loans were heavy. Both Pure Oil 5½s were strong, gaining 2 to 4¾ points. Other oils were irregular.

The foreign list was a trifle easier. The Germans drifted irregularly lower, as did bonds of Great Britain, Japan and Australia. The Argentines improved, as did French government 7½s.

U. S. TREASURY RECEIPTS.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury receipts for November 12 were $4,737,379.29; expenditures, $10,019,835.02; balance, $669,713,642.67. Customs duties for twelve days of November were $10,966,063.18.

South America Is Called World's Mecca for Trade

Special to The Washington Post.

Dayton, Ohio, Nov. 15.—The European market will not soon and perhaps it never again will be the trading place it once was for American exports. All nations are endeavoring to become economically independent, particularly with respect to farm produce and certain manufactures. Most of them have advanced so far that they are able, or nearly so, to fill most of their own wants and needs.

The Orient is a place of promise, but that is about all. Japan has staked out claims there and France, Great Britain and Russia have their own territories. If that part of the world were flourishing, some increase in trade could be expected. As things are, there is little room for hope of vastly improved trade there.

The best opportunities lie in the New World in general and South America in particular. All the countries there are republics, and no European nation has staked out any claim. All are potentially wealthy and ready buyers of things to improve their economic standing. They are, as a rule, temporarily financially embarrassed, but with credit they can and will buy much more.

American exporters and importers would do well to cultivate this trade. The other trading nations are doing it, fashioning their business operations to make them conform with South American standards. The United States can do the same, and being much closer, press an advantage that Europe does not possess.

The star of trade empire moves southward. The United States must follow it or be lost in the scuffle for trade advantages.

Tobacco Sales to Open In Lynchburg Market

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The Lynchburg tobacco market opened today for the sale of the 1932 crop with offerings which will block before night all sorts of conveyances arriving to add to the congested conditions around the warehouse.

Prices were said to be about 100 per cent higher than last year, the first 25,000 pounds selling at an average of $11.12.

Canadian Potato Crop Is Less Than '32 Yield

Ottawa, Ontario, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The potato crop this year was considerably below 1931, said a crop report issued today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The yield of potatoes placed at 39,249,000 cwt., compares with 52,305,000 cwt. in 1931, a decrease of 13,056,000 cwt. or 25 per cent. The area decreased by 48,226 acres while the yield per acre dropped from 90 cwt. in 1931 to 73 cwt. in 1932.

CURB SINKS LOWER IN CHANGING PRICES

Late Rally Reduces Losses in Day's Turnover of 180,000 Shares.

New York, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The curb market blew alternately hot and cold today, prices closing irregularly lower, although a late rally erased much of earlier losses which had ranged from fractions to 2 points or more. Transfers approximated 180,000 shares against 210,000 yesterday.

Electric Bond & Share continued to hold the limelight of trading activity. This stock accounted for about two-fifths of the entire trading for the day. It swung in a relatively narrow range, about 2 points, and closed at only a scant fractional loss. Doubt over the company's common dividend of 6 per cent, payable in stock, was expressed in some quarters as a result of United Gas Corporation's action in halving its preferred disbursement. Directors meet for dividend action on the Bond & Share stocks tomorrow.

Other utilities showed little net change. American Superpower, Cities Service and United Light & Power "A" showed small losses, while American Gas & Electric and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore were fractionally higher. Niagara Hudson Power was unchanged.

Deere & Co. and Aluminum Co., which have moved rather widely in recent trading, closed without change. The Ford issues, particularly Ford of Canada "A," met some selling, closing fractionally lower. Pan-American Airways was down 2 on light dealings.

Gulf Oil reacted more than a point, but other petroleum securities were steady. Standard of Indiana and Standard of Kentucky closing unchanged.

PERPETUAL BUILDING CLOSES BEST YEAR

Assets of $30,500,000 Reveal Net Increase of $4,000,000.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Reporting the recently closed fiscal year as the best in the history of their organization, officials of the Perpetual Building Association announced assets of more than $30,500,000 in that association yesterday following the annual meeting of shareholders.

This represents an increase of approximately $4,000,000 during the year and the largest growth of any building association in the country for that period with the exception of one formed by a consolidation of several associations on the Pacific Coast.

The increase in surplus and undivided profits during the period was also the largest in the existence of the Perpetual association, which is now paying more than $1,200,000 in dividends to shareholders each year.

All officers and directors of the association were reelected as follows: James Berry, president; Arthur G. Bishop, vice president; Edward C. Baltz, secretary; Marvin A. Custis, treasurer; Raymond K. Espey, assistant secretary; John C. Scofield, Vernon G. Owen, Franklin W. Harper, Dr. William G. Schafhirt.

The association, organized in 1881, is the third largest financial institution in the city, and the largest building association in Washington. Its rank is ninth among United States Building and Loan League member associations and fourteenth among those of the Nation.

Alfred Chester Flather, a comanager of the Washington office of G. M.-P. Murphy & Co., was elected a director of Washington Airport, Inc., at the monthly meeting of the corporation's board yesterday. Other directors of the corporation are: Edward O. McDonnell, New York, a partner in G. M.-P. Murphy & Co.; Charles Carroll Morgan, another comanager of the Murphy company's Washington office; Hugh Reid, Arlington County, Va.; Howard Sutherland, a former senator from West Virginia, and present Alien Property Custodian, A. P. Adams, New York, and Frank F. Russell, who recently came here from New York to take charge of the airport.

Boots and Shoes Ordered.

Philadelphia, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The quartermaster's department of the Army awarded contracts for 10,008 pairs of shoes to the International Shoe Co., of St. Louis, and for 33,908 pairs of boots to the Joseph M. Herman Shoe Co., of Boston.

COTTON UNCHANGED TO 2 POINTS LOWER

December Closes at 6.27 After Advance to 6.40; Liverpool Hedges.

New York, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Cotton was quiet today. Advances from a slight opening decline on trade buying and covering were followed by reactions under local selling and liquidation, promoted by the action of the grain and stock markets. December contracts after advancing from 6.27 to 6.40 during the early trading, broke to 6.24 and closed at 6.27, the general market closing steady, net unchanged to 2 points lower.

Near months were relatively easy at the opening in response to disappointing Liverpool cables and scattered selling. There was some buying here for Liverpool and Far Eastern account on the rally which carried May from 6.52 to 6.66 and the general list about 12 to 14 points above yesterday's close.

Other Markets Followed.

The market reacted during the afternoon in sympathy with the easier stock and grain markets. May sold off to 6.50 or about 16 points from the best and 5 points net lower with the general list showing net losses of about 3 to 5 points. Final quotations were 3 or 4 points up from the lowest.

The report from the Census Bureau placing domestic consumption for October at 502,244 bales against 461,023 for October last year was about in line with expectations and without apparent effect on the market.

Liverpool cables said trade calling had been supplied by hedging and liquidation inspired by the easier ruling of Egyptian cotton. Egyptian cotton futures in Alexandria were 15 to 18 points lower for Ashmouni and 27 to 28 for Sakalleridis. Exports today were 32,434, making 2,559,089 so far this season. Port receipts, 91,993. U. S. port stocks, 4,579,459.

BEET SUGAR PLANTS PROVIDE MANY JOBS

C. S. Young Back in Capital From Inspection Tour of Bumper Crops.

Almost 18,000 days of factory-work opportunity are being provided this winter by the beet sugar industry in the United States, according to Charles S. Young, representative of the United States Beet Sugar Association. Mr. Young has just returned from a tour of the Middle West to investigate conditions in agriculture and industry.

"While employment in the beet sugar industry is not at normal capacity throughout the eighteen States interested in this farm-factory employment opportunity, there are bumper crops in certain sections which help hold up a satisfactory average," Mr. Young said here today.

"I have just completed a tour of eighteen beet sugar States and it is especially gratifying at this time to see so many clouds of steam against the Western skies."

Operate 24 Hours Daily.

Beet sugar factories, according to Mr. Young, operate 24 hours a day, seven days a week, during the sugar-manufacturing period. Three shifts of eight hours each is the work opportunity.

Normally, the sugar manufacturing "campaign," as it is called, is of 100 days duration during the fall and winter months, and if the factories could be operated on a straight eight-hour day basis, this would mean 300 days for each plant.

However, Mr. Young said, this is not a normal year in all parts of the country because of lack of rain and resulting curtailment of irrigation over large areas.

"Southeastern and western Colorado, southeastern Wyoming and Utah have suffered from lack of water this summer," he said, "and some of the factories will be operated for less than 50 days.

California Aids Average.

California, however, will be able to bring the general average up to 80 days, so that the 74 factories being operated will provide work for factory hands of 5,920 days of 24 hours each, or 17,760 work days of eight hours each."

"This," Mr. Young concluded, "is in addition to the agricultural labor. About 100,000 grow sugar beets in eighteen States, and more than 100,000 additional farm help, railroad workers, truck drivers and others are provided with employment during the best harvest and sugar manufacturing campaign.

"More than $50,000,000 will be paid the farmers of eighteen beet sugar States for their beets, by beet sugar manufacturers, during this year's campaign."

Goods Markets Steady.

New York, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Cotton goods held steady today with the demand for colored goods showing more breadth. Overcoatings are selling in moderate lots and spring men's wear lines are being engaged, chiefly staples and tropical suitings. Rayon producers are well supplied with business into January. Burlaps were unchanged.

Business Failures Decline.

New York, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—R. G. Dun & Co. reported that business failures last week declined to 495, compared with 537 for the previous week and 531 for the same week last year.

WHEAT VALUES DROP ON CANADIAN SALES

Heavy Dominion Deliveries and British Tariff News Hit All Grains.

Chicago, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Unsettled by enlarged rural deliveries of Canadian wheat and the new British tariff handicapping shipments from this country, all grain values here averaged lower today.

Preferences amounting to 6 cents a bushel on Canadian wheat consigned direct to Great Britain went into effect today, and Winnipeg reported arrivals of wheat from the hands of Canadian growers amounted to 1,924 cars, compared with 1,296 a week ago, and 1,471 at this time last year. Instability of the New York stock market and of wheat prices at Minneapolis were contributing bearish factors, together with suggestions of likelihood of much enlarged wheat yields this season in Australia and Argentina.

Wheat closed unsettled ⅝ to ⅞ under yesterday's finish; corn, ¼ to ½ down; oats, unchanged to ⅛ off, and provisions unchanged to 15 cents decline.

Exchange Gives Jolt.

Giving an added jolt to the wheat market was 2 points setback in British exchange. Meanwhile, southern hemisphere advices indicated likelihood of the largest Australian wheat crop in recent years and of 35,000,000 to 55,000,000 bushels more than last year in Argentina. Relative weakness of wheat values at Minneapolis was attributed in some quarters to selling on the part of United States Government-sponsored sources.

Transient rallies in Chicago wheat prices accompanied a spurt of buying for houses with connections past, the market here rising to more than a cent a bushel from the early bottom figures, but only to fall afterward lower than before, and finish at the day's bottom. The fleeting upturn was associated with unfavorable reports concerning domestic winter wheat, which was said not to be showing the growth and stand usually attained before winter sets in. Some fears of a cold wave overspreading the Southwest were likewise expressed, and it was asserted no moisture of consequence had been received in dry areas either West or Southwest.

Corn and oats followed wheat. A sale of about 400,000 bushels of corn to starch manufacturers in the East had no lasting market effect.

Provisions went lower with hog values.

Prince Georges County Saved $3,000 at Polls

By reducing the salaries of Prince Georges County election officials, the county has been saved about $3,000, it was said yesterday by Samuel A. Wyvill, clerk to the board of election supervisors.

This year's elections cost only $18,759, compared with $21,867 last year. The payments made to all election officials were cut 10 per cent after the 1930 balloting, and the board also postponed division of several large precincts in order to make further economies.

A petition bearing about 500 names, asking that the road from Cheverly through Columbia Park to Landover be taken over by the State, was presented to the Prince Georges County commissioners yesterday. It was ordered filed.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

EXPOSING himself to the possibility of being bitten by deadly rattlesnakes is an everyday occurrence for W. O. Read, who operates a rattlesnake farm in Fresno, Calif., to obtain the deadly poison for use in snake bite antitoxin. Mr. Read has been struck so many times by rattlers that he is immune to their poison.

His record was 288 times when he and his reptiles were being filmed for Strange As It Seems movie No. 23—then while the cameras were trained on him another snake sank its fangs into his flesh. For the ordinary person this would mean probable death, but to Read it is nothing more serious than a pin prick.

Mr. Read's farm is stocked with 800 of the deadly snakes, trained by him to strike at chamois stretched over containers. The poison is in this way "milked" from the snakes' glands, and collected in containers. The venom crystallizes and it requires 2,000 milkings to make one ounce in crystal form.

. . . .

The United States Patent Office issued letters of patent No. 587,358 for an anti-snoring gag to be worn by people who disturb others by nocturnal trumpeting. The device, simplicity in itself, consists of a bit-like wooden stick with holes cut in it. The bit is held in the wearer's mouth by an elastic band which passes about the head.

The theory is, according to the application for patent, that snoring is caused by too much air coming into the mouth. The gag is designed to prevent this.

For further proof, address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. JOHN HIX.

THE ONCE OVER

H. I. PHILLIPS

THOSE WAR DEBTS AGAIN.

THE war debts are up again, with nobody able to pay them and with an increasing prospect that Uncle Sam will have to charge them off to experience, losses by storm, and misplaced confidence.

* * * *

We went into the World War to help the Allies out of a hole and now we are all in the excavation together.

* * * *

It begins to look as if it would have been cheaper to have lost the war. In fact, the loser's end looks a little better. The one certain thing is that nobody has an idea of paying us in full, and that whatever we get will be so much velvet.

* * * *

Europe's attitude is that you can't get blood out of a stone nor money out of hard-boiled eggs. What is now desired by Great Britain and France is an extension of the moratorium and a "further exchange of views."

* * * *

Both countries are willing to give us $95,000,000 worth of reasons why they can't pay. And charge us interest.

* * * *

There are those who are contending that we might as well wipe out the debts as never to collect. A letter of thanks is better than no acknowledgment at all.

* * * *

The world is bankrupt and it thinks it would be a grand gesture for America to pay the receiver's fees.

* * * *

It all comes down to the question of "the capacity to pay." The allies have no capacity to pay, but ample capacity for argument and rebuttal.

* * * *

It used to be considered among nations that payment of a loan was a sacred obligation to be paid in full, but the question raised by them all today is, "With what?"

* * * *

We may have to waive money and settle in some other way. One suggestion is that we settle with England in return for Lady Peel, George Bernard Shaw, the picture rights to the Prince of Wales and an 80 per cent cut on the receipts for the Derby sweepstakes.

* * * *

In the case of France we might swap our bills for Maurice Chevalier, a half interest in the French wine cellars and complete control of the Paris souvenir postcard industry.

* * * *

In the meantime President Hoover has invited President-elect Roosevelt to come to Washington and discuss the matter. But Mr. Roosevelt may be barred by the intercollegiate rule which forbids early practice before the big games.

* * * *

President Hoover tells Gov. Roosevelt that he may bring any Democratic adviser he wishes to the Washington conference on debt problems. Al Smith has been suggested, but may refuse on the grounds of a non-scouting agreement.

A 7-TO-7 TOSS-UP.

Yale and Princeton have held the annual classic and the delicate question of which is the worst football team remains unsettled.

* * * *

The White House now becomes to President Hoover merely a Winter Palace.

LOOT TOTAL MOUNTS AS THEFT SERIES IN DISTRICT CONTINUES

Number of Apartments and Parked Cars Entered and Valuables Taken.

During the last several weeks every section of the city has had an alarming number of housebreakings, most of them jimmy jobs. A check up of the burglary reports at only one precinct, the Eighth, which covers a fashionable section of the city, last night showed that sixteen jimmy jobs had been reported, with thefts amounting to more than $4,000 since November 1.

Two of that number were reported yesterday, both being in an apartment house at 2915 Connecticut avenue. Miss Minnie F. Dean, a teacher at the Roosevelt High School, reported that the door to her apartment was jimmied, and articles valued at more than $700 were stolen. The loot included several heirlooms.

An apartment occupied by Miss Martha E. Hughes and Miss Vernita Branson, across the hall from Miss Dean's, was also entered and jewelry and clothing valued at $1,225 stolen.

Mrs. Thelma Fugett, 1366 Shepherd street northwest, widow of Policeman William Fugett, reported $700 worth of jewelry was stolen from her apartment. It is believed a duplicate key was used by the burglar.

Jewelry and Clothing Stolen.

Miss Bessie Levinson, 1629 Columbia road northwest, reported that jewelry and clothing valued at $53 were stolen from her apartment, the door to which was jimmied.

Mrs. Sadie Morris, 1919 Sixth street northwest, reported the theft of clothing valued at $75 from her apartment.

Mrs. J. H. Polkingham, 3154 Monroe street northwest, also reported that clothing and jewelry valued at $500 were stolen from her apartment.

The theft of two fur coats, valued at $300, was reported by John C. Royle, 4721 Bladgen terrace northwest. He said the burglary occurred during the absence of the family since October 31.

ELM TREE PLANTED AT PARK VIEW RITE

Playground and Playhouse Dedicated Before Crowd; Gibbs Is Speaker.

With singing, speechmaking and the planting of a Chinese elm tree as features of the occasion, the Park View playground and playhouse was dedicated last night in the presence of officials of a number of organizations and citizens of the community.

John Marshall Gibbs, of the District Bicentennial Commission, in the principal address, declared that the recreational center was actually the possession of the children who are now using it, as they will also reap the benefit of the improvement when their own children come into the world. He observed that embedded in the planting of the tree should be the ideals of integrity, loyalty and patriotism.

The tree and marker were presented by Mrs. P. B. Ashburn, president of the Woman's Club, and were accepted by Miss Sybil Baker, supervisor of playgrounds. The following took part in the planting of the tree:

Miss Emily Scrivener, principal of the Park View Platoon School; Miss Baker, Miss Frances Cooper, secretary of the Community Center; Mrs. Ashburn, Mrs. Harvey Haun, president of the Parent-Teacher Association; George E. Frech, acting president of the Park View Citizens Association, and Miss Emily Tilton, director of the playground.

An expression of praise for organizations of the community for their activities in behalf of the playground was given by John S. Cole, District Boy Scout official. Bugle solos were given before and after the planting by William Day, and Mrs. W. H. Wagner offered a rendition of "The Trees." The invocation and benediction were by the Rev. Walter F. Smith. Mr. Frech presided.

G. W. ORATORY WON BY RICHARD TILDEN

Elizabeth Reeves Is Second and Seymour Mintz Is Third in Contest.

First prize in the annual Davis prize speaking contest at George Washington University last night was awarded to Richard Tilden, law school senior. "Centralized Control of Industry" was Tilden's subject.

Elizabeth Reeves was awarded second prize, and Seymour Mintz third. The former took as her subject "Socialism and the Next Era," while the latter's topic was "Capitalism Has Not Broken Down."

In his argument for centralized control of industry, Tilden declared: "The present state of distress is a tale of too much wheat and not enough bread; too much cotton and not enough clothes; too many bricks and not enough houses; too much drudgery and not enough jobs."

Miss Reeves said that "Socialism is the hope of the people who seek to right" evils she cited as current in industry. Socialism, she said, has been freed of "its sinister connotations and now appears as a struggle for security and justice."

Mintz cited the recovery of the world and the Nation from previous depressed economic conditions in other times.

Judges were Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of schools in the District; S. Chesterfield Oppenheim, of the law faculty, and Gilbert L. Hall, attorney. Prof. Elmer Louis Kayser presided. The contest dates back to 1847 at the local university.

INSURANCE CONCERN IS RULED INSOLVENT; RECEIVER APPOINTED

Joseph Oliver, Baltimore, to Direct Liquidation of Great National Firm.

Appointment of Joseph Oliver, of Baltimore, as permanent receiver for the Great National Insurance Co. was announced yesterday by Justice Joseph W. Cox in District Supreme Court in the case of Joseph A. Burkart against the insurance company.

In appointing the permanent receiver, Justice Cox ruled that the company is insolvent, that it can no longer carry on its business as an insurance company and that its assets should be liquidated for the benefit of creditors.

Offices Moved Twice.

Mr. Oliver, the permanent receiver, is a certified public accountant, specializing in insurance and banking problems. He succeeds Henry I. Quinn and George W. S. Musgrave, temporary receivers, who were named pending final hearing of the case.

During the hearing it was brought out that while the Great National Insurance Co. was incorporated in the District of Columbia, it later was merged with the National Fidelity Insurance Co. of Baltimore and headquarters moved to Baltimore. Still later the offices were moved to Newark, N. J.

Testimony on Control.

Testimony at the hearing also tended to show that actual control of the company was held by a group of persons not officers nor directors of the company. Alleged irregularities involving investments of the company were uncovered by Herbert L. Davis, superintendent of insurance of the District, who testified in the case.

The court order, appointing the permanent receiver, also provided full payment for the temporary receivers and payment to W. Gwynn Gardiner as attorney for the receivers. Mr. Gardiner and Spencer Gordon were named attorneys for the permanent receiver.

MEMORIAL HIGHWAY DEDICATED AT RITES

Fess Presides at Unveiling of Marker Outside Gates of Mt. Vernon.

Yesterday's Indian Summer afternoon saw members of the United States Bicentennial Commission formally dedicate the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway "to the service of the people."

The rites, attended by several hundred, were held just outside the gates of Mount Vernon. Senator Simeon D. Fess, vice chairman of the commission, presided, and unveiled the marker—a bronze plaque on a large bowlder of native stone.

Senator Fess described the road as a fulfillment of a yearning of the people for a better access from Washington to Mount Vernon.

"It was appropriate," he said, "that a great boulevard skirting a new right of way along the river, free from the inconvenience of commercial interruptions, devoted wholly to the purpose of a visit to this hallowed spot, should be constructed as a permanent memorial of the Bicentennial year."

Secretary Hyde Speaks.

Secretary of Agriculture, Arthur M. Hyde, declared the highway completed. He paid tribute to the citizens of Virginia and the Capital who aided the construction. The road was built by Bureau of Public Roads of the Agriculture Department.

Nine-year-old Alice B. Dorsey, of Baltimore, sprinkled earth from many of the places where Washington made history in front of the marker. The earth was collected by her mother, Mrs. James H. Dorsey, from Wakefield, Mount Vernon, Cambridge, Mass.; Perry Farm, Valley Forge and other spots associated with Washington.

The plaque, which was stripped of the American flag which covered it by Senator Fess, is inscribed as follows:

"The Mount Vernon Memorial Highway was authorized by Congress May 23, 1928, as an activity of the United States commission for the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington. The highway was designed and constructed under the direction of the United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Public Roads. Construction started September 12, 1929. Open to traffic January 16, 1932. This highway was formally dedicated to the service of the people November 15, 1932."

Many in Attendance.

Custody of the highway was officially turned over to Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of public buildings and public parks.

Among those attending the ceremonies were Luther H. Reichelderfer, president of the Board of District Commissioners; members of the American Association of State Highway Officials now in convention here, and members of the Fine Arts Commission, the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and the Bureau of Public Roads.

Medal Awarded Ollie Schriver.

Ollie M. Schriver, marksmanship officer, was given a gold medal in recognition of his service as coach of the American Legion rifle team at a meeting last night of Vincent B. Costello Post.

Relatives discovered the body and called the Fire Rescue Squad. A Casualty Hospital physician pronounced her dead.

Child's Death in Street Is Declared Accidental

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of accidental death after investigating the fatal accident Monday in which 3-year-old Harriet Monashkin was instantly killed by a truck while playing in front of her home at 2410 Nichols avenue southeast. She was the youngest of five children.

William C. Lane, 40, of Baltimore, Md., who was operating the vehicle, was absolved of blame after the dead child's playmate testified that little Harriet left her while they were playing and dashed into the side of the truck.
